McCarthy Fires Back At Truman

Hearing Told Spy Ring May Still Be Active

Greenglass Names Julius Rosenberg As "Mastermind"

NEW YORK, Nov. 24 (AP)—Imprisoned atom spy David Greenglass, in a sworn deposition, today named Julius Rosenberg as mastermind of a Russian radar spy ring that may still exist.

Sen. Joseph R. McCarthy (R-Wis) read the deposition into the record of his Senate Permanent Investigations subcommittee at a public hearing that has developed into a "put up or shut up" test of his radar spy charges.

In part, Greenglass said of his brother-in-law, Rosenberg, the atom spy he helped send to the electric chair:

"I learned that the Rosenberg ring took and obtained secrets from the Army Signal Corps and transmitted them to Russia . . ."

May Still Be Operating

During the recent interview at Lewisburg, Pa., federal penitentiary where he is serving 15 years, Greenglass was asked:

"When did the operation of the Rosenberg spy ring, which had as its purpose the obtaining of radar secrets for Russia, stop?"

"As far as I know," was Greenglass' reply, "these operations never stopped and could very possibly be continuing to this very day."

On Oct. 15, during private subcommittee hearings, McCarthy claimed evidence that Rosenberg's atomic spy ring also dealt in radar secrets. He added there was a "strong possibility" the same ring still was active at Ft. Monmouth, N. J. headquarters of the Signal Corps' top secret radar defense program.

Deposition McCarthy's "Proof"

The Army, in its own investigation of Ft. Monmouth, said it found no evidence of current spying into radar defenses against atomic attack.

Critics then called on McCarthy to offer some proof of his claim of "extremely dangerous espionage" at Ft. Monmouth.

McCarthy's answer was a public hearing, which began today. He indicated he will offer evidence and let the American people decide whether he exaggerated the Ft. Monmouth situation.

"Strongest Censure" Of Israel For Jordan Raid Is Voted In U.N.

PLEA IGNORED—The U. N. Security Council yesterday voted "the strongest censure" of Israel for its raid on the Jordan village of Kibya in which 53 Arabs were killed, ignoring the plea of Israeli Ambassador Abba Eban (above), who charged this was stronger language than the council had used against any other country.

Council Ignores Appeal By Envoy

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y., Nov. 24 (AP)—The U.N. Security Council today voted "the strongest censure" of Israel for its Oct. 14 raid on the Jordan village of Kibya in which 53 Arabs were killed.

The council ordered Israel to prevent all such actions in the future.

Israeli Ambassador Abba Eban charged this was stronger language than the council had used against any other country—including the Communist aggressors in Korea. He said the censure was the "worst possible prelude" to the direct peace talks between Jordan and Israel for which he called yesterday.

Vote Is 9 To 0

The vote in the 11-nation council — highest U.N. body and the only one with authority to order its decisions enforced — was 9-0 with two abstentions.

Neither Jordan nor Israel are council members. They had no vote. The Soviet Union abstained on the censure motion which was introduced in the council by Britain, France and the United States. The Russian delegate made no speech on the subject one way or another during the month-long debate. Lebanon abstained on the vote, because it wanted a stronger denunciation of Israel.

Eban's Pleas Ignored

Eban made a rush trip to Washington today. He conferred for 90 minutes with Secretary of State Dulles in a last-ditch effort to have the condemnation toned down and to gain American support for direct talks between the feuding parties.

The Israeli delegate then hurried back here where he made an impassioned 75-minute plea to the council not to pass the censure resolution.

The council ignored Eban's pleas and went ahead. The sponsors did, however, change their resolution to take note of Eban's act yesterday in invoking Article 12 of the Israeli-Jordan armistice agreement. This article calls for the two nations to hold direct talks on peace.

U. N., Commission In Dispute Over POW Talk Plans

PANMUNJOM, Wednesday, Nov. 25 (AP)—The United Nations Command disclosed yesterday it also is locked in dispute with the repatriation commission over plans for "come home" talks with Allied prisoners.

With only 24 explanation days remaining, the U.N. Command has not yet begun its interviews and has been sparring with the five-nation commission since Nov. 11.

The nub of the quarrel is this: the Command wants to use 15 explainers while the commission says it is entitled only to five. There are 22 Americans, 1 Briton and 328 South Koreans to be interviewed.

The U.N. Command has indicated it would like to get the explanations rolling by early December.

The Communists in their own dispute with the commission now have refused to hold interviews for nine days. It is unlikely they ever will resume them. The Reds were rejected by 97 per cent of 2,431 captives interviewed. About 20,000 North Koreans and Chinese prisoners remain in Panmunjom's stockades.

In a nearby conference hut, U.S. envoy Arthur Dean and Communist delegates argued over arrangements for a Korean peace conference. Dean ridiculed Red proposals that the conference be convened in this village of huts and tents.

Senator Says Reds Will Be Top '54 Issue

Charges HST Went To Bat For Man Who Adopted Communism

NEW YORK, Nov. 24 (AP)—Sen. Joseph R. McCarthy (R-Wis) charged tonight that former President Truman intervened against the dismissal from government service of George Shaw Wheeler, who later deserted to communism.

In a widely heralded answer to Truman's speech of a week ago, McCarthy claimed "the Truman Democrat (sic) administration was crawling with Communists."

And McCarthy flatly took issue with President Eisenhower's recent comment that he hoped communism will not be an issue in the 1954 elections.

Said the Wisconsin senator in a speech prepared for nationwide radio and television networks:

"The raw, harsh, unpleasant fact is that communism is an issue and will be an issue in 1954."

Issue Put Up To People

McCarthy put it flatly up to the American people, if they disagree with his tactics, to defeat any Republican up for election next year.

If they believe in his work, McCarthy added, then let them keep the GOP in power.

As examples of Communists in the previous administration, McCarthy cited the late Harry Dexter White and Harold Glasser. Then he added:

"Another case in which Truman intervened in behalf of a Communist agent was the case of George Shaw Wheeler. On April 13, 1950, Wheeler who had been working for the U. S. government in Europe, deserted to the Communist cause, denouncing the 'Gestapo methods' of the U.S. and stating that he was going to stand 'proudly with the Soviet regime.'

"Wheeler then disappeared behind the Iron Curtin.

Wheeler Found "Unfit"

"As early as 1944 the Civil Service Commission loyalty board had found Wheeler unfit for government service because of his membership in the Communist party. The record is replete with evidence of espionage on his part.

"On Oct. 4, 1944, the then Sen. Harry Truman, who was a candidate for the vice presidency on the Democrat ticket, wrote a three-page letter to the Civil Service Commission denouncing the commission in the strongest language for the procedure they followed in ordering the dismissal of Wheeler.

"In October of 1945, after Harry Truman became President, the Civil Service Commission reversed itself and ordered Wheeler reinstated."

In April of 1950, Wheeler sought "asylum" in Communist Czechoslovakia. He worked for the Labor Department, the War Production Board and the military government in postwar Germany. He was fired from the last job in 1947.

Dulles Sees No Lasting Strain On Friendship

Whether Probers Question Gouzenko Up To Ex-Red Clerk

WASHINGTON, Nov. 24 (AP)—Secretary of State Dulles today discounted any lasting strain on the traditional friendship between the United States and Canada arising from explosive offshoots of the Harry Dexter White spy case.

Dulles expressed this view shortly before Canadian authorities changed signals and agreed to let ex-Russian Igor Gouzenko talk with U.S. investigators, if he wants to do so.

Canadian Foreign Minister Lester B. Pearson made the announcement to newsmen in New York as a tug-of-war over the question of Gouzenko's testimony threatened to mushroom into an international incident.

Next Move Up To Gouzenko

Pearson said it is up to Gouzenko whether he wants to risk disclosure of his long-secret hiding place in Canada, as well as his hidden identity, by talking with Senate spy hunters.

Pearson also declared that Canadian authorities have already sent "every scrap of information" on spy activities to Washington and FBI agents have sat in at Canadian interrogations of Gouzenko.

Before Pearson made his announcement, Dulles told his news conference he hoped Canada would reply in a spirit of friendliness to requests by Senate investigators for the privilege of quizzing Gouzenko. Dulles further remarked that he thought it was entirely proper for congressional committees to make such a request, when channelled through the State Department.

Gouzenko is the one-time Soviet Embassy code clerk in Ottawa who fled his Red masters and exposed the operations of a Russian spy ring in Canada in 1946.

Dulles went out of his way to praise Pearson, whose own name has figured in bitter side phases of the current spy controversy in this country. Dulles called Pearson a vigorous foe of communism.

Sees Friendship Surviving

As for any rift in U.S.-Canadian relations, Dulles said confidently he believes the long-established bonds of friendship between the two countries will survive the present controversy.

Two Senate inquiry groups—One headed by Sen. Jenner (R-Ind), the other by Sen. McCarthy (R-Wis)—are seeking to find out whether Gouzenko has any new evidence bearing on Soviet espionage in the United States.

Canadian authorities rejected the Jenner subcommittee's original request for permission to question Gouzenko. Then published reports that Gouzenko himself said he might be able to help U.S. investigators prompted the subcommittee to submit a second formal request.

The McCarthy subcommittee filed a similar request.

Dulles Agrees Total Disarming Of Japan Error

WASHINGTON, Nov. 24 (AP)—Secretary of State Dulles agreed today the United States made a mistake in totally disarming defeated Germany and Japan after the last war.

Dulles told a news conference he concurs with Vice President Nixon said that "we misjudged the intentions of the Soviet leaders" after the war, and that this error is hurting the West in the cold war with Russian-led communism.

Natural Mistake

It was a natural mistake, Dulles said, because many persons, himself included, believed that after the war ended the world was embarking on an era of lasting peace.

In answering questions, Dulles said flatly he agreed with Nixon and added that he also believed the United States went too far in stripping Nazi Germany of its navy, air force and army.

The secretary noted that Western nations have now reversed some of this disarmament policy and are trying to rearm both nations as allies against possible Communist aggression in Europe and the Far East.

Eichelberger Agrees

Gen. Robert L. Eichelberger, the American who supervised the disarmament of Japan in 1946, said today that he, too, now feels that it was a mistake to destroy Japan's defensive power.

"At the time we were under the cloud of having fought Japan and it seemed the logical thing to do," Eichelberger, now retired, said by telephone from his home in Asheville, N.C.

"But I saw the other side early and realized that we needed a friend in Japan if the Russians got stronger and meaner."

Prisoners To Miss George This Year

OKLAHOMA CITY, Nov. 24 (AP)—Prisoners in the Oklahoma City jail have been promised a Thanksgiving dinner with all the trimmings — but the dessert course is bound to be a flop.

One of the regular patrons of the jail, known only as George, boasts the reputation of being the best pastry cook in these parts. His culinary skill is surpassed, say his fellow prisoners, only by his thirst for an occasional toddy, which keeps him in the hoosegow a great deal of the time.

But, alas, George will not be on hand this Thanksgiving, for the second straight year. Last year, the city cops were caught flat-footed by County Sheriff Bob Turner, who caught George first.

The jail grapevine hears that George is being held now in the county jail at nearby Norman.

Lodge Asks U. N. To Reject Soviet Peace Proposals

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y., Nov. 24 (AP)—The United States urged the United Nations today to reject Russia's latest proposals for easing world tension as either unsound or unnecessary. It urged the Soviet Union, in the interest of American friendship, to "give up seeking the violent overthrow of the U. S. government."

Henry Cabot Lodge Jr., head of the American delegation, made these appeals in the General Assembly's 60-nation political committee, debating the Russian five-point plan. He said he was hopeful of the eventual end of a "hate campaign from behind the Iron curtain."

Opposition Natural

Lodge remarked it was natural that many Americans and the bulk of the press should lack affection for the Soviet ruling group, "given the fact that it admits that it is plotting our destruction."

He told Andrei Y. Vishinsky, chief Soviet delegate, that an easy way for the Russians to change this attitude would be "for them to change their policies and for the Communist party to give up seeking the violent overthrow of the U. S. government."

"We are not discouraged. We still hope," Lodge concluded. "We believe that the day will come when this hate campaign from behind the Iron Curtain will cease.

U. S. Has No Choice

"But it has not ceased yet, and as long as it goes on we have no choice, as realistic men and women, but to recognize that fact."

Vishinsky himself had opened debate on this plan last Thursday, calling it old but still good.

It would have the assembly: 1. Ban atomic, hydrogen and other weapons of mass destruction. 2. Recommend a big-power arms cut of one-third in a year. 3. Recognize that bases of one nation on others' territories threaten peace. 4. Urge the Security Council to effect the elimination of such bases. 5. Call on all governments to abolish war propaganda.

Drug Companies Rapped At Probe

WASHINGTON, Nov. 24 (AP)—An Oklahoma state legislator today accused Eastern drug manufacturers of blocking legislation aimed at curbing illegal narcotics use in his home state.

The charge was made at a Senate hearing by state representative Robert O. Cunningham of Oklahoma City, who earlier this year headed a legislative commission that looked into the Oklahoma drug problem.

Cunningham told a Senate subcommittee investigating juvenile delinquency that "lobbying" by representatives of these manufacturers led to State Senate rejection of the control bill after it had passed the House.

Cunningham said these manufacturers, whom he did not identify, "set up shop" in Oklahoma City and "liquor flowed, talk flowed."

Cunningham said his investigation showed there 250 boys and girls in Oklahoma City were using barbiturates — "sleeping pills."

Pa. Greyhound Strike Called Off

The strike had been threatened for midnight tonight by the AFL Amalgamated Street, Electric Railway and Motor Coach Operators' Union in a 13-state area.

But William P. Arthur, president of the union's executive council, announced here the strike had been postponed to the Dec. 2 date at the request of the Federal Mediation Service. That announcement came after a session of the executive council.

Arthur, whose union represents some 1,700 employes in the Pennsylvania Greyhound System, announced the postponement after a conversation with Herbert Syme of Philadelphia, attorney for the union and consultation with the council.

Earlier, Whitley P. McCoy, director of the Federal Mediation Service, had asked Syme for a 10-day postponement of the strike, saying he would arrange conferences in Philadelphia Wednesday, Dec. 2.

Business Good Despite Smaller Fall Pickup

WASHINGTON, Nov. 24 (AP)—The Department of Commerce said today business in general continued at an active clip in September and October despite a smaller than ordinary fall pickup.

Despite scattered layoffs, unemployment remained at a postwar low. Production cutbacks, where they occurred, were mainly absorbed by reduced overtime. In many manufacturing industries, the report noted, the usual fall upspurt of employment did not take place.

BUENOS AIRES, Argentina, Nov. 24 (AP)—President Peron today called Congress to meet in special session Thursday to approve legislation freeing political prisoners and permitting Argentine exiles to return home.

Munitions Blast In Lisbon Kills 14 And Injures 200

LISBON, Portugal, Nov. 24 (AP)—A blast in a waterfront munitions factory killed 14 persons today, injured nearly 200 and wrecked roofs and windows for more than 200 yards around. It was believed set off by an explosion in a case of fuses.

The blast stopped clocks at 1:50 p.m., shortly after the workers had returned from lunch. It centered on the first floor of a building in the Braco Deprata Works where 87 men and apprentices test explosive mines. Some bodies were blown through the windows.

Men streaming blood began staggering from the wreckage while ambulances rushed to the scene. The hazard of many unexploded mines and grenades and 10,000 fuses lying in the debris complicated rescue work.

Unsinkable Swim Suit Here But Why It Floats Is Secret

WASHINGTON, Nov. 24 (AP)—And now, the unsinkable bathing suit.

The suit that has, so its makers claim, a built-in bouyancy to enable a dub (female) to float as nonchalantly as an Olympic champion.

The announcement said the suit would be on display at a local indoor pool, so your scientific observer hurried around to look at this latest marvel.

He arrived to find other scientific observers wolfing sandwiches and scientifically observing a couple of girls in bathing suits.

A harrassed looking man named Joe Shiller, in charge of the demonstration, was saying that one girl had on a regular suit while the other was wearing a newfangled one, to show that they were equally attractive.

"You can see that we are using normal every day girls in this demonstration," Shiller said, waving an arm not only at the girls in bathing suits but at other models standing decoratively about. "No champions, or anything like that."

A reporter asked what makes the suit float.

"That's a good question," Shiller said, clamming up like a man who is prepared to give his life before parting with any atomic secrets.

How come Shiller wasn't wearing a suit?

"So far we have only suits for women, although another company is making suits for children. No suits for men yet."

Trying to get at the heart of the matter, your observer interviewed a girl in a yellow suit. She disclosed (a) that the stuff that makes the suit float is on the sides and front, (b) that her name was Ruth Cloak, and (c) that when she isn't modelling she teaches the lucky, lucky fifth and sixth graders at the Post Road School near Havre de Grace, Md.

Kidnap-Slayers Ask Forgiveness

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo., Nov. 24 (AP)—The condemned and now penitent Greenlease kidnap killers were ordered today to undergo one more grilling adout the missing $300,000 ransom money they claim they never lost.

While Carl Austin Hall, 34, and his alcoholic paramour, Bonnie Brown Heady, 41, sought forgiveness for their crime from the parents of their victim, 6-year-old Bobby Greenlease, the federal government cleared the way for a new effort to trace the lost fortune.

Robert C. Greenlease paid $600,000 to the pair six days after his boy was abducted and murdered. Nearly $300,000 was recovered when St. Louis Police arrested the two Oct. 6. Arresting officers said that was all the money Hall had. The rest of the money vanished.

Hall, insisting that he had $592,000 of the ransom when he was caught, wrote Greenlease a letter begging forgiveness for killing Bobby, and said that he didn't know where the money had gone.

Mrs. Heady, who also wrote Bobby's parents a letter—made public in Kansas City today—failed to mention the ransom. Instead she sought to explain the crime and pleaded for forgiveness.

Inaugural Ceremonies Show $100,000 Profit

WASHINGTON, Nov. 24 (AP)—A profit of around $100,000 was made on President Eisenhower's inaugural ceremonies last January, officials of the Inaugural Committee said today.

The surplus is going to be distributed among charities, Committee Chairman Joseph C. McGarragby said. Just how probably will be announced within a couple of weeks.

Business firms and citizens of Washington who underwrote $684,680 of the costs of the three-day ceremonies have had their advances refunded.

Today's Chuckle

A motorist was picked up unconscious after a smash and was being carried to a nearby filling station. Opening his eyes enroute, he began to kick and struggle desperately to get away. Afterwards he explained that the first thing he saw was a "Shell" sign, and "Some guy was standing in front of the 'S.'"

Queen And Duke Tour Bermuda

HAMILTON, Bermuda, Nov. 24 (AP)—Queen Elizabeth II and the Duke of Edinburgh, Britain's round-the-world tourists, got a royal view today of the sights of Bermuda, a tourist mecca. The Queen said she was happy to be here.

The stratocruiser Canopus touched down with the young monarch and her husband under overcast skies at 9:55 a.m. (8:55 a.m. EST), exactly on time, for the first official stop of their trip to Commonwealth nations, possessions and protectorates that will keep them on the go until next May.

The two were immediately whisked away on a swift-paced round. The schedule called for them to remain here only 20 hours.

Streets were bedecked with flags wreaths and arches.

Attired in a blue silk summer dress with a tiny blue feathered hat, Elizabeth appeared serious most of the time. But the duke wore a broad grin and stopped on occasion to joke with dignitaries of the colony.

Friends Carry On Foster Mother's Fight For Child

ALBANY, Wis., Nov. 24 (AP)—Which best can guide a little boy's life — established maternal love or policy of state?

Wisconsin's Department of Public Welfare says that a child needs the care of both father and mother. And in line with that it took two-year-old Jeffrey from the arms of his weeping foster mother, Mrs. Dorothy Tschudy, who was widowed before Jeffrey's adoption could be accomplished.

Scores of Mrs. Tschudy's friends and neighbors gathered tonight in this southern Wisconsin village to carry on her fight for custody of the bright-eyed moppet she and her husband, Vernon, took into their home for their own back in March, 1952. Vernon died last April and Mrs. Tschudy has been seeking an exception to the state's policy ever since.

The 30-year-old widow wasn't present at the meeting called today to carry on her fight. She was hospitalized with shock and fatigue last Saturday, a few hours after she tearfully delivered the little boy to Department of Welfare custody at Madison.

But the fight itself was suggested yesterday by the very judge who ruled, on a point of law, that she must give up the child.

Green County Judge Harold J. Lamboley met with more than 100 of the Tschudy partisans Monday at Monroe, and advised them that if they wish to press the custody decision to retain counsel and plan an appeal to the Wisconsin Supreme Court.

Issue Put Up To People

McCarthy put it flatly up to the American people, if they disagree with his tactics, to defeat any Republican up for election next year.

If they believe in his work, McCarthy added, then let them keep the GOP in power.

As examples of Communists in the previous administration, McCarthy cited the late Harry Dexter White and Harold Glasser. Then he added:

"Another case in which Truman intervened in behalf of a Communist agent was the case of George Shaw Wheeler. On April 13, 1950, Wheeler who had been working for the U. S. government in Europe, deserted to the Communist cause, denouncing the 'Gestapo methods' of the U.S. and stating that he was going to stand 'proudly with the Soviet regime.'

"Wheeler then disappeared behind the Iron Curtin.

Wheeler Found "Unfit"

"As early as 1944 the Civil Service Commission loyalty board had found Wheeler unfit for government service because of his membership in the Communist party. The record is replete with evidence of espionage on his part.

"On Oct. 4, 1944, the then Sen. Harry Truman, who was a candidate for the vice presidency on the Democrat ticket, wrote a three-page letter to the Civil Service Commission denouncing the commission in the strongest language for the procedure they followed in ordering the dismissal of Wheeler.

"In October of 1945, after Harry Truman became President, the Civil Service Commission reversed itself and ordered Wheeler reinstated."

In April of 1950, Wheeler sought "asylum" in Communist Czechoslovakia. He worked for the Labor Department, the War Production Board and the military government in postwar Germany. He was fired from the last job in 1947.

Kidnap-Slayers Ask Forgiveness

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo., Nov. 24 (AP)—The condemned and now penitent Greenlease kidnap killers were ordered today to undergo one more grilling adout the missing $300,000 ransom money they claim they never lost.

While Carl Austin Hall, 34, and his alcoholic paramour, Bonnie Brown Heady, 41, sought forgiveness for their crime from the parents of their victim, 6-year-old Bobby Greenlease, the federal government cleared the way for a new effort to trace the lost fortune.

Robert C. Greenlease paid $600,000 to the pair six days after his boy was abducted and murdered. Nearly $300,000 was recovered when St. Louis Police arrested the two Oct. 6. Arresting officers said that was all the money Hall had. The rest of the money vanished.

Hall, insisting that he had $592,000 of the ransom when he was caught, wrote Greenlease a letter begging forgiveness for killing Bobby, and said that he didn't know where the money had gone.

Mrs. Heady, who also wrote Bobby's parents a letter—made public in Kansas City today—failed to mention the ransom. Instead she sought to explain the crime and pleaded for forgiveness.

LISBON, Portugal, Nov. 24 (AP)—A blast in a waterfront munitions factory killed 14 persons today, injured nearly 200 and wrecked roofs and windows for more than 200 yards around. It was believed set off by an explosion in a case of fuses.

The blast stopped clocks at 1:50 p.m., shortly after the workers had returned from lunch. It centered on the first floor of a building in the Braco Deprata Works where 87 men and apprentices test explosive mines. Some bodies were blown through the windows.

Men streaming blood began staggering from the wreckage while ambulances rushed to the scene. The hazard of many unexploded mines and grenades and 10,000 fuses lying in the debris complicated rescue work.

Dulles Agrees Total Disarming Of Japan Error

WASHINGTON, Nov. 24 (AP)—Secretary of State Dulles agreed today the United States made a mistake in totally disarming defeated Germany and Japan after the last war.

Dulles told a news conference he concurs with Vice President Nixon said that "we misjudged the intentions of the Soviet leaders" after the war, and that this error is hurting the West in the cold war with Russian-led communism.

Natural Mistake

It was a natural mistake, Dulles said, because many persons, himself included, believed that after the war ended the world was embarking on an era of lasting peace.

In answering questions, Dulles said flatly he agreed with Nixon and added that he also believed the United States went too far in stripping Nazi Germany of its navy, air force and army.

The secretary noted that Western nations have now reversed some of this disarmament policy and are trying to rearm both nations as allies against possible Communist aggression in Europe and the Far East.

Eichelberger Agrees

Gen. Robert L. Eichelberger, the American who supervised the disarmament of Japan in 1946, said today that he, too, now feels that it was a mistake to destroy Japan's defensive power.

"At the time we were under the cloud of having fought Japan and it seemed the logical thing to do," Eichelberger, now retired, said by telephone from his home in Asheville, N.C.

"But I saw the other side early and realized that we needed a friend in Japan if the Russians got stronger and meaner."

Inaugural Ceremonies Show $100,000 Profit

WASHINGTON, Nov. 24 (AP)—A profit of around $100,000 was made on President Eisenhower's inaugural ceremonies last January, officials of the Inaugural Committee said today.

The surplus is going to be distributed among charities, Committee Chairman Joseph C. McGarragby said. Just how probably will be announced within a couple of weeks.

Business firms and citizens of Washington who underwrote $684,680 of the costs of the three-day ceremonies have had their advances refunded.

One of the committee's main sources of revenue was sale of tickets to the people who filled the stands along the inaugural parade route.

Prisoners To Miss George This Year

OKLAHOMA CITY, Nov. 24 (AP)—Prisoners in the Oklahoma City jail have been promised a Thanksgiving dinner with all the trimmings — but the dessert course is bound to be a flop.

One of the regular patrons of the jail, known only as George, boasts the reputation of being the best pastry cook in these parts. His culinary skill is surpassed, say his fellow prisoners, only by his thirst for an occasional toddy, which keeps him in the hoosegow a great deal of the time.

But, alas, George will not be on hand this Thanksgiving, for the second straight year. Last year, the city cops were caught flatfooted by County Sheriff Bob Turner, who caught George first.

The jail grapevine hears that George is being held now in the county jail at nearby Norman.

Queen And Duke Tour Bermuda

HAMILTON, Bermuda, Nov. 24 (AP)—Queen Elizabeth II and the Duke of Edinburgh, Britain's round-the-world tourists, got a royal view today of the sights of Bermuda, a tourist mecca. The Queen said she was happy to be here.

The stratocruiser Canopus touched down with the young monarch and her husband under overcast skies at 9:55 a.m. (8:55 a.m. EST), exactly on time, for the first official stop of their trip to Commonwealth nations, possessions and protectorates that will keep them on the go until next May.

The two were immediately whisked away on a swift-paced round. The schedule called for them to remain here only 20 hours.

Streets were bedecked with flags wreaths and arches.

Attired in a blue silk summer dress with a tiny blue feathered hat, Elizabeth appeared serious most of the time. But the duke wore a broad grin and stopped on occasion to joke with dignitaries of the colony.

Lodge Asks U. N. To Reject Soviet Peace Proposals

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y., Nov. 24 (AP)—The United States urged the United Nations today to reject Russia's latest proposals for easing world tension as either unsound or unnecessary. It urged the Soviet Union, in the interest of American friendship, to "give up seeking the violent overthrow of the U. S. government."

Henry Cabot Lodge Jr., head of the American delegation, made these appeals in the General Assembly's 60-nation political committee, debating the Russian five-point plan. He said he was hopeful of the eventual end of a "hate campaign from behind the Iron curtain."

Opposition Natural

Lodge remarked it was natural that many Americans and the bulk of the press should lack affection for the Soviet ruling group, "given the fact that it admits that it is plotting our destruction."

He told Andrei Y. Vishinsky, chief Soviet delegate, that an easy way for the Russians to change this attitude would be "for them to change their policies and for the Communist party to give up seeking the violent overthrow of the U. S. government."

"We are not discouraged. We still hope," Lodge concluded. "We believe that the day will come when this hate campaign from behind the Iron Curtain will cease.

U. S. Has No Choice

"But it has not ceased yet, and as long as it goes on we have no choice, as realistic men and women, but to recognize that fact."

Vishinsky himself had opened debate on this plan last Thursday, calling it old but still good.

It would have the assembly: 1. Ban atomic, hydrogen and other weapons of mass destruction. 2. Recommend a big-power arms cut of one-third in a year. 3. Recognize that bases of one nation on others' territories threaten peace. 4. Urge the Security Council to effect the elimination of such bases. 5. Call on all governments to abolish war propaganda.

Friends Carry On Foster Mother's Fight For Child

ALBANY, Wis., Nov. 24 (AP)—Which best can guide a little boy's life — established maternal love or policy of state?

Wisconsin's Department of Public Welfare says that a child needs the care of both father and mother. And in line with that it took two-year-old Jeffrey from the arms of his weeping foster mother, Mrs. Dorothy Tschudy, who was widowed before Jeffrey's adoption could be accomplished.

Scores of Mrs. Tschudy's friends and neighbors gathered tonight in this southern Wisconsin village to carry on her fight for custody of the bright-eyed moppet she and her husband, Vernon, took into their home for their own back in March, 1952. Vernon died last April and Mrs. Tschudy has been seeking an exception to the state's policy ever since.

The 30-year-old widow wasn't present at the meeting called today to carry on her fight. She was hospitalized with shock and fatigue last Saturday, a few hours after she tearfully delivered the little boy to Department of Welfare custody at Madison.

But the fight itself was suggested yesterday by the very judge who ruled, on a point of law, that she must give up the child.

Green County Judge Harold J. Lamboley met with more than 100 of the Tschudy partisans Monday at Monroe, and advised them that if they wish to press the custody decision to retain counsel and plan an appeal to the Wisconsin Supreme Court.

Dulles Sees No Lasting Strain On Friendship

WASHINGTON, Nov. 24 (AP)—Secretary of State Dulles today discounted any lasting strain on the traditional friendship between the United States and Canada arising from explosive offshoots of the Harry Dexter White spy case.

Dulles expressed this view shortly before Canadian authorities changed signals and agreed to let ex-Russian Igor Gouzenko talk with U.S. investigators, if he wants to do so.

Canadian Foreign Minister Lester B. Pearson made the announcement to newsmen in New York as a tug-of-war over the question of Gouzenko's testimony threatened to mushroom into an international incident.

Next Move Up To Gouzenko

Pearson said it is up to Gouzenko whether he wants to risk disclosure of his long-secret hiding place in Canada, as well as his hidden identity, by talking with Senate spy hunters.

Pearson also declared that Canadian authorities have already sent "every scrap of information" on spy activities to Washington and FBI agents have sat in at Canadian interrogations of Gouzenko.

Before Pearson made his announcement, Dulles told his news conference he hoped Canada would reply in a spirit of friendliness to requests by Senate investigators for the privilege of quizzing Gouzenko. Dulles further remarked that he thought it was entirely proper for congressional committees to make such a request, when channelled through the State Department.

Gouzenko is the one-time Soviet Embassy code clerk in Ottawa who fled his Red masters and exposed the operations of a Russian spy ring in Canada in 1946.

Dulles went out of his way to praise Pearson, whose own name has figured in bitter side phases of the current spy controversy in this country. Dulles called Pearson a vigorous foe of communism.

Sees Friendship Surviving

As for any rift in U.S.-Canadian relations, Dulles said confidently he believes the long-established bonds of friendship between the two countries will survive the present controversy.

Two Senate inquiry groups—One headed by Sen. Jenner (R-Ind), the other by Sen. McCarthy (R-Wis)—are seeking to find out whether Gouzenko has any new evidence bearing on Soviet espionage in the United States.

Canadian authorities rejected the Jenner subcommittee's original request for permission to question Gouzenko. Then published reports that Gouzenko himself said he might be able to help U.S. investigators prompted the subcommittee to submit a second formal request.

Drug Companies Rapped At Probe

WASHINGTON, Nov. 24 (AP)—An Oklahoma state legislator today accused Eastern drug manufacturers of blocking legislation aimed at curbing illegal narcotics use in his home state.

The charge was made at a Senate hearing by state representative Robert O. Cunningham of Oklahoma City, who earlier this year headed a legislative commission that looked into the Oklahoma drug problem.

Cunningham told a Senate subcommittee investigating juvenile delinquency that "lobbying" by representatives of these manufacturers led to State Senate rejection of the control bill after it had passed the House.

Cunningham said these manufacturers, whom he did not identify, "set up shop" in Oklahoma City and "liquor flowed, talk flowed."

Cunningham said his investigation showed there 250 boys and girls in Oklahoma City were using barbiturates — "sleeping pills."

Officer With Alleged Pro-Red Kin Cleared

Lieutenant Had Faced Discharge

WASHINGTON, Nov. 24 (AP)—Secretary of the Air Force Talbott today cleared Lt. Milo J. Radulovich, who had been threatened with discharge from the Air Force reserve because of alleged Communist sympathies of some of his relatives.

Talbott's ruling that the 26-year-old officer "is not a security risk" reversed a 10th Air Force board of officers, which had recommended that he be discharged from his commission. The board found a "reasonable doubt" that Radulovich was a good security risk, although it said his personal loyalty "was not questioned."

Radulovich, now a GI student at the University of Michigan, said the ruling "takes a tremendous load off all of us" and added: "Nobody will have cause to regret this decision."

Talbott did not disclose the nature of the information against the lieutenant, but said it "related not to Lt. Radulovich's own activities and views but to those of other individuals."

The officer's attorney, Charles C. Lockwood, had said his client was accused because his sister reportedly joined in a Communist picket line and his father read a "radical" newspaper.

Talbott's statement said the officer testified at length before the hearing board at Selfridge Field, Mich., concerning his relationship with his sister, and added:

"He did not attempt to explain or justify her reported activities, but he maintained that he would not be influenced by them. Lt. Radulovich is a mature officer with a family of his own."

Talbott then reviewed the officer's military record, saying he "served honorably and well" during nearly eight years with the Air Force. Talbott reached the conclusion that Radulovich's "association with his sister is not such as to make her activities and beliefs the determining factor in this case."

United States Gets 279 New Citizens

FT. BRAGG, N. C., Nov. 24 (AP)—The United States got 279 new citizens today.

In a mass naturalization ceremony, described by immigration officials as probably the largest in the history of the republic, the new Americans, most of them Ft. Bragg soldiers, stood, placed their left hands on Bibles, raised their right hands and solemnly swore . . .

"I hereby declare on oath that I absolutely and entirely renounce and abjure all allegiance and fidelity to any foreign prince, potentate, state or sovereignty . . .

"I will support and defend the Constitution and laws of the United States of America against all enemies, foreign and domestic; that I will bear true faith and allegiance to the same . . ."

Plans To Absorb Food Surpluses Needed, U.S. Says

ROME, Nov. 24 (AP)—The United States told the rest of the world today it will not continue increasing its food production unless useful ways can be found to distribute the mounting American surpluses.

Asst. Secretary of Agriculture John H. Davis outlined this position in an address to 500 representatives of 68 nations here for the seventh world conference of the Food and Agriculture Organization (FAO).

The delegates already had been warned about increasing unsold food surpluses in North America.

General Director Norris E. Dodd told the opening session yesterday "The gap is widening between the hungry and the well fed." The FAO Guiding Council Director, Josue de Castro of Brazil, urged the delegates to act at once on plans to absorb surpluses into a world emergency food reserve.

"We in the United States are aware of the concern of other countries over our accumulating commodity stocks.

"My country . . . increased its farm output 40 per cent during and after World War II. Most of this was for the purpose of meeting the war and postwar needs of other countries when their own production was inadequate or their own sources of supply were shut off.

"Now production in most importing countries has become more adequate, many exporting countries have increased their production to new high levels."

"The result is that today our productive capacity exceeds our needs.

"The United States is anxious to find ways of using its available stocks to improve the living standards of hungry people. At the same time, we are equally not desirous of interfering with the normal markets and normal channels of trade."

British-Egyptian Crisis Is Feared

LONDON, Nov. 24 (AP)—British officials privately expressed fear today that a grave situation could arise between this country and Egypt unless an upsurge of anti-British activity in the Suez Canal zone is quickly checked.

The Foreign Office said Britain complained to Egypt a week ago that the number of anti-British incidents in the zone is mounting. A spokesman said the British government "is watching the situation closely."

Citing a report issued by British army authorities, the spokesman told a news conference 44 incidents took place in the two weeks ending Nov. 21. Most of these, he said, were attacks on British personnel and thefts from military depots.

Egypt's reaction to the complaint, delivered orally to the Egyptian Foreign Ministry in Cairo, was not stated.

Adlai Raps GOP, Defends Truman

ATLANTA, Nov. 24 (AP)—Adlai Stevenson, Democratic candidate for president in 1952, tossed verbal barbs at the Republican administration today declaring, "a nation cannot be governed nor a world guided by promises, postponement, paralysis and slander."

But the former Illinois governor drew his biggest ovation from Georgians by defending former President Harry Truman as "the man who has done more than any living man to check the forward thrust of communism."

Stevenson spoke on the state Capitol grounds before a joint session of the Georgia General Assembly, state party leaders and a crowd estimated by Gov. Herman Talmadge at 25,000 and by others as low as 10,000.

During a luncheon of party leaders afterwards Stevenson said the 26 hours in Georgia were "the happiest experience in my political life to date." That was due, he quipped, because the state has "all Democrats."

Stevenson said the Democrats "are finding broader common ground and rebuilding their shattered citadels."

He declared that "the sheep that strayed are daily coming back into the fold. For my part, they are welcome; including those that somewhat sheepishly return."

Youth Convicted Of Rape Charges

Baltimore, Nov. 24 (AP)—A jury of six men and six women late today convicted Michael George Sudano, 18, of statutory rape and perverted practices in a morals case involving two young girl cousins.

He was the ninth of 14 defendants to be tried in the case. Seven others were either convicted or pleaded guilty. The eighth, Franklin D'Alesandro, son of Baltimore Mayor Thomas D'Alesandro, was acquitted by a jury after testifying he had never seen either of the girls and had not been in the apartment in which the alleged acts occurred.

Ike In Atlanta; Given Golf Cap

AUGUSTA, Ga., Nov. 24 (AP)—President Eisenhower arrived here today for a Thanksgiving holiday, received a flashy new golf cap and moved into a brand new "Little White House."

The smiling President, visiting Augusta for the fourth time since he was elected, stepped from his private plane, the Columbine at 1:37 p.m., EST.

He was accompanied from Washington by Mrs. Eisenhower and a small staff. The presidential plane by-passed Augusta on the way South to fly to Ft. Benning on the western edge of Georgia to pick up the Eisenhowers' daughter-in-law, Barbara, and their three grandchildren. They then flew back across the state to Augusta.

At Ft. Benning the Eisenhowers visited briefly with their son John, an Army major. He is to join the family here Thanksgiving.

Within an hour after the President arrived he had changed clothes and was out on the golf course. He played with four friends whose names were not disclosed.

At the Augusta airport the President delighted 80 squealing first and second grade youngsters from the Wheeless Road School by donning a snappy golf cap they presented to him.

W. Va. Man Pleads Guilty To Arson In Forest Fires

Gene Tunney Blankenship of Clear Fork, the defendant, entered the plea in Wyoming County Circuit Court. Judge Robert M. Worrell set Dec. 8 for sentencing, and Blankenship was released on bond.

Blankenship was accused of setting 19 forest fires between Oceana and Baileysville Oct. 22 by hiring seven small boys to throw matches from the rear of his truck while driving along the highway.

Judge Worrell has put the juveniles on probation.

The fires allegedly set by Blankenship burned an estimated 3,000 to 5,000 acres of forest lands in Wyoming County. Wyoming was one of the counties hardest hit by this fall's outbreak of forest fires in the state.

The eighth, Franklin D'Alesandro, son of Baltimore Mayor Thomas D'Alesandro, was acquitted by a jury after testifying he had never seen either of the girls and had not been in the apartment in which the alleged acts occurred.

Ike In Atlanta; Given Golf Cap

AUGUSTA, Ga., Nov. 24 (AP)—President Eisenhower arrived here today for a Thanksgiving holiday, received a flashy new golf cap and moved into a brand new "Little White House."

The smiling President, visiting Augusta for the fourth time since he was elected, stepped from his private plane, the Columbine at 1:37 p.m., EST.

He was accompanied from Washington by Mrs. Eisenhower and a small staff. The presidential plane by-passed Augusta on the way South to fly to Ft. Benning on the western edge of Georgia to pick up the Eisenhowers' daughter-in-law, Barbara, and their three grandchildren. They then flew back across the state to Augusta.

At Ft. Benning the Eisenhowers visited briefly with their son John, an Army major. He is to join the family here Thanksgiving.

Within an hour after the President arrived he had changed clothes and was out on the golf course. He played with four friends whose names were not disclosed.

At the Augusta airport the President delighted 80 squealing first and second grade youngsters from the Wheeless Road School by donning a snappy golf cap they presented to him.

W. Va. Man Pleads Guilty To Arson In Forest Fires

Gene Tunney Blankenship of Clear Fork, the defendant, entered the plea in Wyoming County Circuit Court. Judge Robert M. Worrell set Dec. 8 for sentencing, and Blankenship was released on bond.

Blankenship was accused of setting 19 forest fires between Oceana and Baileysville Oct. 22 by hiring seven small boys to throw matches from the rear of his truck while driving along the highway.

Judge Worrell has put the juveniles on probation.

The fires allegedly set by Blankenship burned an estimated 3,000 to 5,000 acres of forest lands in Wyoming County. Wyoming was one of the counties hardest hit by this fall's outbreak of forest fires in the state.

Neutral as your coat's color may be, it's important in creating a costume that puts the accent on you!

Secrets Of Charm
by John Robert Powers

Most coats of cloth or fur are fairly neutral in color and divide into one or two varieties: Those that belong to the beige-brown family and those that belong to the gray-black family. With these, it is possible to wear almost any color. Yet, if you will consider your neutral coat as a color and coordinate your costume and make-up colors with it, what a difference it makes! When you handle all three deftly, your own coloring becomes the solo in a lovely symphony. That's the way to put the accent on you.

First, of all, you must decide whether your skin is pink with an underlying blue tone or whether it is more ochre-toned. Whichever the cast, do not stray from it in selecting your foundation, powder and lipstick. For purposes of simplification, we'll refer to the blue-pink as cool in tone and the ochre as warm-toned.

Choosing A Costume

With a brown or beige coat:

If your skin is warm-toned and your eyes are brown, choose a camel-colored costume spiked with cinnamon-toned gloves, purse and shoes. With blue eyes, choose a grey costume or one that matches your eyes and wearthe darkest brown accessories that you can find.

If your skin is cool-toned and your eyes are brown, match your hair in color as closely as possible, if it's lively. If not, choose a mauve costume and gloves, shoes and purse in a rich, warm shade of burnished copper. With blue eyes and a cool-toned skin, choose a soft, greyed-green costume and cinnamon accessories of suede.

With Black Or Grey

With a black or grey coat:

If your skin is warm-toned and your eyes are brown, choose a green-tinged, pale yellow dress and wear the sootiest black shoes, bag and gloves with a black coat. But if your coat is grey, let your accessories be of camel or natural-toned polished leather. If your eyes are blue and your skin warm in tone, choose a blue-violet costume and gloves, shoes and purse of black.

If your skin is cool-toned and your eyes are blue, choose a costume of the cool, pale blue-pink that most becomes you and let your gloves, shoes and purse match your coat. With a cool-toned skin and brown eyes, choose a medium shade of blue-green for your costume and wear black, polished leather accessories.

In each case, the greatest success will result from matching your hat to your costume. Using the above as a guide, if you will think hard and look discerningly as you choose your shades, you'll put the accent on you in a color symphony that will enchant as long as your costume lasts!

PMA Becomes ASC In Reorganization

Reorganization of the U. S. Department of Agriculture has killed PMA but has created ASC with virtually the same functions, according to Miss Elizabeth A. Hoover, who was local office manager for PMA and takes over the same duties for the ASC.

The old letters stood for Production and Marketing Administration and the new ones for Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service.

Local functions of the ASC will be the same as PMA and the same three men who served on the PMA committee will now be the ASC committee. The committee will continue to administer the Agricultural Conservation Program of 1954. Although Miss Hoover just received word of the changed letters yesterday, the effective date was November 1.

Revision Of Excise Taxes

President Eisenhower tried, but failed, at the end of September to put a damper on speculation that a general sales tax would be the heart of the administration's 1954 tax program. He said flatly, at a White House press conference September 30, that he would not ask Congress to adopt a retail sales tax. This was because taxes on retail sales had become a dominant source of revenue for the states. But the next question was whether the President would recommend a manufacturers' sales tax, and the answer was that such a possibility could not be ruled out.

Many statements by Eisenhower's fiscal advisers, and by the President himself, can be read as favoring substitution of a manufacturers' sales tax with a uniform rate for the 50 or more excise taxes with varying rates now levied by the federal government. Six months ago, in a first tax message to Congress on May 20, the President said: "The wide variety of existing excise tax rates makes little economic sense and leads to improper discrimination between industries and among consumers." Secretary of Commerce Weeks has called the present selective excises a "hodge-podge." Few have anything good to say about most of them—except that they bring in the money.

Congress cannot skip the subject when it reconvenes in January because the rates of some of the largest revenue producers among the excise taxes are scheduled for automatic reduction on April 1, with a prospective annual revenue loss of some $2 billion. The excess profits tax will expire at the end of 1953 and individual income tax rates will go down about 10 per cent on January 1.

In addition to the reduction in excise taxes, present law provides for a cut in corporation income tax rates on next April 1. If allowed to take full effect, the tax expirations and reductions immediately ahead will cost the government almost $8 billion in the fiscal year 1955.

Any belief that the federal budget can be balanced in fiscal 1955 has now been abandoned. The prospective deficit for that year, under present revenue laws, has been estimated by Treasury Secretary Humphrey at $8-9 billion. But the administration has the definite objective of bringing income and outgo into balance before the 1956 presidential election. Humphrey has warned that this cannot be accomplished if there is any substantial reduction of the take from the excise taxes.

In view of the violent attacks on the administration during recent weeks for its supposed leaning to a uniform-rate excise at the manufacturers' level—added to the even division of party strength in the two houses and the fact that congressional elections are to be held next year—the President is not now expected to recommend anything that could be characterized as a general sales levy. He is expected to insist, however, upon his earlier recommendation that the excise tax reductions scheduled for April 1 be rescinded "pending the development of a better system of excise taxation."

The conclusion has been drawn from recent statements of Treasury officials that the administration, while favoring reductions in rates of some of the present excises, will ask that others be kept at their present levels, and that new excises be added to keep the total yield at or near the $9.9 billion brought in by the excise taxes in fiscal 1953.

Liquor and tobacco, the most important of the burden-bearers, are the products most likely to be denied any rate reductions. Taxes on movie tickets, telephone service, toilet preparations, women's handbags, and perhaps rail and air transportation, are believed to stand the best chance of rate cuts. Among the prospects for such new levies as may be necessary are soft drinks, candy and chewing gum; clothing, furniture and household furnishings; hotel accommodations and aviation gasoline.

Versatile Goose

At least two farmers, living at widely separated places in the United States, have ganders they claim tend sheep, says the National Geographic Society. In each case, the bird leads the flock to water, then returns it to pasture.

The talents of geese as sentries are well known. Excited gabbling of Rome's sacred geese from their home in the Temple of Juno atop Capitoline Hill roused the Eternal City's defenders in time to rout the barbarian Gauls who invaded Italy in 390 B. C.

"Watchdog" geese were sent last summer from Suffolk, England, to Nairobi, capital of British Kenya in East Africa. They were bought by a settler to give the alarm in case of Mau Mau attack.

Across the world in Malaya, the British high command early in 1953 announced that goose sentries were being stationed in pens around villages threatened by Communist guerrilla raiders.

Like their domesticated brothers, the free, high-flying wild geese that go honking down the sky at season's turn rate high in intelligence. Canada geese, snow geese, blue geese, brants all carefully inspect the ground for possible danger before landing, and while feeding, post sentinels.

Most American barnyard geese are descendants of the European and Asiatic graylag. The best for watchdog duty is the big and powerful Chinese goose, suspicious of strangers and possessed of a voice rivaling a Parisian taxicab horn in penetrating resonance.

Because they are finicky and selective about their food, geese are excellent at weeding crops. Hundreds of thousands of them tend cotton fields, nurseries and blueberry and strawberry patches from Texas to New Jersey.

Their employers claim they eat crab grass, Bermuda grass and even saw-edged Johnson grass without even touching the cotton plants, berries or young trees. For lawns, however, they are not recommended.

A farm goose is still a valuable bird when prowlers do not threaten and the harvest season is over. Feathers and down are marketable, and roast goose for Thanksgiving or Christmas rivals the turkeys as an American table tradition.

Nagging Spoils Appetite

When Peter refuses to eat, there is no need to use force nor to rush out and buy a tonic or a super vitamin pill. Instead, make the next meal time a bit more cheerful and eliminate tension in the household. It also helps when the parents make an attempt to understand the problems of childhood.

The growth rate of children is greatest during the first year of life and again during adolescence. Between these periods the appetite tends to come and go and the child grows by fits and starts. This irregular growth pattern is most noticeable after the third birthday when the youngster goes on an adult diet. It is most disconcerting to the parents, particularly when weighing the youngster month after month to find he never gains a pound. Then he becomes voracious, gains 10 pounds, grows an inch, and proceeds to settle down again. Unless this irregular pattern is appreciated, the parents and the child are an unhappy lot. The natural tendency is to make him eat, if for no other reason than to keep up with the kid across the street.

But this is only a part of the story. Children are like adults in that they desire different things at different times and their appetite varies from meal to meal. Most of us develop a yen for spaghetti now and then or an apple, peanut butter sandwich, ice cream, or a lamb chop. Children feel the same way, and when they imagine how good lamb chops taste and find liver and bacon instead, they are likely to balk when the food is put before them. It is well to remember that boys and girls have their troubles, too, and when upset over a broken toy or doll are likely to lose their appetite. These are small problems to adults but they are important to the child.

Other appetite killers include eating between meals and emotional tension in the home. Peter may be so hungry that he can't wait to get to the table but while the meal is served, father asks, "Why didn't you clean up the mess you made in the basement?" or "Mother told me that you were bad in school today." With this, his appetite flies out the window. Mealtime is not the time to criticize or nag. It should be pleasant and reserved for friendly family discussions.

Appetite is psychological and is acquired through previous experiences with food. Hunger, on the other hand, is a physical sensation that takes place when the stomach is empty. Herein lies the difference between the two. These simple causes account for 95 per cent of the poor appetites in childhood. The remainder are due to sickness or fever but in these instances the disease itself usually overshadows the diminished appetite.

SED RATE

Mrs. H. writes: I have a sediment of 32 in my blood. My doctor doesn't seem to know what to do about it. Can you advise?

REPLY

You refer to the sedimentation rate test, which is done to determine whether infection in the body remains active. Because your rate is only slightly elevated, your physician may not wish to submit you to the expense and discomfort of a large number of additional tests to track down the cause. In addition, he cannot be too specific because this blood study does not indicate what the infection might be.

ALL SET

B. V. writes: Is a child's emotional pattern set early in life? If so, at what age?

REPLY

Some psychologists are convinced that the personality is determined in the first years of life. But other authorities do not accept this view, believing that the effect of early environment is tempory.

MUSCLE DEVELOPMENT

R. T. writes: Will squeezing a rubber ball every day develop the wrist and forearm?

REPLY

Yes. This maneuver is particularly good after a stroke which has left one arm paralyzed.

PULSE AND HEART DISEASE

C. T. writes: Does the heart beat differently in people with any kind of heart trouble?

REPLY

In some types of heart disease the beat is normal but in others it is fast, slow, or irregular.

FETID SECRETIONS

Mrs. J. writes: Can bad breath come from bronchial secretions?

REPLY

Yes. Any purulent secretion in the back of the throat or from the nose or bronchi can give rise to a foul odor.

FROG IN THROAT

F. D. writes: What causes dry gag? This happens to me every morning and may last one-half hour until I bring something up.

Tenacious sputum. You may be overly sensitive to a small amount of mucus that is likely to disapear by the time breakfast is over.

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

Ike's Two Biggest Businessmen Clash On Military Spending; Humphrey Calls Military Cuts Mere "Chrome On The Bumper"

WASHINGTON — It was Secretary of the Treasury Humphrey himself who leaked the story to newsmen that the Eisenhower administration would slash the budget by another $6,000,000,000 next year — most of it out of the armed services.

The identity of the news leak in this case is important. For it took only a few minutes for Humphrey's identity to become known a couple of miles down Constitution Avenue and across the Potomac River at the Pentagon, where it caused that labyrinth of offices — the largest in the world — to seethe with activity.

A few hours later, the activity had its effect. Secretary of the Treasury Humphrey hedged just a little on his leak. He did not hedge on the $6,000,000,000 cut. But he did tell newsmen two things: 1. that the military would not be cut at the expense of national safety; but 2. since the military spend about 75 per cent of the budget, they will have to bear that proportionate share of the cut.

Actually, the above jockeying between the Treasury and the Pentagon merely brings to the surface a debate that has been going on backstage for weeks. It also puts in direct opposition to each other two of the ablest and biggest businessmen in the Eisenhower cabinet.

Humphrey, who demands the military cut, was a president and director of 30 different corporations comprising the Mark Hanna Co., founded by the famed GOP boss who elected President McKinley. He is the cabinet member Ike listens to most.

Secretary of Defense Charles E. Wilson, who opposes him, was head of the world's largest corporation, General Motors. He too is close to the President, but not as close as Humphrey.

Backstage Battle

The backstage battle between these two men and their subordinates actually got down to brass knuckles at a meeting of the National Security Council about six weeks ago, at which the military men brought in their "new look" for the armed services.

This "new look," supposed to permit sizable budget cuts, in reality did no such thing, and Secretary Humphrey quite rightly scoffed at it.

"All you've done is put some chromium plate on your bumper," he chided. "You've got the same old model shined up a little bit, but how are we going to fight atomic wars with the same old car plus a chromium bumper?"

What teed off Humphrey was the fact that the military chiefs had merely split military spending three ways with no regard to military need or strategy. The Navy took its usual share, regardless of the fact that all its ships can just about be put out of commission by a single A-bomb. The Army took its usual share, regardless of the dubious value of foot-soldiers. And the Air Force took its usual share — despite the fact that air is becoming more and more important to atomic warfare. As a SOP, the Air Force was given seven more wings to keep it happy.

Ike Supports Humphrey

Secretary Humphrey can be forceful without pounding the table or losing his temper. He made it clear to the military chiefs that the United States couldn't build atomic weapons on one hand and continue conventional weapons on the other. We couldn't afford both, Humphrey emphasized.

Since Humphrey is close to Ike, he did more than lecture the military. He also talked to the President, induced him to order the military to cut. They are now supposed to be cutting, but so far haven't come up with a single, solitary countersuggestion.

That was why the secretary of the Treasury decided to force the Pentagon's hand, made them tear their hair over his leak that the budget must be cut another $6,000,000,000.

Since then, not only Secretary of Defense Wilson, but some GOP politicos plus diplomatic and economic advisers are in a lather. Theoretically they agree with Humphrey that the budget must be balanced. But here are some of the factors they're considering on the other side:

Economic Clouds

1. With the domestic economy already looking a bit sour, this is a poor time to cut government orders further. With steel production, automobiles and farm equipment off, and credit restricted, economic advisers would prefer to increase defense orders rather than cut them.

2. With Eisenhower ready to sit down opposite Premier Joseph Laneil at Bermuda next month and demand a big French army, diplomatic advisers don't think this is a good time for the U.S.A. to cut back on its own military budget.

3. Vice President Nixon has been barnstorming through the Far East urging Japan, the Philippines and French Indo-China to arm, which makes it diplomatically difficult for us to do just the opposite here at home.

4. The Democrats have already made political capital of the heavy defense cuts and are eager to make more. In fact, endangering the national security is a tailor-made issue for them right now.

All of which puts the Eisenhower cabinet in about the toughest predicament it's faced so far. The resultant debate is a lot more important than spy headlines, for on its outcome will depend the security of the nation and to some extent the recession or prosperity of the coming year.

These Days

By GEORGE E. SOKOLSKY

I Am Thankful

National holidays are usually set aside to commemorate great historic events or to recall the lives of heroic individuals.

Thanksgiving Day is different. It is unrelated to any particular historic event or to any great personality. It is an individualistic holiday, providing an opportunity for every person to thank God for the blessings that have come to him. It is a personal holiday and used to be deeply religious.

I am thankful that in 1917, at the beginning of my career, I was sent to Russia. Often I have thought of what might have been my story had not this happened. So many of those whom I knew in my boyhood moved from one liberal atmosphere to another until some of them landed in the Communist conspiracy.

Who knows what can happen in those youthful years when one is so sure that he has the answer to all problems; when he is so strong that he can remake the world—all by himself out of his own self-assurance?

Therefore, I am thankful that I was permitted to witness those strange days between July 1917 and March 1918 when a nation sought liberty and was reduced to slavery. It was an unforgettable experience. The brutality of the tiny minority, the Bolsheviks, made me aware of the chasm between profession and performance, between the proclamation of an ideal and the earthiness of reality.

I am thankful that this experience brought me back to the God of my fathers. For I had wandered in college in the Hegelian materialism which had already become the climate of American intellectualism. We already knew that God was a myth. But the reaction to Marxism, in its Leninist version in the midst of the Russian Revolution, could only be, if one did not submit to its disciplines, the assurance that there must be a Divine Intelligence, a power outside ourselves that makes for righteousness, a God. From this strength alone can come reasoning resistance to bolshevism.

I am thankful that having witnessed socialism at work, I could not believe that any system is preferable to a free competitive economy in which each individual, at his risk, forms the pattern of his life. For no matter how ideally worded in the books, socialism reduces man to serfdom in the sense that he becomes bound to the decisions and will of the state; he is a creature of police power. When the government owns the means of production and distribution, the individual becomes a thing, statistical figure. He is lost in the morass of bureaucracy.

I am thankful that early in life, in the atmosphere of a reign of terror, when men fought for the possession of an egg and women sold themselves for a bar of chocolate, it came to me that the Natural Law, the revealed law of God to man, proclaimed by my ancestors in the Bible, offering to man pity, compassion, charity, love as ideals of life, was a superior pattern to the Darwinian struggle for existence and the Marxian theory of unending class struggle.

I am thankful for the long years I spent among the kindly Chinese, who broadened my outlook on life and proved that while the human race contains as many different kinds of people as there are varieties of roses, all human beings are much the same in their elementary nature. Before I arrived in Harbin in 1918, the only Chinese I had known were sugar-cane merchants in New York's Chinatown, chop suey restaurant waiters, laundrymen, and three or four students at Columbia University. For 13 years, I lived among the Chinese in their own country and I came to know them with rare intimacy —and to love them.

But most of all, I am thankful that I am a citizen of no mean country; that in this country of my birth, I am permitted to write and speak, wisely or foolishly, in freedom. I am thankful I can worship my God without fear and that no government controls my life or threatens me with reprisals against my children.

On Thanksgiving Day, I shall bow my head before the gracious God whose shadow fell between me and possible previous errors that could have tortured my life and brought misery to my kind. There is so much to be thankful for.

Today In Washington

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON — Theoretically the Canadian government is right in refusing to let Igor Gouzenko, former code clerk in the Soviet embassy in Ottawa, testify before the Senate Internal Security subcommittee. But there are many ways to accomplish the same objective without violating the customary proprieties.

Thus, no investigating committee can be conceded the right to go into Canada, any more than the United States would feel obliged to let a foreign commission seek out citizens inside our own territory for testimony.

Some Cooperation Possible

In a situation, however, like the "cold war" and, in fact, during a hot war, measures of cooperation between allied governments are adopted which make possible the desired exchange of information. An example of this kind of unity was afforded within the last few years when Klaus Fuchs was arrested in Britain in connection with the transmission of secrets of the atom bomb to the Communists. The Federal Bureau of Investigation was anxious to interrogate Fuchs to get some clues to persons inside the United States who had up to that time not been detected, but who were believed to have had a part in the spy-ring operation. At first, the British government at the top-policy level declined to give the FBI any information or to let its agents interrogate Fuchs. But, after several months of discussion back and forth through diplomatic channels, the questioning by American intelligence agent was permitted and information was obtained that enabled the Department of Justice to catch the Rosenbergs, who were still in the United States, and convict them of espionage.

So, when the objective is the running down of Communist spies in the interest of a nation's security, there are usually ways to pool information and carry on the common fight against persons seeking to injure an ally.

Something of the same kind of situation has arisen now with respect to Gouzenko. It has been reported from Ottawa that he has told all he knew. But not until a witness is examined on minute details can it be determined whether he has presented new information.

It is important, of course, that such testimony be taken in executive session, and the Senate Internal Security subcommittee has been meticulous about maintaining silence on testimony given in secret sessions when secrecy is essential. It might be suggested that the FBI do the interrogating, but, under rules established heretofore, information given to the FBI is not available in raw form to any congressional committees and, in any form, only in specific cases.

The FBI, like the intelligence agencies of other countries, gets its information from a varierty of sources in foreign lands. The other day reference was made, for example, to a Canadian source which had inquired in 1946 about the future selection of Harry Dexter White to head up the International Monetary Fund. Dispatches from Ottawa in the last few days stated that the document inquiring about this case couldn't be found. Probably it will not be, because intelligence data are frequently not written down by officials but given orally to security representatives. The Canadian government has doubtless secured much information that way from intelligence sources in the United States Government. Sometimes it is not recognized abroad — and indeed many people overlook the fact in this country—that Congress, with its committees, constitutes an independent and coordinate branch of the government. The Supreme Court of the United States has upheld the right of Congress to investigate almost anything upon which it seeks information, either for the purposes of adopting or repealing legislation or even for the purpose of recommending constitutional amendments.

The problem is a delicate one because naturally the Canadian government would not wish to withhold any information that could be of value in helping the American people, through a campaign of education undertaken by Congress, to alert the nation to the ways and means by which the Communist apparatus operates. There is every reason why the Senate Internal Security Committee wishes to respect the attitude of the Canadian government in conforming to custom, and it is a matter of great concern here that mischief-makers in this country have tried to link the committee's request for Gouzenko's testimony to some alleged "smear" of Foreign Secretary Pearson. Plainly somebody is at work trying to disturb Canadian-American relations, and it isn't the Senate Internal Security subcommittee.

On The Line

By BOB CONSIDINE

HOLLYWOOD — (INS)—Movies may not be better than ever but they're sure bigger. And deeper. There won't be many films coming out of here henceforth that aren't in CinemaScope, Cinerama, or Mike Todd's 70 millimeter process. Or 3-D, which is trying to ignite the fuse again with a good script after a brief, sputtering career that was a shot in the arm to the economy of the industry but no artistic contribution.

"The only writers who have a chance in Hollywood today are Matthew, Mark, Luke and John," said Hal Conrad, a friend who sank from a good sports writing job on Jacobs Beach to the plush and riches of the film capital. He added: "Screen's too big for anything. Anybody else know how are you going to have an intimate little thing 55 feet wide?" It's a problem at that. But not as great a problem as one might think. There's TV writing to consider.

Because television, the cyclopticeyed monster which threatened to destroy Hollywood right down to the cellars, is what is keeping employment high in the film world. Hollywood now is turning out more film for TV shows than it is producing for theatre consumption.

A lot of people who ordinarily would be out of work today in an industry which is turning out fewer than half the pictures it made during the war years, are busy and quite happy to be stoking the insatiable maw of the monster that was scheduled to devour them.

There is something of the air of the early film pioneering days about the Hollywood of today. When the great ones first came here they discovered a land of opportunity which has few equals in history. Billions of dollars have been made with what Hollywood had to offer; fantastic fortunes grew and kept growing; the age of the American theater was changed; a whole new species of American hero and heroine was created out of nothingness. The temples and the palaces of this nobility still dot the neighboring hills.

Like conquering armies of old, high taxes and television swept over the stucco capital of the film world and levelled it. It was felt it could never rise again. But other and greater capitals had survived the invader's heel in history, and so has Hollywood. It was resourceful enough to come up with tantalizing new and lifelike devices, calculated to bring back customers rooted to their living rooms or taverns. But, mostly, Hollywood is surviving and succeeding because it adopted the homely philosophy, "If you can't beat 'em, jine 'em." It has jined TV and shows every sign of consuming it, like China consumed whole series of conquerors.

Sam Marx, one of the most gifted of the younger Hollywood producers, has some startling thoughts about the opportunities abounding in Hollywood today. To wit:

"Television gives Hollywood what it has always longed for, a chance to make a picture inexpensively and see that picture continue to build up grosses after it has played the first-runs. The man who makes and owns a good TV film today will make more money, and keep more money, than any similar producer before him in Hollywood.

"He can sell his product to a top sponsor, let the sponsor use it briefly, and then take it back, change its title, and sell it to another sponsor. By the time he gets it back from the second sponsor there are dozens more TV stations in the country, and those new audiences must be accommodated. So there is another sponsor. In time he can bring the same film back to the original sponsor . . . And so on. It's a chain reaction."

Marx, who is about to film a TV series starring Charles Coburn, also told us that the ownership by Liberace, the pianist, of a little, 15-minute weekly showing of his wares, has now reached more than 100 markets and Liberace's income is reputed to be somewhere between $25,000 and $40,000 a week. Mary Pickford had trouble making that much when she had curls and owned half the town.

The big networks are still fighting the filming of TV shows with one hand, and searching about for good TV films with the other. Basically, NBC and CBS wants its biggest shows "live," but in time will accept something on film or on the new TV "tape," if the artists insist loud enough. When that day comes, the making of theater films in Hollywood will drop deeply into second place.

A new crop of wonder boys is growing in Hollywood, as the giants of old grew in the days of puttees and pith helmets. But, as it was then, this era is one of the survival of the fittest. For every canned TV show that finds fortune there are three or four that never get out of the can, wiping out hopeful investors.

Revision Of Excise Taxes

President Eisenhower tried, but failed, at the end of September to put a damper on speculation that a general sales tax would be the heart of the administration's 1954 tax program. He said flatly, at a White House press conference September 30, that he would not ask Congress to adopt a retail sales tax. This was because taxes on retail sales had become a dominant source of revenue for the states. But the next question was whether the President would recommend a manufacturers' sales tax, and the answer was that such a possibility could not be ruled out.

Many statements by Eisenhower's fiscal advisers, and by the President himself, can be read as favoring substitution of a manufacturers' sales tax with a uniform rate for the 50 or more excise taxes with varying rates now levied by the federal government. Six months ago, in a first tax message to Congress on May 20, the President said: "The wide variety of existing excise tax rates makes little economic sense and leads to improper discrimination between industries and among consumers." Secretary of Commerce Weeks has called the present selective excises a "hodge-podge." Few have anything good to say about most of them—except that they bring in the money.

Congress cannot skip the subject when it reconvenes in January because the rates of some of the largest revenue producers among the excise taxes are scheduled for automatic reduction on April 1, with a prospective annual revenue loss of some $2 billion. The excess profits tax will expire at the end of 1953 and individual income tax rates will go down about 10 per cent on January 1.

In addition to the reduction in excise taxes, present law provides for a cut in corporation income tax rates on next April 1. If allowed to take full effect, the tax expirations and reductions immediately ahead will cost the government almost $8 billion in the fiscal year 1955.

Any belief that the federal budget can be balanced in fiscal 1955 has now been abandoned. The prospective deficit for that year, under present revenue laws, has been estimated by Treasury Secretary Humphrey at $8-9 billion. But the administration has the definite objective of bringing income and outgo into balance before the 1956 presidential election. Humphrey has warned that this cannot be accomplished if there is any substantial reduction of the take from the excise taxes.

In view of the violent attacks on the administration during recent weeks for its supposed leaning toward a uniform-rate excise at the manufacturers' level—added to the even division of party strength in the two houses and the fact that congressional elections are to be held next year—the President is not now expected to recommend anything that could be characterized as a general sales levy. He is expected to insist, however, upon his earlier recommendation that the excise tax reductions scheduled for April 1 be rescinded "pending the development of a better system of excise taxation."

The conclusion has been drawn from recent statements of Treasury officials that the administration, while favoring reductions in rates of some of the present excises, will ask that others be kept at their present levels, and that new excises be added to keep the total yield at or near the $9.9 billion brought in by the excise taxes in fiscal 1953.

Liquor and tobacco, the most important of the burden-bearers, are the products most likely to be denied any rate reductions. Taxes on movie tickets, telephone service, toilet preparations, women's handbags, and perhaps rail and air transportation, are believed to stand the best chance of rate cuts. Among the prospects for such new levies as may be necessary are soft drinks, candy and chewing gum; clothing, furniture and household furnishings; hotel accommodations and aviation gasoline.

Versatile Goose

At least two farmers, living at widely separated places in the United States, have ganders they claim tend sheep, says the National Geographic Society. In each case, the bird leads the flock to water, then returns it to pasture.

The talents of geese as sentries are well known. Excited gabbling of Rome's sacred geese from their home in the Temple of Juno atop Capitoline Hill roused the Eternal City's defenders in time to rout the barbarian Gauls who invaded Italy in 390 B. C.

"Watchdog" geese were sent last summer from Suffolk, England, to Nairobi, capital of British Kenya in East Africa. They were bought by a settler to give the alarm in case of Mau Mau attack.

Across the world in Malaya, the British high command early in 1953 announced that goose sentries were being stationed in pens around villages threatened by Communist guerrilla raiders.

Like their domesticated brothers, the free, high-flying wild geese that go honking down the sky at season's turn rate high in intelligence. Canada geese, snow geese, blue geese, brants all carefully inspect the ground for possible danger before landing, and while feeding, post sentinels.

Most American barnyard geese are descendants of the European and Asiatic graylag. The best for watchdog duty is the big and powerful Chinese goose, suspicious of strangers and possessed of a voice rivaling a Parisian taxicab horn in penetrating resonance.

Because they are finicky and selective about their food, geese are excellent at weeding crops. Hundreds of thousands of them tend cotton fields, nurseries and blueberry and strawberry patches from Texas to New Jersey.

Their employers claim they eat crab grass, Bermuda grass and even saw-edged Johnson grass without even touching the cotton plants, berries or young trees. For lawns, however, they are not recommended.

A farm goose is still a valuable bird when prowlers do not threaten and the harvest season is over. Feathers and down are marketable, and roast goose for Thanksgiving or Christmas rivals the turkeys as an American table tradition.

How To Keep Well

Nagging Spoils Appetite

When Peter refuses to eat, there is no need to use force nor to rush out and buy a tonic or a super vitamin pill. Instead, make the next meal time a bit more cheerful and eliminate tension in the household. It also helps when the parents make an attempt to understand the problems of childhood.

The growth rate of children is greatest during the first year of life and again during adolescence. Between these periods the appetite tends to come and go and the child grows by fits and starts. This irregular growth pattern is most noticeable after the third birthday when the youngster goes on an adult diet. It is most disconcerting to the parents, particularly when weighing the youngster month after month to find he never gains a pound. Then he becomes voracious, gains 10 pounds, grows an inch, and proceeds to settle down again. Unless this irregular pattern is appreciated, the parents and the child are an unhappy lot. The natural tendency is to make him eat, if for no other reason than to keep up with the kid across the street.

But this is only a part of the story. Children are like adults in that they desire different things at different times and their appetite varies from meal to meal. Most of us develop a yen for spaghetti now and then or an apple, peanut butter sandwich, ice cream, or a lamb chop. Children feel the same way, and when they imagine how good lamb chops taste and find liver and bacon instead, they are likely to balk when the food is put before them. It is well to remember that boys and girls have their troubles, too, and when upset over a broken toy or doll are likely to lose their appetite. These are small problems to adults but they are important to the child.

Other appetite killers include eating between meals and emotional tension in the home. Peter may be so hungry that he can't wait to get to the table but while the meal is served, father asks, "Why didn't you clean up the mess you made in the basement?" or "Mother told me that you were bad in school today." With this, his appetite flies out the window. Mealtime is not the time to criticize or nag. It should be pleasant and reserved for friendly family discussions.

Appetite is psychological and is acquired through previous experiences with food. Hunger, on the other hand, is a physical sensation that takes place when the stomach is empty. Herein lies the difference between the two. These simple causes account for 95 per cent of the poor appetites in childhood. The remainder are due to sickness or fever but in these instances the disease itself usually overshadows the diminished appetite.

Ike's Two Biggest Businessmen Clash On Military Spending; Humphrey Calls Military Cuts Mere "Chrome On The Bumper"

WASHINGTON — It was Secretary of the Treasury Humphrey himself who leaked the story to newsmen that the Eisenhower administration would slash the budget by another $6,000,000,000 next year — most of it out of the armed services.

The identity of the news leak in this case is important. For it took only a few minutes for Humphrey's identity to become known a couple of miles down Constitution Avenue and across the Potomac River at the Pentagon, where it caused that labyrinth of offices — the largest in the world — to seethe with activity.

A few hours later, the activity had its effect. Secretary of the Treasury Humphrey hedged just a little on his leak. He did not hedge on the $6,000,000,000 cut. But he did tell newsmen two things: 1. that the military would not be cut at the expense of national safety; but 2. since the military spend about 75 per cent of the budget, they will have to bear that proportionate share of the cut.

Actually, the above jockeying between the Treasury and the Pentagon merely brings to the surface a debate that has been going on backstage for weeks. It also puts in direct opposition to each other two of the ablest and biggest businessmen in the Eisenhower cabinet.

Humphrey, who demands the military cut, was a president and director of 30 different corporations comprising the Mark Hanna Co., founded by the famed GOP boss who elected President McKinley. He is the cabinet member Ike listens to most.

Secretary of Defense Charles E. Wilson, who opposes him, was head of the world's largest corporation, General Motors. He too is close to the President, but not as close as Humphrey.

Backstage Battle

The backstage battle between these two men and their subordinates actually got down to brass knuckles at a meeting of the National Security Council about six weeks ago, at which the military men brought in their "new look" for the armed services.

This "new look," supposed to permit sizable budget cuts, in reality did no such thing, and Secretary Humphrey quite rightly scoffed at it.

"All you've done is put some chromium plate on your bumper," he chided. "You've got the same old model shined up a little bit, but how are we going to fight atomic wars with the same old car plus a chromium bumper?"

What teed off Humphrey was the fact that the military chiefs had merely split military spending three ways with no regard to military need or strategy. The Navy took its usual share, regardless of the fact that all its ships can just about be put out of commission by a single A-bomb. The Army took its usual share, regardless of the dubious value of foot-soldiers. And the Air Force took its usual share — despite the fact that air is becoming more and more important to atomic warfare. As a SOP, the Air Force was given seven more wings to keep it happy.

Ike Supports Humphrey

Secretary Humphrey can be forceful without pounding the table or losing his temper. He made it clear to the military chiefs that the United States couldn't build atomic weapons on one hand and continue conventional weapons on the other. We couldn't afford both, Humphrey emphasized.

Since Humphrey is close to Ike, he did more than lecture the military. He also talked to the President, induced him to order the military to cut. They are now supposed to be cutting, but so far haven't come up with a single, solitary countersuggestion.

That was why the secretary of the Treasury decided to force the Pentagon's hand, made them tear their hair over his leak that the budget must be cut another $6,000,000,000.

Since then, not only Secretary of Defense Wilson, but some GOP politicos plus diplomatic and economic advisers are in a lather. Theoretically they agree with Humphrey that the budget must be balanced. But here are some of the factors they're considering on the other side:

Economic Clouds

1. With the domestic economy already looking a bit sour, this is a poor time to cut government orders further. With steel production, automobiles and farm equipment off, and credit restricted, economic advisers would prefer to increase defense orders rather than cut them.

2. With Eisenhower ready to sit down opposite Premier Joseph Laneil at Bermuda next month and demand a big French army, diplomatic advisers don't think this is a good time for the U.S.A. to cut back on its own military budget.

3. Vice President Nixon has been barnstorming through the Far East urging Japan, the Philippines and French Indo-China to arm, which makes it diplomatically difficult for us to do just the opposite here at home.

4. The Democrats have already made political capital of the heavy defense cuts and are eager to make more. In fact, endangering the national security is a tailor-made issue for them right now.

All of which puts the Eisenhower cabinet in about the toughest predicament it's faced so far. The resultant debate is a lot more important than spy headlines, for on its outcome will depend the security of the nation and to some extent the recession or prosperity of the coming year.

These Days

By GEORGE E. SOKOLSKY

I Am Thankful

National holidays are usually set aside to commemorate great historic events or to recall the lives of heroic individuals.

Thanksgiving Day is different. It is unrelated to any particular historic event or to any great personality. It is an individualistic holiday, providing an opportunity for every person to thank God for the blessings that have come to him. It is a personal holiday and used to be deeply religious.

I am thankful that in 1917, at the beginning of my career, I was sent to Russia. Often I have thought of what might have been my story had not this happened. So many of those whom I knew in my boyhood moved from one liberal atmosphere to another until some of them landed in the Communist conspiracy.

Who knows what can happen in those youthful years when one is so sure that he has the answer to all problems; when he is so strong that he can remake the world—all by himself out of his own self-assurance?

Therefore, I am thankful that I was permitted to witness those strange days between July 1917 and March 1918 when a nation sought liberty and was reduced to slavery. It was an unforgettable experience. The brutality of the tiny minority, the Bolsheviks, made me aware of the chasm between profession and performance, between the proclamation of an ideal and the earthiness of reality.

I am thankful that this experience brought me back to the God of my fathers. For I had wandered in college in the Hegelian materialism which had already become the climate of American intellectualism. We already knew that God was a myth. But the reaction to Marxism, in its Leninist version in the midst of the Russian Revolution, could only be, if one did not submit to its disciplines, the assurance that there must be a Divine Intelligence, a power outside ourselves that makes for righteousness, a God. From this strength alone can come reasoning resistance to bolshevism.

I am thankful that having witnessed socialism at work, I could not believe that any system is preferable to a free competitive economy in which each individual, at his risk, forms the pattern of his life. For no matter how ideally worded in the books, socialism reduces man to serfdom in the sense that he becomes bound to the decisions and will of the state; he is a creature of police power. When the government owns the means of production and distribution, the individual becomes a thing, statistical figure. He is lost in the morass of bureaucracy.

I am thankful that early in life, in the atmosphere of a reign of terror, when men fought for the possession of an egg and women sold themselves for a bar of chocolate, it came to me that the Natural Law, the revealed law of God to man, proclaimed by my ancestors in the Bible, offering to man pity, compassion, charity, love as ideals of life, was a superior pattern to the Darwinian struggle for existence and the Marxian theory of unending class struggle.

I am thankful for the long years I spent among the kindly Chinese, who broadened my outlook on life and proved that while the human race contains as many different kinds of people as there are varieties of roses, all human beings are much the same in their elementary nature. Before I arrived in Harbin in 1918, the only Chinese I had known were sugar-cane merchants in New York's Chinatown, chop suey restaurant waiters, laundrymen, and three or four students at Columbia University. For 13 years, I lived among the Chinese in their own country and I came to know them with rare intimacy —and to love them.

But most of all, I am thankful that I am a citizen of no mean country; that in this country of my birth, I am permitted to write and speak, wisely or foolishly, in freedom. I am thankful I can worship my God without fear and that no government controls my life or threatens me with reprisals against my children.

On Thanksgiving Day, I shall bow my head before the gracious God whose shadow fell between me and possible previous errors that could have tortured my life and brought misery to my kind. There is so much to be thankful for.

Today In Washington

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON — Theoretically the Canadian government is right in refusing to let Igor Gouzenko, former code clerk in the Soviet embassy in Ottawa, testify before the Senate Internal Security subcommittee. But there are many ways to accomplish the same objective without violating the customary proprieties.

Thus, no investigating committee can be conceded the right to go into Canada, any more than the United States would feel obliged to let a foreign commission seek out citizens inside our own territory for testimony.

Some Cooperation Possible

In a situation, however, like the "cold war" and, in fact, during a hot war, measures of cooperation between allied governments are adopted which make possible the desired exchange of information. An example of this kind of unity was afforded within the last few years when Klaus Fuchs was arrested in Britain in connection with the transmission of secrets of the atom bomb to the Communists. The Federal Bureau of Investigation was anxious to interrogate Fuchs to get some clues to persons inside the United States who had up to that time not been detected, but who were believed to have had a part in the spy-ring operation. At first, the British government at the top-policy level declined to give the FBI any information or to let its agents interrogate Fuchs. But, after several months of discussion back and forth through diplomatic channels, the questioning by American intelligence agents was permitted and information was obtained that enabled the Department of Justice to catch the Rosenbergs, who were still in the United States, and convict them of espionage.

So, when the objective is the running down of Communist spies in the interest of a nation's security, there are usually ways to pool information and carry on the common fight against persons seeking to injure an ally.

Something of the same kind of situation has arisen now with respect to Gouzenko. It has been reported from Ottawa that he has told all he knew. But not until a witness is examined on minute details can it be determined whether he has presented new information.

It is important, of course, that such testimony be taken in executive session, and the Senate Internal Security subcommittee has been meticulous about maintaining silence on testimony given in secret sessions when secrecy is essential. It might be suggested that the FBI do the interrogating, but, under rules established heretofore, information given to the FBI is not available in raw form to any congressional committees and, in any form, only in specific cases.

The FBI, like the intelligence agencies of other countries, gets its information from a variety of sources in foreign lands. The other day reference was made, for example, to a Canadian source which had inquired in 1946 about the future selection of Harry Dexter White to head up the International Monetary Fund. Dispatches from Ottawa in the last few days stated that the document inquiring about this case couldn't be found. Probably it will not be, because intelligence data are frequently not written down by officials but given orally to security representatives. The Canadian government has doubtless secured much information that way from intelligence sources in the United States Government. Sometimes it is not recognized abroad — and indeed many people overlook the fact in this country—that Congress, with its committees, constitutes an independent and coordinate branch of the government. The Supreme Court of the United States has upheld the right of Congress to investigate almost anything upon which it seeks information, either for the purposes of adopting or repealing legislation or even for the purpose of recommending constitutional amendments.

The problem is a delicate one because naturally the Canadian government would not wish to withhold any information that could be of value in helping the American people, through a campaign of education undertaken by Congress, to alert the nation to the ways and means by which the Communist apparatus operates. There is every reason why the Senate Internal Security Committee wishes to respect the attitude of the Canadian government in conforming to custom, and it is a matter of great concern here that mischief-makers in this country have tried to link the committee's request for Gouzenko's testimony to some alleged "smear" of Foreign Secretary Pearson. Plainly somebody is at work trying to disturb Canadian-American relations, and it isn't the Senate Internal Security subcommittee.

On The Line

By BOB CONSIDINE

HOLLYWOOD — (INS)—Movies may not be better than ever but they're sure bigger. And deeper. There won't be many films coming out of here henceforth that aren't in CinemaScope, Cinerama, or Mike Todd's 70 millimeter process. Or 3-D, which is trying to ignite the fuse again with a good script after a brief, sputtering career that was a shot in the arm to the economy of the industry but no artistic contribution.

"The only writers who have a chance in Hollywood today are Matthew, Mark, Luke and John," said Hal Conrad, a friend who sank from a good sports writing job on Jacobs Beach to the plush and riches of the film capital. He added: "Screen's too big for anything. Anybody else know how are you going to have an intimate little thing 55 feet wide?" It's a problem at that. But not as great a problem as one might think. There's TV writing to consider.

Because television, the cyclopticeyed monster which threatened to destroy Hollywood right down to the cellars, is what is keeping employment high in the film world. Hollywood now is turning out more film for TV shows than it is producing for theatre consumption.

A lot of people who ordinarily would be out of work today in an industry which is turning out fewer than half the pictures it made during the war years, are busy and quite happy to be stoking the insatiable maw of the monster that was scheduled to devour them.

There is something of the air of the early film pioneering days about the Hollywood of today. When the great ones first came here they discovered a land of opportunity which has few equals in history. Billions of dollars have been made with what Hollywood had to offer; fantastic fortunes grew and kept growing; the age of the American theater was changed; a whole new species of American hero and heroine was created out of nothingness. The temples and the palaces of this nobility still dot the neighboring hills.

Like conquering armies of old, high taxes and television swept over the stucco capital of the film world and levelled it. It was felt it could never rise again. But other and greater capitals had survived the invader's heel in history, and so has Hollywood. It was resourceful enough to come up with tantalizing new and lifelike devices, calculated to bring back customers rooted to their living rooms or taverns. But, mostly, Hollywood is surviving and succeeding because it adopted the homely philosophy, "If you can't beat 'em, jine 'em." It has jined TV and shows every sign of consuming it, like China consumed whole series of conquerors.

Sam Marx, one of the most gifted of the younger Hollywood producers, has some startling thoughts about the opportunities abounding in Hollywood today. To wit:

"Television gives Hollywood what it has always longed for, a chance to make a picture inexpensively and see that picture continue to build up grosses after it has played the first-runs. The man who makes and owns a good TV film today will make more money, and keep more money, than any similar producer before him in Hollywood.

"He can sell his product to a top sponsor, let the sponsor use it briefly, and then take it back, change its title, and sell it to another sponsor. By the time he gets it back from the second sponsor there are dozens more TV stations in the country, and those new audiences must be accommodated. So there is another sponsor. In time he can bring the same film back to the original sponsor . . . And so on. It's a chain reaction."

Marx, who is about to film a TV series starring Charles Coburn, also told us that the ownership by Liberace, the pianist, of a little, 15-minute weekly showing of his wares, has now reached more than 100 markets and Liberace's income is reputed to be somewhere between $25,000 and $40,000 a week. Mary Pickford had trouble making that much when she had curls and owned half the town.

The big networks are still fighting the filming of TV shows with one hand, and searching about for good TV films with the other. Basically, NBC and CBS wants its biggest shows "live," but in time will accept something on film or on the new TV "tape," if the artists insist loud enough. When that day comes, the making of theater films in Hollywood will drop deeply into second place.

A new crop of wonder boys is growing in Hollywood, as the giants of old grew in the days of puttees and pith helmets. But, as it was then, this era is one of the survival of the fittest. For every canned TV show that finds fortune there are three or four that never get out of the can, wiping out hopeful investors.

Two Deer Struck By Bakery Trucks

There has been information from nearby West Virginia that game is plentiful this year, and the Community Baking Company of this city knows it only too well.

Monday, one of its trucks hit a deer, the second buck to be slain by the local bakery's vehicles in the past week.

Company officials said Richard Wilson of Potomac Park was driving a walk-in type truck along a rural route seven miles from Petersburg enroute to Moser, W. Va.

Suddenly a buck jumped a 12-foot bank into the front of the truck, smashing in the radiator and grill.

The vehicle was disabled and another truck had to be dispatched to Petersburg. The eight-point, 100-pound buck was butchered and presented to the Petersburg schools.

Total damage to the truck totaled about $125, bakery officials stated.

Early last week 15 miles north of Elkins on Route 219 a four-point buck ran into the fender and bumper of a Community Baking Company tractor-trailer driven by Delmer Cowgill, of the Koon Dam section.

There was only a dent on the fender to show for this deer kill. The 125-pound animal was butchered and given to the children's home at Elkins.

In the instance Monday, officials noted the driver would have been hurt or killed had the large front window of the truck been crashed. Miraculously it did not break, they stated.

CD Rescue Truck Slated For Delivery

William G. Barger, director of Civil Defense for Allegany County, has informed the County Board of Commissioners that a rescue truck which the state CD agency has allotted to this area is expected to arrive during the week of November 30.

Barger said the vehicle, which is fully equipped with tools and devices for use in rescue work, is valued at $9,180. The county is receiving the truck without any cost being borne by the county Civil Defense program.

Barger inqufred if the vehicle could be housed at the county garage on Franklin Street. Due to crowded conditions, J. Walker Chapman, roads supervisor, said the vehicle could not be handled. "We have over $200,000 worth of county roads equipment which is kept outdoors due to lack of garage space," he added.

The commissioners said they will arrange a meeting with Barger to discuss what can be done concerning the housing of the truck. Barger said the vehicle will be housed in the proposed Fire Training Station which will be erected in Constitution Park in the near future.

The commissioners also arranged to have the roof of the Cumberland Free Public Library painted and spouting on both the library and annex replaced.

Owned By County

The structures are owned by the county. The repair work was termed necessary by Miss Mary G. Walsh, librarian, following inspection by several contractors. An offer by John H. Herboldsheimer, to paint the roof and install new spouting at a cost of $260 was accepted by the board.

A letter of thanks was received by the board from the boys and girls of Lincoln School in Frostburg. The county board gave funds to the School Safety Patrol recently which was used to buy badges and belts for the pupils who are members of the Safety Patrol.

Youngsters noisily bouncing home from school at high noon will relish Bacon Toastwiches. To make these, place three slices crisp bacon between each two slices of bread. Dip the sandwiches into a French toast mixture and brown on both sides in hot fat. Serve with syrup, if desired.

Woman "Peace Pilgrim" Hikes Across Nation

BALTIMORE, Nov. 24 (AP)—A tall, thin lady who might have stepped right out of the Middle Ages walked through Baltimore this week on what she said was a "pilgrimage for peace."

She said she started her hike in Los Angeles Jan. 1 and was bound for New York.

She was completely tight lipped about her background and her real name. Her age was anything you wanted to call it. Her weight she would disclose—115 pounds

She said her pilgrimage is sponsored by no one, that she is of no particular religion and has no particular ax to grind. Just peace.

When she gets to New York, she said, she intends to call on Mme. Pandit, of the Indian delegation at United Nations headquarters.

And after that—"I shall remain a wanderer on the face of the earth, walking until I am given shelter and fasting until I am given food."

Miss Pilgrim said she covers about 25 miles per day, and has walked as far as 40—in rain, snow and cold weather. She said she has gone as long as 36 hours without food.

Washington Co. Doubles Volunteer Firemen Aid

HAGERSTOWN, Nov. 24 (AP) — The 10 volunteer fire departments in Washington County will get twice the help from the county that they got previously. The county commissioners voted today to raise the grants to the rural fire companies from $600 to $1,200 annually.

The commissioners acted on complaints that rising costs have thrown a larger financial burden on the volunteer companies.

The 10 companies own buildings worth a total of $145,000, equipment worth $160,000 and have 2,480 members. They answered 395 alarms in rural areas last year.

Return To Barton

Mr. and Mrs. Maurice B. Lamberson of Barton have returned home from New York where they atended the funeral of Mrs. William Anderson, Mrs. Lamberson's sister.

Rate Slash Asked By Electric Co-Op

BALTIMORE, Nov. 24 (AP)—With all of Baltimore's major utilities after rate increases, the Maryland Public Service Commission today was asked by a Southern Maryland utility for permission to reduce its rates.

The firm, Southern Maryland Electric Cooperative, Inc., serves all or parts of Calvert, Prince Georges, St. Mary's and Charles Counties.

It would reduce all classes of service, resulting in estimated revenue decreases of some $90,000 or five per cent annually.

Censors Ban British Film In Maryland

BALTIMORE, Nov. 24 (AP) — The Maryland Board of Motion Picture Censors today called the British film, "The Captain's Paradise," indecent and rejected it for showing in the state.

The film is about a ship captain with a wife in one port and a paramour in another. It stars Alec Guiness.

Sydney R. Traub, chairman of the state censoring board, said one of the factors influencing the decision was recent action taken by Joseph Breen, head of the Production Code Administration, who revoked a tentative seal of approval.

Traub said the Breen revocation came about because the producer failed to make suggested revisions.

Traub said the captain was a "lazy daisy" around his wife and the "life of the party" when with his paramour. Traub said such a situation makes light of marriage.

The Maryland censor said the captain and his girl friend "live together in adultery, there's no question about it."

A reviewer called the film's theme "sheer lightweight satire" and "in the very best of adult fun."

West Germany Would Ban Nazi Propaganda

BONN, Germany, Nov. 24 (AP)—The West German government said today it will ask Parliament for authority to outlaw articles, films, radio and television programs which glorify Nazism.

No further details were given.

The nine West German states have just banned a film on Hitler after consultation with the Bonn government. The states ruled that the film, "Until Five Minutes After Twelve," might threaten public order and security.

County Officers, Bypassed In Raid, Are 'Burned Up'

ANNAPOLIS, Nov. 24 (AP)—Members of the Board of Anne Arundel County Commissioners are "burning up" because the county police were bypassed in a Brooklyn Park gambling crackdown last Friday and they intend to find out why it happened.

Today the board decided to investigate the matter personally after asking Col. Daniel Bratton "what kind of a police department" he is running.

Chairman Ralph L. Lowman said, "the headlines said Bratton was burning up. Lowman was burning up, too."

Lowman suggested the board's investigation to find out "what the police department needs to do a complete job."

He said that if the state police and the state's attorney are going to do the county police job, the budget for the force should be cut, and eventually eliminated.

Bratton complained earlier of being bypassed in the raids, after supplying information that led to the arrest of seven men and two women in the crackdown.

The board suggested that State's Attorney C. Osborne Duvall will be called in the investigation since he was informed of the raids.

Lowman rejected Bratton's plea that he needed more men, by saying the department has plenty of men, but they need "a little common sense."

Six new patrolmen will be added to the county police force the first of the year, bringing the total personnel up to 74 men. Three patrol cars also will be added, making a total of 17 cars.

ADLAI ON HIS "SOAP" BOX — Adlai Stevenson, addressing thousands of cheering Georgia Democrats from the steps of the Capitol in Atlanta yesterday, obliges cameramen by standing on a soft drink case to deliver his speech. In his barbed attack on GOP handling of the Communists-in-government issue, Stevenson said "President Eisenhower's 'lieutenants' have taken McCarthyism away from McCarthy—what an end to the Great Crusade!"

Individual Cinnamon and Spice Alaskas can be made in a twinkling when bakers' sponge cake shells form the base. Arrange bright red slices of cinnamon apples—apples cooked in a red cinnamon candy syrup—in each shell. Cover closely with a cloud of meringue. Place these on a cookie sheet and bake in a (450° F.) oven for five minutes, or until meringue is lightly browned.

Transients Picked Wrong Train Car

HAGERSTOWN, Nov. 24 (AP) — Two Jersey City, N. J., men might have got away with an unauthorized train ride if they'd picked their boxcars more carefully.

But they landed in a car loaded with fertilizer and were all too easily spotted by railroad detectives. The cops were called by Western Maryland workers in the Hagerstown passenger station, where the men went to clean up.

The two, booked as Jesse Sickel, 47, and Michael Power, 61, got an understandably speedy hearing in magistrate's court and were sentenced to five days for trespassing on railroad property. Then they were hustled off to the county jail for, among other things, a bath.

Man Draws $4 Jury Pay 50 Years Late

TOWSON, Md., Nov. 24 (AP) — Seventy - nine - year - old John T. Shaw drew $4 jury service pay today for services performed 50 years ago.

Shaw handed a yellowed certificate for jury service to Baltimore County Treasurer Charles L. Hammond and got his pay.

Shaw said the certificate, dated March 2, 1903, was put away in a trunk the day of the trial and was unearthed yesterday when he was sorting out old documents.

Woman "Peace Pilgrim" Hikes Across Nation

BALTIMORE, Nov. 24 (AP)—A tall, thin lady who might have stepped right out of the Middle Ages walked through Baltimore this week on what she said was a "pilgrimage for peace."

She said she started her hike in Los Angeles Jan. 1 and was bound for New York.

She was completely tight lipped about her background and her real name. Her age was anything you wanted to call it. Her weight she would disclose—115 pounds.

She said her pilgrimage is sponsored by no one, that she is of no particular religion and has no particular ax to grind. Just peace.

When she gets to New York, she said, she intends to call on Mme. Pandit, of the Indian delegation at United Nations headquarters.

And after that—"I shall remain a wanderer on the face of the earth, walking until I am given shelter and fasting until I am given food."

Miss Pilgrim said she covers about 25 miles per day, and has walked as far as 40—in rain, snow and cold weather. She said she has gone as long as 36 hours without food.

Washington Co. Doubles Volunteer Firemen Aid

HAGERSTOWN, Nov. 24 (AP) — The 10 volunteer fire departments in Washington County will get twice the help from the county that they got previously. The county commissioners voted today to raise the grants to the rural fire companies from $600 to $1,200 annually.

The commissioners acted on complaints that rising costs have thrown a larger financial burden on the volunteer companies.

The 10 companies own buildings worth a total of $145,000, equipment worth $160,000 and have 2,480 members. They answered 395 alarms in rural areas last year.

Mr. and Mrs. Maurice B. Lamberson of Barton have returned home from New York where they atended the funeral of Mrs. William Anderson, Mrs. Lamberson's sister.

Rate Slash Asked By Electric Co-Op

BALTIMORE, Nov. 24 (AP)—With all of Baltimore's major utilities after rate increases, the Maryland Public Service Commission today was asked by a Southern Maryland utility for permission to reduce its rates.

The firm, Southern Maryland Electric Cooperative, Inc., serves all or parts of Calvert, Prince Georges, St. Mary's and Charles Counties.

It would reduce all classes of service, resulting in estimated revenue decreases of some $90,000 or five per cent annually.

Censors Ban British Film In Maryland

BALTIMORE, Nov. 24 (AP) — The Maryland Board of Motion Picture Censors today called the British film, "The Captain's Paradise," indecent and rejected it for showing in the state.

The film is about a ship captain with a wife in one port and a paramour in another. It stars Alec Guiness.

Sydney R. Traub, chairman of the state censoring board, said one of the factors influencing the decision was recent action taken by Joseph Breen, head of the Production Code Administration, who revoked a tentative seal of approval.

Traub said the Breen revocation came about because the producer failed to make suggested revisions.

Traub said the captain was a "lazy daisy" around his wife and the "life of the party" when with his paramour. Traub said such a situation makes light of marriage.

The Maryland censor said the captain and his girl friend "live together in adultery, there's no question about it."

A reviewer called the film's theme "sheer lightweight satire" and "in the very best of adult fun."

West Germany Would Ban Nazi Propaganda

BONN, Germany, Nov. 24 (AP)—The West German government said today it will ask Parliament for authority to outlaw articles, films, radio and television programs which glorify Nazism.

No further details were given.

The nine West German states have just banned a film on Hitler after consultation with the Bonn government. The states ruled that the film, "Until Five Minutes After Twelve," might threaten public order and security.

County Officers, Bypassed In Raid, Are 'Burned Up'

ANNAPOLIS, Nov. 24 (AP)—Members of the Board of Anne Arundel County Commissioners are "burning up" because the county police were bypassed in a Brooklyn Park gambling crackdown last Friday and they intend to find out why it happened.

Today the board decided to investigate the matter personally after asking Col. Daniel Bratton "what kind of a police department" he is running.

Chairman Ralph L. Lowman said, "the headlines said Bratton was burning up. Lowman was burning up, too."

Lowman suggested the board's investigation to find out "what the police department needs to do a complete job."

He said that if the state police and the state's attorney are going to do the county police job, the budget for the force should be cut, and eventually eliminated.

Bratton complained earlier of being bypassed in the raids, after supplying information that led to the arrest of seven men and two women in the crackdown.

The board suggested that State's Attorney C. Osborne Duvall will be called in the investigation since he was informed of the raids.

Lowman rejected Bratton's plea that he needed more men, by saying the department has plenty of men, but they need "a little common sense."

Six new patrolmen will be added to the county police force the first of the year, bringing the total personnel up to 74 men. Three patrol cars also will be added, making a total of 17 cars.

ADLAI ON HIS "SOAP" BOX — Adlai Stevenson, addressing thousands of cheering Georgia Democrats from the steps of the Capitol in Atlanta yesterday, obliges cameramen by standing on a soft drink cage to deliver his speech. In his barbed attack on GOP handling of the Communists-in-government issue, Stevenson said "President Eisenhower's 'lieutenants' have taken McCarthyism away from McCarthy—what an end to the Great Crusade!"

Transients Picked Wrong Train Car

HAGERSTOWN, Nov. 24 (AP) — Two Jersey City, N. J., men might have got away with an unauthorized train ride if they'd picked their boxcars more carefully.

But they landed in a car loaded with fertilizer and were all too easily spotted by railroad detectives. The cops were called by Western Maryland workers in the Hagerstown passenger station, where the men went to clean up.

The two, booked as Jesse Sickel, 47, and Michael Power, 61, got an understandably speedy hearing in magistrate's court and were sentenced to five days for trespassing on railroad property. Then they were hustled off to the county jail for, among other things, a bath.

Women Of U. N. Given Preview Of Thanksgiving

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y., Nov. 24 (AP)—Rep. Frances P. Bolton (R-Ohio) gave a preview today of a typical American Thanksgiving dinner for Mrs. Vijaya Lakshmi Pandit of India and other U.N. women delegates. Three were from behind the Iron Curtain.

The international group gathered to sample the traditional delicacies in a private dining room here which Mrs. Bolton had decorated with seasonal trimmings bought at a New York five and ten cent store.

The 21 ladies toasted one another and world peace in sweet cider served in napkin-wrapped bottles from sparkling silver champagne coolers.

On their plates as they sat down were five kernels of seed corn which, Mrs. Bolton said, were a Pilgrim symbol of gratitude for a good harvest and a hope for another.

Mrs. Evelyn Emmet of Britain suggested that all those present take the kernels to their home countries and plant them as a good omen for world peace. There was no opposition, so presumably the American corn will take root in such countries as White Russia, the Ukraine, Poland, India, Indonesia, Israel, Iraq, Denmark, Norway, Sweden and the Dominican Republic. All had representatives present.

Mrs. Bolton, who says she regards such social gatherings as an important contribution to international understanding, called for a "moment of silence to pay our thanks, each in our own way, to the infinite." This took the place of the usual grace, since many religions and denominations were represented in the group.

Pravda Calls For Soviet-U. S. Cooperation While It Wages Anti-American Campaign

By TOM WHITNEY
(Former Moscow Correspondent)

NEW YORK, Nov. 24 (AP)—The Soviet newspaper Pravda, which called for Soviet-American cooperation in a half page editorial today has on some recent days been devoting a quarter or more of its total space to anti-American propaganda.

The theme today was that improvement in relations between the Soviet Union and the United States would be "a paramount factor in lessening international tension."

But for many weeks past the editors of this Communist party organ and other Soviet papers have been losing no opportunity to give all kinds of material they print an anti-American slant.

Careful examination of issues over the past month show Pravda has been waging an intense campaign to convince Russians the United States government has been sabotaging all peace plans and intends war.

Copies of leading Moscow press organs such as Pravda, Izvestia and Trud reaching here show the current volume of material attacking the United States is probably as great as it ever was under Stalin.

After the Soviet dictator's death last March there was a period of several months when the Russian press relaxed markedly its direct attacks on the United States.

At the time many Western diplomats and observers of the Soviet scene considered this to be a significant sign, possibly indicating a Soviet desire to ease tensions with the outer world.

But the lull did not last long. It's all over now.

A few days ago Pravda devoted nearly an entire page to germ-warfare charges, of which little had been heard since Stalin's death.

"The American bloc is against cessation of the arms race," read a headline on a report of United Nations debates.

The headline over a news report from Korea: "The American side is frustrating the conduct of explanatory work among war prisoners."

An editorial attacked President Eisenhower for his trip to Canada, depicting him as attempting to force Canada to break away from the British commonwealth.

A cartoon showed the United States in the form of a snake whose body formed the "S" of a dollar sign, darting its tongue out at a bedraggled British lion.

A long editorial entitled "the dirty dollar war" was a general attack on American foreign policy in the form of a review of a British book.

The diamond is not only the hardest of minerals, but also the most imperishable and the most brilliant, according to the Encyclopedia Britannica.

State Briefs

The chief meteorologist of the U. S. Weather Bureau station here says the outlook for Thanksgiving Day weather is sunshine, temperatures in the low 50's, and "it should be the nicest Thanksgiving weather you could ask for."

PIKESVILLE, Md., Nov. 24 (AP)—The Civil Defense Advisory Council has vetoed a proposed "practice evacuation" of a Maryland city. CD officials were toying with the idea, to see how fast a community could be evacuated.

Among communities under consideration for the practice flight were Annapolis, Cambridge, Westminster and Hagerstown.

HAGERSTOWN, Md., Nov. 24 (AP)—Lions, monkeys, a buffalo, coyotes and some ordinary farm animals will be up for sale at an auction near here on Saturday.

S. R. Edmonds of Appletown says he's closing his private zoo, which he maintained as a hobby, because he can't find anyone to take care of the animals. He's getting rid of his farm and stock, too.

Janet Gaynor Makes Debut On TV Saturday

The petite star, first actress ever to win an Academy Award, will play a grief-stricken widow on Medallion Theater over CBS-TV.

She told a reporter the role is unlike anything she ever did in the movies except "for a touch of 'A Star Is Born.'"

Miss Gaynor and her famed designer husband, Adrian, have been making frequent African safaris. Adrian has given up dress designing to concentrate on painting African wild life and landscapes.

For a new version of cottage pudding add sliced bananas to a slightly tart lemon sauce. Spoon over slices of bakers' angel food, sponge or chiffon cake.

Evidence Points To New Suspect In Alaska Killing

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 24 (AP)—A federal officer assigned to the case of Cecil Wells, slain Alaskan businessman, disclosed today that police have traced the murder weapon and have "new evidence" on a new suspect in Alaska.

U. S. Deputy Marshal Francis X. Wirth flew here to return to Fairbanks Negro jazz drummer Johnny Warren, 33, who with Wells' blonde widow Diane, 31, is charged with murder in the shooting of Wells, 51.

Warren has maintained his innocence. Wirth, when he picked up his prisoner at the San Francisco County Jail, told newsmen:

"I don't think Johnny pulled the trigger on Wells. There is another suspect, a man, in Alaska now."

Wirth added, however:

"He may be innocent of the actual shooting, but he is apparently holding back evidence, probably protecting someone else."

Probed about who the "someone else" might be, Wirth declared:

"We have tracked down the murder weapon. New evidence points to this new man. We're working on the case against him now." He declined to elaborate further.

Warren, who played in a country club orchestra in Fairbanks, left the Alaska city by car the same morning Wells was shot to death in bed in his lavish apartment atop the tallest building in the territory.

Arrested in Oakland, Calif., three weeks ago at the request of Alaska authorities, Warren gave Oakland investigators a long statement in which he spoke of friendly relations with Mrs. Wells.

Mrs. Wells denied any improper relations with the musician. She had flown to Seattle before a secret grand jury indictment against Warren and herself was returned. She returned to Alaska voluntarily to fight the charges.

Farm Experts Urge U. S. Use Surpluses To Meet Famine

ROME, Nov. 24 (AP)—Two farm eexperts from the western world yesterday urged that America's rising food surpluses be used to help meet hunger elsewhere.

They were Prof. Josue de Castro, of the executive council of the United Nations Food and Agriculture Organization (FAO), and Allan B. Kline of Vinton, Iowa, president of the American Farm Bureau Federation.

They spoke at the opening sessions of FAO's seventh world conference, attended by 500 representatives of 68 nations.

De Castro appealed to the conference to create a world food reserve now for emergency use to meet famine and relieve "suffering and despair" among 60 per cent of the world's population.

"Fears have been expressed here about unsold food surpluses which are mounting in some parts of the world. These can and should become useful assets and not a danger."

Kline said, however, the "assumption that there is somewhere in the world enough food for everybody — only needing distribution —is false."

He said there must be increased food production with industrial production, and freer movement of goods in the world.

"Natural resources are not evenly distributed around the world," he added. "There must be trade and that trade must be mutually advantageous."

He spoke as the representative of the International Federation of Agricultural Producers which has consultative relations with FAO.

Examine Old German bottle caps. Pry up the cork lining—it's easy with a key or nail file—and you'll find a letter there. Save your letters till you can spell out O-L-D G-E-R-M-A-N. Then send all nine letters or reasonable facsimiles thereof to Queen City Brewing Co., Cumberland, Md. In the same envelope complete this statement in 10 words or less "I prefer Old German Beer because . . ." Winning entry each month will be judged on basis of accuracy, cleverness and clarity. Baltimore May Enlist Western Union In Its Traffic Ticket Drive

BALTIMORE, Nov. 24 (AP)—Chief Magistrate Stanley Scherr said today he may enlist the services of Western Union in the city's drive to cleanup a big backlog of ignored traffic summons.

Under the plan, Western Union would send a form telegram serving as a second notice to delinquent violators.

The firm would take over the entire job—sorting, typing and delivering.

It had not been determined whether the cost of the telegram, about 40 cents, could be assessed against the ticket holder under the existing law.

The job of typing up second notices and having them delivered by police is one of the big headaches involved in the job of clearing away the backlog of some 30,000 tickets.

New tickets keep pouring in at the rate of nearly 1,000 per day.

Karen Rebels Dynamite Train, Killing Three

RANGOON, Burma, Nov. 24 (AP)—Reports reaching here tonight said Karen rebels had derailed with dynamite Sunday a Rangoon-Moulmein passenger train, killing three women passengers and two escort police, and seized 30 other passengers as hostages.

The reports said the rebels fired on the derailed train, removed all valuables from the passengers, and burned five coaches before fleeing with the hostages. It was the second attack on the rail line in a week.

CABLE "TV" NEWS

WE WELCOME ANY NEW TELEVISION RECEPTION THAT CUMBERLAND WILL EVER RECEIVE, including the two new local U. H. F. stations that have been alloted to Cumberland, when they begin to operate.

WE REALIZE THE GOOD THAT TELEVISION BRINGS to the home and we want to encourage all that can, to get television as soon as possible, either by antenna or Cable TV.

WITH CABLE TV you will always get the most complete TV reception service it is possible to obtain. Even if you paid a hundred times what Cable TV costs, it could not and will not be duplicated in Cumberland.

WE CAN EASILY keep this leadership year after year, and we will continue as in the past, to offer new improvements for OUR SUBSCRIBERS, for they ARE OUR CHIEF SALES FORCE.

WE BROUGHT THREE CHANNEL TELEVISION TO CUMBERLAND almost two years ago. We now have sixty miles of streets cabled for TV and have almost two thousand subscribers. We now have five TV stations to select the best programs from and within a few weeks we will have this built up to nine, plus Local Telecasting.

LOCAL TELECASTING WILL START Wed., Nov. 25th, at 7 p. m., Mondays thru Fridays. It will be on Cable channel 4 and will only be on for 30 minute periods to start with and will consist of test pattern, a short film and a few slides that we are preparing in our own Photographic and Art Department.

These slides are shown chiefly for the local merchants to see what we can produce quickly and economically for them. More elaborate slides can be produced or obtained for them as well as filmed commercials.

Local Telecasting can be made at present on either Cable channels 2, 4, or 6 and will be scheduled from one station break period to a later station break period.

This programming will consist of: (as it is developed) Filmed short stories, local news, features, sports, musicals and etc. (Slides, oral and film.) Also, local live programs. The above type of programming will be sponsored mostly by local merchants.

PUBLIC SERVICE PROGRAMMING will be sponsored by PV-TV as soon as it can be arranged. It will consist of films, national and local; live appearances, at our own studio; and slides of special occasions and interests together with comments.

THERE IS CONSIDERABLE INTEREST both nationally and locally to be able to let the TV viewers know where the sponsors' products can be obtained locally. Merchants interested will please contact us, so the details can be worked out with their sponsor. It will be possible later, if necessary, for us to do the above type of telecasting on all three channels at exactly the same time and for the different sponsors.

TO OUR SUBSCRIBERS. This will mean that part of the network programs can have a local atmosphere. In addition, the revenues received from local telecasting may make possible a reduction in your monthly rental costs.

Harrisburg, Pennsylvania is within thirty miles of York, Pennsylvania, which has had a TV station for a number of years and is not too far from Philadelphia. A cable TV company started to operate there two years ago. Within the past few months two local U. H. F. stations have started to operate. (Harrisburg lays in a flat country toward all TV stations.)

THE CABLE TV COMPANY HAS NOT LOST A SINGLE SUBSCRIBER AND THEIR INSTALLATION RATE IS INCREASING. Cable TV will always be the most satisfactory way of getting TV reception in Cumberland.

YOU WILL NOT NEED ANY CONVERTERS if you have Cable TV. All our needed conversions will be on Irons Mountain and there is no extra cost to our subscribers.

ALMOST 2000 FAMILIES IN CUMBERLAND are saying that Cable TV was the best buy they ever made.

BUY YOUR TV SET FROM YOUR FAVORITE DEALER but be sure to get Cable TV.

Hundreds have switched from antenna to Cable TV within the last few months, our records will show.

IF THE FEW DOLLARS CABLE TV may cost (or it may not cost) is an item, then you will likely find as many others have, that you will be better off buying a cheaper TV set and Cable TV than an expensive set and antenna.

LET US GIVE YOU a 5 day free Cable TV trial. A TV dealer will gladly demonstrate a TV set to you.

CABLE "TV" NEWS

WE WELCOME ANY NEW TELEVISION RECEPTION THAT CUMBERLAND WILL EVER RECEIVE, including the two new local U. H. F. stations that have been alloted to Cumberland, when they begin to operate.

WE REALIZE THE GOOD THAT TELEVISION BRINGS to the home and we want to encourage all that can, to get television as soon as possible, either by antenna or Cable TV.

WITH CABLE TV you will always get the most complete TV reception service it is possible to obtain. Even if you paid a hundred times what Cable TV costs, it could not and will not be duplicated in Cumberland.

WE CAN EASILY keep this leadership year after year, and we will continue as in the past, to offer new improvements for OUR SUBSCRIBERS, for they ARE OUR CHIEF SALES FORCE.

WE BROUGHT THREE CHANNEL TELEVISION TO CUMBERLAND almost two years ago. We now have sixty miles of streets cabled for TV and have almost two thousand subscribers. We now have five TV stations to select the best programs from and within a few weeks we will have this built up to nine, plus Local Telecasting.

LOCAL TELECASTING WILL START Wed., Nov. 25th, at 7 p. m., Mondays thru Fridays. It will be on Cable channel 4 and will only be on for 30 minute periods to start with and will consist of test pattern, a short film and a few slides that we are preparing in our own Photographic and Art Department.

These slides are shown chiefly for the local merchants to see what we can produce quickly and economically for them. More elaborate slides can be produced or obtained for them as well as filmed commercials.

Local Telecasting can be made at present on either Cable channels 2, 4, or 6 and will be scheduled from one station break period to a later station break period.

This programming will consist of: (as it is developed) Filmed short stories, local news, features, sports, musicals and etc. (Slides, oral and film.) Also, local live programs. The above type of programming will be sponsored mostly by local merchants.

PUBLIC SERVICE PROGRAMMING will be sponsored by PV-TV as soon as it can be arranged. It will consist of films, national and local; live appearances, at our own studio; and slides of special occasions and interests together with comments.

THERE IS CONSIDERABLE INTEREST both nationally and locally to be able to let the TV viewers know where the sponsors' products can be obtained locally. Merchants interested will please contact us, so the details can be worked out with their sponsor. It will be possible later, if necessary, for us to do the above type of telecasting on all three channels at exactly the same time and for the different sponsors.

TO OUR SUBSCRIBERS. This will mean that part of the network programs can have a local atmosphere. In addition, the revenues received from local telecasting may make possible a reduction in your monthly rental costs.

Harrisburg, Pennsylvania is within thirty miles of York, Pennsylvania, which has had a TV station for a number of years and is not too far from Philadelphia. A cable TV company started to operate there two years ago. Within the past few months two local U. H. F. stations have started to operate. (Harrisburg lays in a flat country toward all TV stations.)

THE CABLE TV COMPANY HAS NOT LOST A SINGLE SUBSCRIBER AND THEIR INSTALLATION RATE IS INCREASING. Cable TV will always be the most satisfactory way of getting TV reception in Cumberland.

YOU WILL NOT NEED ANY CONVERTERS if you have Cable TV. All our needed conversions will be on Irons Mountain and there is no extra cost to our subscribers.

ALMOST 2000 FAMILIES IN CUMBERLAND are saying that Cable TV was the best buy they ever made.

BUY YOUR TV SET FROM YOUR FAVORITE DEALER but be sure to get Cable TV.

Hundreds have switched from antenna to Cable TV within the last few months, our records will show.

IF THE FEW DOLLARS CABLE TV may cost (or it may not cost) is an item, then you will likely find as many others have, that you will be better off buying a cheaper TV set and Cable TV than an expensive set and antenna.

LET US GIVE YOU a 5 day free Cable TV trial. A TV dealer will gladly demonstrate a TV set to you.

Trucker Hurt In Accident Near Keyser

Mrs. Ruth V. Campbell In Fair Condition

A woman truck driver from Clarksburg, W. Va. was hospitalized yesterday when a tractor-trailer she was operating turned over on Allegheny Front near Keyser causing one-way traffic for nearly six hours.

Mrs. Ruth Virginia Campbell, 38, was reported in fair condition at Potomac Valley Hospital where she was reported to be suffering a compound fracture of the lower left leg, fracture of the pelvis and multiple lacerations and abrasions about her body.

Overall property damage was estimated at $12,500, police said. A co-worker of Mrs. Campbell, Thomas Rosser, of Fairmont, W. Va., who was riding in the cab of the truck, was treated at the hospital and released.

Both persons are employes of the West Virginia Motor Express Company. State Police said the truck was traveling eastward on U. S. Route 50, when Mrs. Campbell, a regular driver for the firm, lost control and crossed the highway, struck a bank, ran back across the highway and overturned on the road.

Troopers W. Frank Bowley and D. G. Peters of the Keyser detachment of the West Virginia State Police investigated and stated the trailer was loaded with plate and flat glass. The mishap occurred at 8 a. m. and the west lane of the highway was blocked until 1:30 p. m. The unbroken cargo was transferred to another trailer dispatched from Clarksburg, police said.

Initialed Motor Vehicle Tags May Not Be Approved

BALTIMORE, Nov. 24 (AP)—The Department of Motor Vehicles indicated today that the proposed 1954 Maryland license tag which would carry a driver's initials instead of a number may be abandoned.

The reasons: too expensive, too confusing, too much work, and too little interest. Only 125 persons have applied for the plates since the Legislature passed the law authorizing them, a department spokesman said.

He said Commissioner Thomas B. R. Mudd will make an official announcement on the plan soon. But unless there's a marked increase in orders for the special 1954 plates, the announcement will likely spell "NO" to the whole idea of letter tags.

Under the plan, motorists with clean driving records for the last five years could get a tag bearing their initials instead of numbers by paying an extra $15 fee.

Police have objected to the idea all along, saying it is difficult enough to check licenses on Maryland cars with the state having just one tag. If that were replaced by one carrying only initials it would make their work more difficult. Many people have the same initials, police point out, and this would likely produce a rash of identical tags.

In addition, the tags would be done one-by-one on a hand press instead of machined like other tags.

ary road construction in Allegany County under the SRC 12-year plan, but added that under provisions of the bill the General Assembly could vote within four years to halt or change the present program and allocate the funds elsewhere.

Allender Urges Support

Driscoll also pointed out the SRC plan provided $175,000 for obtaining rights of way for the overhead span.

At the executive session a delegate said the council must look upon the SRC plan as not modern, but that it should be considered from a utility standpoint. The alternate proposal couldn't promise anything but a bypass, he said, which wouldn't help Cumberland until the internal street and railroad congestion were eliminated.

F. Patrick Alleander, president of the council who presided at the executive session, then told the group they must get out and back whichever plan they voted to endorse, and fight for it continously until it became a reality instead of a plan.

To Set Race Dates

BALTIMORE, Nov. 24 (AP) — The State Racing Commission today took the matter of arranging racing dates for 1954 out of the hands of Maryland's three major tracks and said it will announce a schedule by Dec. 1.

LIKES LOOKS OF THE PLACE—Walter "Wally" Alston, newly-appointed manager of the Brooklyn Dodgers, "gets the feel" of Ebbets Field from the steps of the dugout. Alston, 42, and a native of Hamilton, Ohio, piloted the Dodgers' Montreal Royals of the International League to the Little World Series victory over the Kansas City Blues. He has been in the Brooklyn farm system for the past eight and one-half years.

SPORTS SPUTTERINGS

By Walter L. Johns, Central Press Sports Editor

THE ARGUMENTS are on, of course, as to the relative merits o the national championship claims of Notre Dame and Maryland in the collegiate whirl, revolving slowly to a stop.

It is our opinion, and also that of our NATIONAL FOOTBALL RATINGS, a statistical chart on the collegiate teams which is based on strength of opposition plus wins and losses and points, that Notre Dame still is the top team in the country despite that tie with Iowa.

And, it is the opinion of others that Maryland, with 10 straight victories including a very convincing win over Alabama in the finale is the No. 1 college team.

A LOOK at the schedules of the two teams should halt any arguments. The Irish have met and defeated Oklahoma, champion of the Big Seven Conference; Georgia Tech, leader in the Southeastern Conference, and such other major clubs as Purdue, Pitt, Navy, Penn and North Carolina. The tie with Iowa last week, although Notre Dame might be termed both unlucky and lucky in that one, is the only blot on the record.

Still to be played by the Irish, however, are Southern California and Southern Methodist and if the Irish win both of these there shouldn't be any doubters discovered.

MARYLAND, admittedly a truly fine team, has played only a few foes which might be termed top-class in year after year performance, which brings about their national major status.

The Terps beat Missouri, Washington-Lee, Clemson, Georgia, North Carolina, Miami, South Carolina, George Washington, Mississippi and Alabama. Of this group Missouri, Mississippi and Alabama are rated among the leaders and South Carolina has fielded a very strong team this year. Georgia, generally a top contender, has had a poor season, beaten six times.

• • •

THE ONLY possible comparison between the Irish and Maryland is the North Carolina game. And there isn't too much to find from this result. Notre Dame trimmed the Tar Heels by a 34 to 14 score and Maryland did it by 26 to 0.

Another comparison may come on New Year's Day when Maryland plays Oklahoma in the Orange Bowl game.

AS A MATTER of interest, the rating system we use places Michigan State second to Notre Dame, with Maryland third. This is figured, of course, on a basis of caliber of opposition and Michigan State is rated above Maryland despite its one setback to Purdue, 6 to 0.

Only comparison of the Spartans and the Irish is that Michigan State beat Iowa, 21 to 7, but this was in the opening game and Iowa improved as it went along.

Papit Returns

WASHINGTON, Nov. 24 (AP)—The Washington Redskins reacquired halfback Johnny Papit today and announced that the former University of Virginia star will play Sunday against the Pittsburgh Steelers.

Papit was a starter for the Redskins in 1951 and 1952 but was traded to the Green Bay Packers at the start of this season. The Packers later released him.

Frostburg Teachers Open With Westinghouse Dec. 3

Bobcats Play Three Contests Next Week

Frostburg State Teachers College will launch its basketball campaign next week with three games in as many nights—two at home and one away.

Coach Kenneth Babcock last night announced the Bobcats will play Westinghouse Apprentice School of Pittsburgh on Thursday, December 3, at 8 p. m. on the Beall High School court.

The Teachers will tackle Altoona Undergraduate Center (Penn State Junior College) in Altoona on Friday, December 4, and will meet Johnstown Undergraduate Center (Pitt Junior College) on the Beall court Saturday, December 5.

Thirteen players are now on the squad, including four regulars of the 1952-53 quint, namely, Capt. Neil Grayson, Jack Barham, Bill Kirk and Ronnie Chapman. Other holdovers are Tommy Kelly, Joe Wolfe and John Clark. The newcomers are Bobby Wilson and Dick Devore from Bruce High; Bob Kirk, of Barton, who set an all-time record for scoring in the W.M.I. League last season; Pete Wageley, Fort Hill; Allan LaPorta, Beall, and Ed Thompson, Central High.

The Teachers will play 20 games.

Allegany, Fort Hill Conclude Training For Thursday Game

Allegany and Fort Hill yesterday concluded drills in preparation for their 21st meeting on the gridiron Thanksgiving Day.

Both squads are pronounced physically fit for the city championship contest set for 2 o'clock tomorrow at the stadium.

Coach William P. Hahn will windup his ninth season as head coach of the Sentinels in tomorrow's game. His teams have won 70, lost 8 and played five ties for an average of 89.7. Roy Lester concludes his second year as grid mentor at Allegany. His teams have won 12, lost 5 and tied one for a .706 average.

All reserved seats have been sold for the game which is expected to attract between 8,000 and 9,000 persons. Standing room tickets will be sold at the stadium before the game gets under way.

Both schools plan pep rallies today with bonfire celebrations set for tonight.

Baltimore Fans Urged To Support New Major Club

Clarence W. Miles Honored At Dinner

BALTIMORE, Nov. 24 (AP)—Baltimore has been back in the American League only two months, but Mayor Thomas D'Alesandro warned the people tonight to be "alert to the possibility that weak support could lead to financial disaster and loss of our club to a Western city."

"There are men in baseball who still want to engage in a new gold rush to the West," he said at a dinner honoring Clarence W. Miles, the lawyer who led in transfer here of the St. Louis Browns.

Mayor D'Alesandro recalled that efforts of Del Webb, New York Yankee owner, to get the American League to consider moving to the West Coast held up the transfer for three days at a meeting in September.

Cash Turned Tide

"Cold, hard cash turned the tide," said Mayor D'Alesandro. It was Miles who raised about 2½ million dollars to buy the Browns.

The mayor reminded more than 1,300 at the dinner that Baltimore lost an American League franchise to New York 50 years ago. "We must never let anything like that happen again," he declared. "We can set a attendance record for 1954 and for the following years."

Miles said the real significance of the dinner "is evidence of the enthusiasm you have for baseball. We are embarked on a community venture. Our success depends entirely upon the support of the people."

He reported that advance sales for the 1954 season already exceed $300,000, but he urged more.

Will Harridge, president of the American League, and representatives of every other club were present. The affair also brought out a gathering of former famous players.

Mr. Mack Applauded

Connie Mack, who will be 91 years old next month, drew tremendous applause when he posed with two of his Philadelphia old Athletics, Frank (Home Run) Baker and Lefty Grove. Baker was a third baseman 40 years ago and Grove started pitching for the Athletics in 1925.

Johnson City May Quit Loop

Appalachian League Is Having Troubles

JOHNSON CITY, Tenn., Nov. 24 (AP)—Johnson City will withdraw from the Class D Appalachian League Friday unless "the situation at Bristol" is settled by then, Carl A. Jones, president of the Johnson City Baseball Club, announced tonight.

Jones said his decision followed weeks of waiting for Bristol club stockholders, who said they no longer wanted to continue the money-losing operation, to dispose of their holdings to other operators.

Jones said the decision was based on the conviction that the Johnson City club must get started immediately to assure funds for the new season and could not do that until the league was definitely set to operate.

Johnson City has a working agreement with the Cardinals.

Match Postponed

The Allegany County Men's Shuffleboard League match scheduled Thursday night between the Cumberland K. of C. and Frostburg Golden Nugget has been postponed.

West Virginia Stays In Race For Bowl Berth

Georgia Tech's Foe Is Yet To Be Named

NEW ORLEANS, Nov. 24 (AP)—Sugar Bowl officials—seeking an opponent for defending champion Georgia Tech—said today they would "get together in a couple of days and make a decision."

But President Irwin Poche of the sponsoring Mid-Winter Sports Association wouldn't say whether the decision would be before or after Saturday's games.

"We meet every day," he said, "and something might come out of any of those meetings."

Poche said with the exception of Georgia Tech, invited last night, the same teams were still under consideration. He indicated, however, the selection of another Southeastern Conference team was unlikely.

Teams In Running

West Virginia, Texas Tech and a Southwestern Conference team not selected for the Cotton Bowl are the non-SEC teams counted in the running. Rice, Baylor and Texas are tied for the Southwestern Conference title. The Southwestern champion is the Cotton Bowl host.

Previously, the Sugar Bowl had said Tech, Auburn, Alabama, Mississippi and Kentucky were SEC teams under consideration.

The selection of the Yellow Jackets last night came after Poche had said earlier the group would wait until after Saturday to choose the teams for the New Year's Day game.

Tech was apparently grabbed from the outstretched hands of the Cotton Bowl, which first said it would name the visiting team withing 24 hours and then, after the New Orleans bowl signed Tech, said it would wait until Saturday.

End Season Saturday

West Virginia has concluded its season. Texas Tech meets Hardin-Simmons Saturday in its final game. Both teams have lost once.

No Southwestern team has lost fewer than two games. Texas, which can clinch a tie for the title with a victory Thursday over Texas A & M, has lost a conference game to Rice and two non-conference contests.

Rice and Baylor meet Saturday. Each has lost one outside game. Baylor was defeated by Texas and Southern Methodist handed Rice its conference loss.

Alston Succeeds Charley Dressen As Dodger Pilot

Moves Up To Majors From Montreal Farm

By JACK HAND

BROOKLYN, Nov. 24 (AP)—Walter Alston, a career man in the Brooklyn farm system, today was named manager of the Dodgers succeeding Chuck Dressen. Unlike Dressen, the 42-year-old Alston agreed to a one-year contract for an undisclosed sum.

Walter O'Malley, Dodger president, ended a guessing contest by calling the press to his office to meet the new manager.

Few were surprised by the choice for his name had been bandied about with several others since Pee Wee Reese decided he couldn't mix managing and playing shortstop. Few, however, knew the soft-spoken gentleman from Oxford, O.

Had Pennant Winners

Alston moved up to the parent club after a brilliant record on the farms at Nashua, N. H., Pueblo, St. Paul and Montreal. The former St. Louis Cardinal first baseman—for one game back in 1936—won pennants at St. Paul in 1949 and at Montreal in 1951 and 1952.

This year he finished second to Rochester in the International League but swept the playoffs and crushed the New York Yankees' Kansas City Blues in the Little World Series. It was this success against a Yankee team that helped him win the new job.

"I am aware of anybody who ever beats a Yankee," said O'Malley with a smile. "It's no secret that we're out to win a World Series. We're going to point for it."

The new manager admitted he never had seen a World Series game, except on television, and had watched only one game at Ebbets Field. He had been so busy with his own clubs, and playoffs he hadn't had time. Up to three years ago, he had hurried home to teach school and coach basketball in the off season.

When a reporter asked O'Malley if Alston had to win the pennant and World Series to hold his job, he got this answer:

"Around December (1954) we'll have to take that up, unless Walter's wife writes a letter in the meantime."

The answer drew ready response from the press for it was a letter by Dressen's wife, demanding a three-year contract, that settled his fate with the Dodgers.

Sound Baseball Man

"For years there has been a small clique of managers moving in and out of big league jobs," O'Malley added. "I see no reason why a man successful in the minors shouldn't get a chance on top. Alston is a sound baseball man with a justifiable record. He has the character, know how and ability.

All-Southern Conference Team Captained By Bosley

By ROBERT MOORE

RICHMOND, Va., Nov. 24 (AP)—Bruce Bosley, West Virginia's 212-pound sophomore tackle, today was named captain of the 1953 All-Southern Conference football team of The Associated Press.

Bosley received the honor because he polled the most votes in the annual balloting by conference coaches and sports writers.

The big bruiser from Greenbank, W. Va., came along rapidly as he stepped from obscurity to stardom. As a freshman a year ago, he played half of the campaign as a regular on defense in the two-platoon system.

One of the first things he did this season was to beat Ben Dunkerley, an All-America second team offensive selection in 1952, out of his position. For his performance against Penn State Oct. 31, Bosley was named The Associated Press Lineman of the Week.

Bosley was one of five West Virginians to earn berths on the honor club. There were two other linemen, including end Bill Marker, who has caught more passes during his college career than any other player in West Virginia history, and guard Gene Lamone, one of college football's fastest linemen.

Two West Virginia backs made the team. They are Fred Wyant, the team's quarterback, who has mastered the T-formation's "keep" play and the pitchout, and fullback Tommy Allman, regarded by Lewis as the "greatest blocking fullback I've ever seen, pro or college."

George Washington's Colonials and Virginia Tech's Gobblers each placed two players in the forward wall. The Colonials are end Richie Gaskell and center Steve (The Rock) Korcheck.

Korcheck just did win the center slot over West Virginia's great pivotman, Bob Orders. Coaches and players alike have raved all season about both Korcheck and Orders, both seniors.

Virginia Tech placed guard Harold Grizzard, lightest man in the all-conference line at 190 pounds, and tackle George Preas, who came close to beating out Bosley in the battle for the captaincy.

Rounding out the backfield are halfback Johnny Mapp of Virginia Military and fullback Bill Bowman of William and Mary. Mapp, with 10 touchdowns, leads the league in scoring. Bowman has been the spearhead of the William and Mary attack.

He has been in the Brooklyn farm system for the past eight and one-half years.

SPORTS SPUTTERINGS

By Walter L. Johns, Central Press Sports Editor

THE ARGUMENTS are on, of course, as to the relative merits o the national championship claims of Notre Dame and Maryland in the collegiate whirl, revolving slowly to a stop.

It is our opinion, and also that of our NATIONAL FOOTBALL RATINGS, a statistical chart on the collegiate teams which is based on strength of opposition plus wins and losses and points, that Notre Dame still is the top team in the country despite that tie with Iowa.

And, it is the opinion of others that Maryland, with 10 straight victories including a very convincing win over Alabama in the finale is the No. 1 college team.

A LOOK at the schedules of the two teams should halt any arguments. The Irish have met and defeated Oklahoma, champion of the Big Seven Conference; Georgia Tech, leader in the Southeastern Conference, and such other major clubs as Purdue, Pitt, Navy, Penn and North Carolina. The tie with Iowa last week, although Notre Dame might be termed both unlucky and lucky in that one, is the only blot on the record.

Still to be played by the Irish, however, are Southern California and Southern Methodist and if the Irish win both of these there shouldn't be any doubters discovered.

MARYLAND, admittedly a truly fine team, has played only a few foes which might be termed top-class in year after year performance, which brings about their national major status.

The Terps beat Missouri, Washington-Lee, Clemson, Georgia, North Carolina, Miami, South Carolina, George Washington, Mississippi and Alabama. Of this group Missouri, Mississippi and Alabama are rated among the leaders and South Carolina has fielded a very strong team this year. Georgia, generally a top contender, has had a poor season, beaten six times.

• • •

THE ONLY possible comparison between the Irish and Maryland is the North Carolina game. And there isn't too much to find from this result. Notre Dame trimmed the Tar Heels by a 34 to 14 score and Maryland did it by 26 to 0.

Another comparison may come on New Year's Day when Maryland plays Oklahoma in the Orange Bowl game.

AS A MATTER of interest, the rating system we use places Michigan State second to Notre Dame, with Maryland third. This is figured, of course, on a basis of caliber of opposition and Michigan State is rated above Maryland despite its one setback to Purdue, 6 to 0.

Only comparison of the Spartans and the Irish is that Michigan State beat Iowa, 21 to 7, but this was in the opening game and Iowa improved as it went along.

Papit Returns

WASHINGTON, Nov. 24 (AP)—The Washington Redskins reacquired halfback Johnny Papit today and announced that the former University of Virginia star will play Sunday against the Pittsburgh Steelers.

Papit was a starter for the Redskins in 1951 and 1952 but was traded to the Green Bay Packers at the start of this season. The Packers later released him.

Bobcats Play Three Contests Next Week

Frostburg State Teachers College will launch its basketball campaign next week with three games in as many nights—two at home and one away.

Coach Kenneth Babcock last night announced the Bobcats will play Westinghouse Apprentice School of Pittsburgh on Thursday, December 3, at 8 p. m. on the Beall High School court.

The Teachers will tackle Altoona Undergraduate Center (Penn State Junior College) in Altoona on Friday, December 4, and will meet Johnstown Undergraduate Center (Pitt Junior College) on the Beall court Saturday, December 5.

Thirteen players are now on the squad, including four regulars of the 1952-53 quint, namely, Capt. Neil Grayson, Jack Barham, Bill Kirk and Ronnie Chapman. Other holdovers are Tommy Kelly, Joe Wolfe and John Clark. The newcomers are Bobby Wilson and Dick Devore from Bruce High; Bob Kirk, of Barton, who set an all-time record for scoring in the W.M.I. League last season; Pete Wageley, Fort Hill; Allan LaPorta, Beall, and Ed Thompson, Central High.

The Teachers will play 20 games.

Allegany, Fort Hill Conclude Training For Thursday Game

Allegany and Fort Hill yesterday concluded drills in preparation for their 21st meeting on the gridiron Thanksgiving Day.

Both squads are pronounced physically fit for the city championship contest set for 2 o'clock tomorrow at the stadium.

Coach William P. Hahn will windup his ninth season as head coach of the Sentinels in tomorrow's game. His teams have won 70, lost 8 and played five ties for an average of 89.7. Roy Lester concludes his second year as grid mentor at Allegany. His teams have won 12, lost 5 and tied one for a .706 average.

All reserved seats have been sold for the game which is expected to attract between 8,000 and 9,000 persons. Standing room tickets will be sold at the stadium before the game gets under way.

Both schools plan pep rallies today with bonfire celebrations set for tonight.

Baltimore Fans Urged To Support New Major Club

Clarence W. Miles Honored At Dinner

BALTIMORE, Nov. 24 (AP)—Baltimore has been back in the American League only two months, but Mayor Thomas D'Alesandro warned the people tonight to be "alert to the possibility that weak support could lead to financial disaster and loss of our club to a Western city."

"There are men in baseball who still want to engage in a new gold rush to the West," he said at a dinner honoring Clarence W. Miles, the lawyer who led in transfer here of the St. Louis Browns.

Mayor D'Alesandro recalled that efforts of Del Webb, New York Yankee owner, to get the American League to consider moving to the West Coast held up the transfer for three days at a meeting in September.

Cash Turned Tide

"Cold, hard cash turned the tide," said Mayor D'Alesandro. It was Miles who raised about 2½ million dollars to buy the Browns.

The mayor reminded more than 1,300 at the dinner that Baltimore lost an American League franchise to New York 50 years ago. "We must never let anything like that happen again," he declared. "We can set a attendance record for 1954 and for the following years."

Miles said the real significance of the dinner "is evidence of the enthusiasm you have for baseball. We are embarked on a community venture. Our success depends entirely upon the support of the people."

He reported that advance sales for the 1954 season already exceed $300,000, but he urged more.

Will Harridge, president of the American League, and representatives of every other club were present. The affair also brought out a gathering of former famous players.

Mr. Mack Applauded

Connie Mack, who will be 91 years old next month, drew tremendous applause when he posed with two of his Philadelphia old Athletics, Frank (Home Run) Baker and Lefty Grove. Baker was a third baseman 40 years ago and Grove started pitching for the Athletics in 1925.

Johnson City May Quit Loop

Appalachian League Is Having Troubles

JOHNSON CITY, Tenn., Nov. 24 (AP)—Johnson City will withdraw from the Class D Appalachian League Friday unless "the situation at Bristol" is settled by then, Carl A. Jones, president of the Johnson City Baseball Club, announced tonight.

Jones said his decision followed weeks of waiting for Bristol club stockholders, who said they no longer wanted to continue the money-losing operation, to dispose of their holdings to other operators.

Jones said the decision was based on the conviction that the Johnson City club must get started immediately to assure funds for the new season and could not do that until the league was definitely set to operate.

Johnson City has a working agreement with the Cardinals.

Match Postponed

The Allegany County Men's Shuffleboard League match scheduled Thursday night between the Cumberland K. of C. and Frostburg Golden Nugget has been postponed.

West Virginia Stays In Race For Bowl Berth

Georgia Tech's Foe Is Yet To Be Named

NEW ORLEANS, Nov. 24 (AP)—Sugar Bowl officials—seeking an opponent for defending champion Georgia Tech—said today they would "get together in a couple of days and make a decision."

But President Irwin Poche of the sponsoring Mid-Winter Sports Association wouldn't say whether the decision would be before or after Saturday's games.

"We meet every day," he said, "and something might come out of any of those meetings."

Poche said with the exception of Georgia Tech, invited last night, the same teams were still under consideration. He indicated, however, the selection of another Southeastern Conference team was unlikely.

Teams In Running

West Virginia, Texas Tech and a Southwestern Conference team not selected for the Cotton Bowl are the non-SEC teams counted in the running. Rice, Baylor and Texas are tied for the Southwestern Conference title. The Southwestern champion is the Cotton Bowl host.

Previously, the Sugar Bowl had said Tech, Auburn, Alabama, Mississippi and Kentucky were SEC teams under consideration.

The selection of the Yellow Jackets last night came after Poche had said earlier the group would wait until after Saturday to choose the teams for the New Year's Day game.

Tech was apparently grabbed from the outstretched hands of the Cotton Bowl, which first said it would name the visiting team withing 24 hours and then, after the New Orleans bowl signed Tech, said it would wait until Saturday.

End Season Saturday

West Virginia has concluded its season. Texas Tech meets Hardin-Simmons Saturday in its final game. Both teams have lost once.

No Southwestern team has lost fewer than two games. Texas, which can clinch a tie for the title with a victory Thursday over Texas A & M, has lost a conference game to Rice and two non conference contests.

Rice and Baylor meet Saturday. Each has lost one outside game. Baylor was defeated by Texas and Southern Methodist handed Rice its conference loss.

Alston Succeeds Charley Dressen As Dodger Pilot

By JACK HAND

BROOKLYN, Nov. 24 (AP)—Walter Alston, a career man in the Brooklyn farm system, today was named manager of the Dodgers succeeding Chuck Dressen. Unlike Dressen, the 42-year-old Alston agreed to a one-year contract for an undisclosed sum.

Walter O'Malley, Dodger president, ended a guessing contest by calling the press to his office to meet the new manager.

Few were surprised by the choice for his name had been bandied about with several others since Pee Wee Reese decided he couldn't mix managing and playing shortstop. Few, however, knew the soft-spoken gentleman from Oxford, O.

Had Pennant Winners

Alston moved up to the parent club after a brilliant record on the farms at Nashua, N. H., Pueblo, St. Paul and Montreal. The former St. Louis Cardinal first baseman—for one game back in 1936—won pennants at St. Paul in 1949 and at Montreal in 1951 and 1952.

This year he finished second to Rochester in the International League but swept the playoffs and crushed the New York Yankees' Kansas City Blues in the Little World Series. It was this success against a Yankee team that helped him win the new job.

"I am aware of anybody who ever beats a Yankee," said O'Malley with a smile. "It's no secret that we're out to win a World Series. We're going to point for it."

The new manager admitted he never had seen a World Series game, except on television, and had watched only one game at Ebbets Field. He had been so busy with his own clubs, and playoffs he hadn't had time. Up to three years ago, he had hurried home to teach school and coach basketball in the off season.

When a reporter asked O'Malley if Alston had to win the pennant and World Series to hold his job, he got this answer:

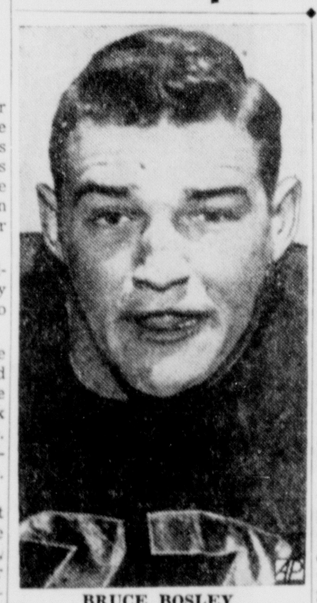
"Around December (1954) we'll have to take that up, unless Walter's wife writes a letter in the meantime."

The answer drew ready response from the press for it was a letter by Dressen's wife, demanding a three-year contract, that settled his fate with the Dodgers.

Sound Baseball Man

"For years there has been a small clique of managers moving in and out of big league jobs," O'Malley added. "I see no reason why a man successful in the minors shouldn't get a chance on top. Alston is a sound baseball man with a justifiable record. He has the character, know how and ability.

All-Southern Conference Team Captained By Bosley



BRUCE BOSLEY

By ROBERT MOORE

RICHMOND, Va., Nov. 24 (AP)—Bruce Bosley, West Virginia's 212-pound sophomore tackle, today was named captain of the 1953 All-Southern Conference football team of The Associated Press.

Bosley received the honor because he polled the most votes in the annual balloting by conference coaches and sports writers.

The big bruiser from Greenbank, W. Va., came along rapidly as he stepped from obscurity to stardom. As a freshman a year ago, he played half of the campaign as a regular on defense in the two-platoon system.

One of the first things he did this season was to beat Ben Dunkerley, an All-America second team offensive selection in 1952, out of his position. For his performance against Penn State Oct. 31, Bosley was named The Associated Press Lineman of the Week.

Bosley was one of five West Virginians to earn berths on the honor club. There were two other linemen, including end Bill Marker, who has caught more passes during his college career than any other player in West Virginia history, and guard Gene Lamone, one of college football's fastest linemen.

Two West Virginia backs made the team. They are Fred Wyant, the team's quarterback, who has mastered the T-formation's "keep" play and the pitchout, and fullback Tommy Allman, regarded by Lewis as the "greatest blocking fullback I've ever seen, pro or college."

George Washington's Colonials and Virginia Tech's Gobblers each placed two players in the forward wall. The Colonials are end Richie Gaskell and center Steve (The Rock) Korcheck.

Korcheck just did win the center slot over West Virginia's great pivotman, Bob Orders. Coaches and players alike have raved all season about both Korcheck and Orders, both seniors.

Virginia Tech placed guard Harold Grizzard, lightest man in the all-conference line at 190 pounds, and tackle George Preas, who came close to beating out Bosley in the battle for the captaincy.

Rounding out the backfield are halfback Johnny Mapp of Virginia Military and fullback Bill Bowman of William and Mary. Mapp, with 10 touchdowns, leads the league in scoring. Bowman has been the spearhead of the William and Mary attack.

Erdelatz Sees Army-Navy Game Saturday As Dogfight

Coaches Claim Each Other Has Greatest Team

Navy Rated Underdog In Service Classic Set For Philadelphia

By GEORGE BOWEN

ANNAPOLIS, Nov. 24 (AP)—The Army-Navy football game in Philadelphia Saturday should be a whale of a meeting with both coaches claiming the other has a great team.

"I say this is the best Army team since the Doc Blanchard-Glenn Davis team. And Coach Blaik in 1950 said his team that year was better than the Blanchard-Davis team."

Blanchard and Davis were star backs on the 1946 team that nosed out Navy, 21-18. Erdelatz was an assistant Navy coach then. The 1950 Army team was beaten 14-2 by Navy. That was the first year as head coach for Erdelatz.

"It's going to be a dogfight," Erdelatz said. "Army has beaten our mutual opponents by bigger scores than we did. It beat Duke. We didn't. It beat Penn. We didn't."

However, Erdelatz reminded:

"It isn't the first time we went to play Army as the underdog." He didn't add that Navy has upset the dope, but that 1950 surprise still is fresh in many memories.

Erdelatz also claimed that "all the talk about who's done what, or who's playing where, goes out the window in an Army-Navy game. It's the team that's hot that particular afternoon that wins."

Maryland Booters Top Terrors, 4-2

WESTMINSTER, Md., Nov. 24 (AP)—Jose Hagedorn and Otto Winkelman scored two goals each for Maryland today as the Terrapin soccer team downed scrappy Western Maryland 4-2 in the season finale for both teams.

Maryland came back with two points in the second period on goals by Hagedorn and Winkelman. Hester Salinas passed to Hagedorn to set up the first Terrapin score, and Shock passed to Winkelman to make way for the second.

The victory gave Maryland an 8-2 record for the season. Western Maryland finished 3-6.

Bobo Newsom Quits Organized Baseball

ORLANDO, Fla., Nov. 24 (INS)—Louis (Bobo) Newsom, who pitched for the Philadelphia Athletics this season and who has been in organized baseball for 26 years, has quit the game.

Newsom announced in Orlando, Fla., that he is retiring voluntarily. The rotund hurler's lifetime major league record is 211 victories and 227 defeats. He was a rarity among pitchers—he never was bothered by a sore arm.

Newsom pitched for six American and three National League teams. He said: "Baseball was very good to me and I feel I've done nothing to discredit the game."

Manager Pronounces His Name "All-Stun"

One Dodger fan said it will be pronounced "all-done" unless the Brooks win the pennant and beat the hated Yankees in the World Series in '54.

West Virginia's Ground Gainers Led By Allman

MORGANTOWN, W. Va., Nov. 24 —Tommy Allman, who gained more than half his yardage in the last three games, finished up as West Virginia's leading ground-gainer this season with 478 yards to 344 for Jack Stone, 319 Joe Marconi and 310 for Carl Norman, final official statistics showed today.

Quarterback Freddy Wyant, who leads the Southern Conference this week in total offense, passed for 613 yards and ran for 165 for a total of 778 in nine games.

Bill Marker, second in the Conference, took pass-receiving honors with 16 catches for 301 yards. Stone led in punting with a 35.7-yard average, punt returns with 233 yards on 13 carries and scoring with 49 points. Allman was high in interceptions with four for 15 yards, and Marconi was the top kickoff-returner, gaining 136 yards on seven carries.

Erdelatz Sees Army-Navy Game Saturday As Dogfight

Coaches Claim Each Other Has Greatest Team

Navy Rated Underdog In Service Classic Set For Philadelphia

By GEORGE BOWEN

ANNAPOLIS, Nov. 24 (AP)—The Army-Navy football game in Philadelphia Saturday should be a whale of a meeting with both coaches claiming the other has a great team.

"I say this is the best Army team since the Doc Blanchard-Glenn Davis team. And Coach Blaik in 1950 said his team that year was better than the Blanchard-Davis team."

Blanchard and Davis were star backs on the 1946 team that nosed out Navy, 21-18. Erdelatz was an assistant Navy coach then. The 1950 Army team was beaten 14-2 by Navy. That was the first year as head coach for Erdelatz.

"It's going to be a dogfight," Erdelatz said. "Army has beaten our mutual opponents by bigger scores than we did. It beat Duke. We didn't. It beat Penn. We didn't."

However, Erdelatz reminded:

"It isn't the first time we went to play Army as the underdog." He didn't add that Navy has upset the dope, but that 1950 surprise still is fresh in many memories.

Erdelatz also claimed that "all the talk about who's done what, or who's playing where, goes out the window in an Army-Navy game. It's the team that's hot that particular afternoon that wins."

Maryland Booters Top Terrors, 4-2

WESTMINSTER, Md., Nov. 24 (AP)—Jose Hagedorn and Otto Winkelman scored two goals each for Maryland today as the Terrapin soccer team downed scrappy Western Maryland 4-2 in the season finale for both teams.

Maryland came back with two points in the second period on goals by Hagedorn and Winkelman. Hester Salinas passed to Hagedorn to set up the first Terrapin score, and Shock passed to Winkelman to make way for the second.

The victory gave Maryland an 8-2 record for the season. Western Maryland finished 3-6.

Bobo Newsom Quits Organized Baseball

ORLANDO, Fla., Nov. 24 (INS)—Louis (Bobo) Newsom, who pitched for the Philadelphia Athletics this season and who has been in organized baseball for 26 years, has quit the game.

Newsom announced in Orlando, Fla., that he is retiring voluntarily. The rotund hurler's lifetime major league record is 211 victories and 227 defeats. He was a rarity among pitchers—he never was bothered by a sore arm.

Newsom pitched for six American and three National League teams. He said: "Baseball was very good to me and I feel I've done nothing to discredit the game."

The Explorers have won 15, lost 5 and tied one since Norman F. Geatz, Jr., took over as coach late in the 1951 season. West Virginia's Ground Gainers Led By Allman

MORGANTOWN, W. Va., Nov. 24 —Tommy Allman, who gained more than half his yardage in the last three games, finished up as West Virginia's leading ground-gainer this season with 478 yards to 344 for Jack Stone, 319 Joe Marconi and 310 for Carl Norman, final official statistics showed today.

Quarterback Freddy Wyant, who leads the Southern Conference this week in total offense, passed for 613 yards and ran for 165 for a total of 778 in nine games.

Bill Marker, second in the Conference, took pass-receiving honors with 16 catches for 301 yards. Stone led in punting with a 35.7-yard average, punt returns with 233 yards on 13 carries and scoring with 49 points. Allman was high in interceptions with four for 15 yards, and Marconi was the top kickoff-returner, gaining 136 yards on seven carries.

Maryland Is Voted Into Orange Bowl Contest With Oklahoma

By ALDERMAN DUNCAN

COLUMBIA, S. C., Nov. 24 (AP)—It will be Maryland, the nation's No. 1 football power, against fourth-ranked Oklahoma in the Orange Bowl at Miami New Year's Day.

Atlantic Coast Conference members voted today for Maryland to represent the less than one-year-old loop. Dr. J. T. Penney, conference president, said the choice was unanimous.

Oklahoma, which has lost only to Notre Dame, was in the bowl by virtue of being champion of the Big Seven Conference. The Big Seven and the ACC signed a contract with the Orange Bowl committee to pair their champions annually in the classic.

Tatum Was Sooner Coach

Maryland's Coach Jim Tatum will be coaching the Terps against the school he left to go to Maryland. His Oklahoma team defeated North Carolina State College in the 1947 Gator Bowl at Jacksonville, Fla. Bud Wilkinson, Tatum's assistant at Oklahoma, succeeded him as coach of the Sooners.

Maryland, undefeated and untied through 10 games, may have to share the ACC championship with Duke, which has lost twice and been tied once by outside opposition, however. Duke still plays North Carolina Saturday at Durham, N. C., and a Duke victory would leave it with an unblemished conference record. Other conference members are South Carolina, Clemson, N. C. State and Wake Forest.

Terps' 4th Bowl Trip

This will be the fourth bowl trip for Maryland, which has yet to lose one of the New Year's Day affairs. In the 1948 Gator Bowl, there was a 20-20 tie with Georgia. Since then, Maryland whipped Missouri 20-7 in the 1950 Gator Bowl and smashed Tennessee 28-13 in the 1952 Sugar Bowl.

Maryland's victims this season have been Missuri, Washington and Lee, Clemson, Georgia, North Carolina, Miami, South Carolina, George Washington, Mississippi and Alabama.

Maryland's last two victories, 38-0 over Mississippi and 21-0 over Alabama, boosted it over Notre Dame in the national rankings after Notre Dame's 14-14 tie with Iowa.

BATTLE EXPLORERS TOMORROW—Beall High School can conclude its 1953 football schedule with a .500 record if the Mountaineers are able to upset LaSalle Explorers Thanksgiving Day at Frostburg. Coach Ray Hull's eleven has won three games and lost four. Tomorrow's game will be the eighth of the series in which LaSalle has been returned the winner five times, Beall once and one game ended in a tie. The opening kickoff is set for 2 p. m. Bob Zinn and Pinkney Holmes will co-captain the Frostburg eleven in the season's finale. The Beall squad pictured above, left to right: FRONT ROW—Danny McGaughey, Dallas Chaney, Roy Niner, Mike Passarell, James Kergan, Robert Stevenson, Glenn Blank, Pinkney Holmes, Jr., and William Hawkins. SECOND ROW—Kenneth Smith, assistant coach; Michael Finn, Roy Wolford, Douglas Cook, Andrew Felker, Henry Lloyd, Robert Zinn, James Sigler, William Eichhorn and Coach Ray Hull. THIRD ROW—Ronald Plummer, Robert Wolford, John Hansel, Thomas Emmart, William Schultheis, Bobby Stevenson, William Fearer, James Rank and James Martirano. FOURTH ROW—Ronald Taylor, manager; William Shirley, Thomas Pugh, Joseph Spiker, James Mills, James Ward, Norman Geary, assistant manager. Paul Wilson was absent when picture was taken. Ray Hull will be concluding his second season as head coach at the Frostburg school.

Piedmont League Protests Invasion By Shaughnessy

Charges Ints Prexy's Methods "Unethical"

NORFOLK, Va., Nov. 24 (AP)—The Class B Piedmont League has demanded a hearing at the minor league baseball convention next week in Atlanta to protest the "invasion" of its territory by Frank Shaughnessy, president of the Class AAA International League.

In a letter to George M. Trautman, president of the National Association of Minor League Baseball, Piedmont President Frank M. Summers charges that Shaughnessy used "unethical" methods to attempt acquisition of the Richmond territory in violation of baseball law.

Summers specifically complained to Trautman concerning a visit to Richmond last month by Shaughnessy, who made the trip to inspect the city—long a Piedmont League member—as a possible entry in the International. Interests in Richmond still are trying to gain an Il Franchise but as yet no deal has been consummated with the owner of the Richmond Class B franchise, Eddie Mooers.

In a news story Nov. 16 Shaughnessy was quoted as saying in reference to the Richmond territory: "You just can't move in on a man's territory in baseball, but we don't intend to pay an exorbitant price to anyone. The Piedmont has been practically dead for two years."

Frank Lawrence, Portsmouth owner and vice president of the Piedmont League, said today that the Class B directors were "burned up" over Shaughnessy's statement.

Fake Grid Injuries May Be Discussed At NCAA Meeting

He emphasized that he was not commenting on Saturday's game between Iowa and Notre Dame in which Irish players appeared to be hurt at strategic moments that stopped the clock and permitted plays that enabled Notre Dame to tie Iowa 14-14.

All Indianapolis Speedway speed and endurance records for stock cars were broken today when a 1954 Chrysler FirePower 235-horespower V-8 completed a 24-hour continuous run with an average speed of 89.89 m.p.h. for 2,157.5 miles.

The Chrysler, a 1954 New Yorker DeLuxe model, was a strictly stock automobile. Records set must be certified by AAA officials, who supervised the record-breaking run. The AAA men chose the cars from factory stocks, supervised the break-in run from Detroit to Indianapolis, and timed the run.

Hour after hour for 24 hours during the grueling run over the most abrasive hardtop race track in the world, the Chrysler V-8 reached speeds in excess of 120 m.p.h. and averaged some laps on the sharply-curved, 2½-mile track of over 97 m.p.h. Despite 42 planned pit stops made to insure driver safety, the Chrysler broke the last previous Indianapolis stock car record of 1,910 miles in 24 hours by reaching the 1,910-mile mark in approximately 21 hours.

The car was driven by an experienced three-man team of Indianapolis racing drivers. Tony Bettenhausen, Tinly Parks, Illinois, Chrysler dealer and AAA championship driver, lead off and was followed at the wheel by Bill Taylor of Temple City, California and Pat O'Connor of North Vernon, Indiana. They drove for two and three-hour periods to avoid over-fatigue and insure safe driving during the run, which was regarded by Chrysler engineers primarily as an endurance test.

Following the run the car was disassembled by AAA to establish its stock status and to enable Chrysler engineers to inspect all parts for wear. The 235-horsepower FirePower engine and PowerFlite—fully-automatic transmission—performed without any mechanical failure or replacement of parts.

"After examining our engineers' reports, it is clear that the record run was made possible because of the performance characteristics of the FirePower hemispherical-head V-8 engine in combination with the new fully-automatic PowerFlite transmission," said E. C. Quinn, president, Chrysler Division, Chrysler Corporation.

"This high-performance combination enabled the drivers to accelerate rapidly out of the turns, reach remarkably high speeds on the straightaways and save tires on the turn. The new, anti-roll front suspension, introduced on our 1954 models, contributed to high lap averages by allowing safe performance at high speeds through the corners," Quinn said.

Wilbur Shaw, Speedway president, called the event "the greatest stock car test in the world". "This run is exceptionally significant in its meaning as to the safety and durability of today's stock automobile, as the whole 2,157.5 miles was run in a continuous 24-hour grind rather than with overnight stops where repairs can be made as is done in some road races," Shaw said. AAA officials at the Speedway test were headed by James N. Lamb, secretary of the contest board.

The FirePower engine used in the car is the standard production engine. It is rated at 235-horsepower at 4,400 r.p.m. It has a compression ratio of 7.5 to 1, and a bore of 3-13/16 and stroke of 3-5/8. It has a displacement of 331.1 cubic inches. Regular-grade gas and stock tires were used during the run.

All Indianapolis Speedway speed and endurance records for stock cars were broken today when a 1954 Chrysler FirePower 235-horespower V-8 completed a 24-hour continuous run with an average speed of 89.89 m.p.h. for 2,157.5 miles.

The Chrysler, a 1954 New Yorker DeLuxe model, was a strictly stock automobile. Records set must be certified by AAA officials, who supervised the record-breaking run. The AAA men chose the cars from factory stocks, supervised the break-in run from Detroit to Indianapolis, and timed the run.

Hour after hour for 24 hours during the grueling run over the most abrasive hardtop race track in the world, the Chrysler V-8 reached speeds in excess of 120 m.p.h. and averaged some laps on the sharply-curved, 2½-mile track of over 97 m.p.h. Despite 42 planned pit stops made to insure driver safety, the Chrysler broke the last previous Indianapolis stock car record of 1,910 miles in 24 hours by reaching the 1,910-mile mark in approximately 21 hours.

The car was driven by an experienced three-man team of Indianapolis racing drivers. Tony Bettenhausen, Tinly Parks, Illinois, Chrysler dealer and AAA championship driver, lead off and was followed at the wheel by Bill Taylor of Temple City, California and Pat O'Connor of North Vernon, Indiana. They drove for two and three-hour periods to avoid over-fatigue and insure safe driving during the run, which was regarded by Chrysler engineers primarily as an endurance test.

Following the run the car was disassembled by AAA to establish its stock status and to enable Chrysler engineers to inspect all parts for wear. The 235-horsepower FirePower engine and PowerFlite—fully-automatic transmission—performed without any mechanical failure or replacement of parts.

"After examining our engineers' reports, it is clear that the record run was made possible because of the performance characteristics of the FirePower hemispherical-head V-8 engine in combination with the new fully-automatic PowerFlite transmission," said E. C. Quinn, president, Chrysler Division, Chrysler Corporation.

"This high-performance combination enabled the drivers to accelerate rapidly out of the turns, reach remarkably high speeds on the straightaways and save tires on the turn. The new, anti-roll front suspension, introduced on our 1954 models, contributed to high lap averages by allowing safe performance at high speeds through the corners," Quinn said.

Wilbur Shaw, Speedway president, called the event "the greatest stock car test in the world". "This run is exceptionally significant in its meaning as to the safety and durability of today's stock automobile, as the whole 2,157.5 miles was run in a continuous 24-hour grind rather than with overnight stops where repairs can be made as is done in some road races," Shaw said. AAA officials at the Speedway test were headed by James N. Lamb, secretary of the contest board.

The FirePower engine used in the car is the standard production engine. It is rated at 235-horsepower at 4,400 r.p.m. It has a compression ratio of 7.5 to 1, and a bore of 3-13/16 and stroke of 3-5/8. It has a displacement of 331.1 cubic inches. Regular-grade gas and stock tires were used during the run.

Above you see Chrysler smashing the all-time 24-hour endurance record at Indianapolis to win the Stevens Trophy! An incredible performance! 2,157 miles in 24 hours 'round the clock over the toughest hard-top track in the world! Here is thrilling proof of the stamina, durability, and safety of the new '54 Chrysler. Its 235-h.p. FirePower V-8 engine and PowerFlite fully-automatic transmission far out-performed all other cars in the history of this event! And set the amazing new record without any replacement of engine parts! Now mind you, this was no special car! Selected from regular production models by AAA officials, this is the beautiful Chrysler now on display! This is the same record-breaking performer we invite you to come drive! And what an experience for you! You'll feel the one and only 235-h.p. performance! Performance that says you drive the leader. You'll see new beauty inside and out that tells the world you drive the leader! Come drive the '54 Chrysler yourself for the most exciting and memorable experience of your motoring lifetime!

COME DRIVE THE CAR THAT DID IT! The power of leadership is yours in a beautiful '54 CHRYSLER

Keyser Tractor Company Is Planning To Expand

The Tiger Tractor Corporation of Keyser plans the building of a concrete-block plant on F and G Streets in Keyser according to preliminary plans made at a meeting of the Keyser-Mineral County Chamber of Commerce directors together with the chamber's industrial committee Monday night in Keyser.

The new building will be 60 by 120 feet on a lot 120 by 240 feet. The lot borders the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad property near the tipple in the west end of Keyser.

The matter of increasing the size of the present plant, located on East Street, South Side, Keyser, had been considered for some time in order to take care of corporation's increased production.

To Make Canvass

Action has been taken to inaugurate a financial canvass for funds in which Keyser persons will be given an opportunity to subscribe for $100 notes bearing five per cent interest. The notes may be purchased at ten per cent down with the balance due on January 6 of next year.

Notes will be secured by a deed of trust on the building and purchase may be made at either of the Keyser banks, The Farmers and Merchants Bank or the National Bank of Keyser. They may also be bought through members of the Chamber of Commerce committee who will begin the canvass tomorrow.

Following the completion of the canvass by the committee, a sales campaign will be conducted through other Keyser bodies that will make contacts similar to those several months ago in which another company plant was erected.

The Chamber of Commerce committee working on the financial issues is composed of President M. E. Minnich, J. P. Blundon and T. Warner Lowry along with two members of the Tiger Tractor Corporation. The latter two have not been named as yet.

Service Clubs Help

Keyser service clubs (Kiwanis, Lions, Rotary and Yoeman) will participate in a sales campaign with a $25 prize being awarded to the club with the most subscriptions. It will start next Monday.

Plans call for the erection of the building one month after the drive is completed. Company officials hope to have it ready for use by July 1 of next year.

"One of the economizing things about the whole picture is we've been able to refine machines and still maintain a sale price at less than $500, whereas several of our largest competitors have either not changed their products at all, or have done it at great increase in price.

"Right now we are running 60 per cent ahead of production of last year and we expect to double production when we get into our new quarters.

"When Tiger Tractors Corporation started here (Keyser) in August 1951, we had three employes and a $75,000 gross sales per year.

Employment Increased

"The plant has had as many as 34 employed in the past year. Our gross sales for 1952 were $300,000 which represents an increase each year of 30 to 90 per cent."

When the corporation is able to move into the new building, it will also release the present site for another industry.

The capital status of the corporation will consist of $10,000 in common stock and second mortgage notes subscribed in cash by the corporation which agrees to deposit $10,000 in cash in escrow for purpose of subscribing for the above securities.

The Chamber of Commerce will endeavor to procure subscriptions for $40,000 at five per cent registered notes, in the denominations of $100 each. They will be payable semi-annually and be secured by a first deed of trust on the lots of the new factory site.

Keyser Tractor Company Is Planning To Expand

The Tiger Tractor Corporation of Keyser plans the building of a concrete-block plant on F and G Streets in Keyser according to preliminary plans made at a meeting of the Keyser-Mineral County Chamber of Commerce directors together with the chamber's industrial committee Monday night in Keyser.

The new building will be 60 by 120 feet on a lot 120 by 240 feet. The lot borders the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad property near the tipple in the west end of Keyser.

The matter of increasing the size of the present plant, located on East Street, South Side, Keyser, had been considered for some time in order to take care of corporation's increased production.

To Make Canvass

Action has been taken to inaugurate a financial canvass for funds in which Keyser persons will be given an opportunity to subscribe for $100 notes bearing five per cent interest. The notes may be purchased at ten per cent down with the balance due on January 6 of next year.

Notes will be secured by a deed of trust on the building and purchase may be made at either of the Keyser banks, The Farmers and Merchants Bank or the National Bank of Keyser. They may also be bought through members of the Chamber of Commerce committee who will begin the canvass tomorrow.

Following the completion of the canvass by the committee, a sales campaign will be conducted through other Keyser bodies that will make contacts similar to those several months ago in which another company plant was erected.

The Chamber of Commerce committee working on the financial issues is composed of President M. E. Minnich, J. P. Blundon and T. Warner Lowry along with two members of the Tiger Tractor Corporation. The latter two have not been named as yet.

Service Clubs Help

Keyser service clubs (Kiwanis, Lions, Rotary and Yoeman) will participate in a sales campaign with a $25 prize being awarded to the club with the most subscriptions. It will start next Monday.

Plans call for the erection of the building one month after the drive is completed. Company officials hope to have it ready for use by July 1 of next year.

"One of the economizing things about the whole picture is we've been able to refine machines and still maintain a sale price at less than $500, whereas several of our largest competitors have either not changed their products at all, or have done it at great increase in price.

"Right now we are running 60 per cent ahead of production of last year and we expect to double production when we get into our new quarters.

"When Tiger Tractors Corporation started here (Keyser) in August 1951, we had three employes and a $75,000 gross sales per year.

Employment Increased

"The plant has had as many as 34 employed in the past year. Our gross sales for 1952 were $300,000 which represents an increase each year of 30 to 90 per cent."

When the corporation is able to move into the new building, it will also release the present site for another industry.

The capital status of the corporation will consist of $10,000 in common stock and second mortgage notes subscribed in cash by the corporation which agrees to deposit $10,000 in cash in escrow for purpose of subscribing for the above securities.

The Chamber of Commerce will endeavor to procure subscriptions for $40,000 at five per cent registered notes, in the denominations of $100 each. They will be payable semi-annually and be secured by a first deed of trust on the lots of the new factory site.

Keeping Up With Hollywood

by Dorothy Manners

(Substituting for vacationing Louella Parsons)

HOLLYWOOD, Nov. 24 (INS) — William Goetz's independent production plans gain momentum with announcement of his second picture, "Dawn in the Sky", with Jimmy Stewart.

For his stint in the glorified western in Technicolor-wide screen etc. Jimmy will collect his usual 50 per cent cut. Fact is, it was Bill Goetz who first gave Jimmy this whopping participation deal in "Winchester 73" at U-I.

"Dawn in the Sky" originally appeared in a national magazine under the title of "Ambush at Ghost Creek" and it's written by James O'Mara. Summer of '54 is the starting time.

Tennis Champ Fred Perry and Barbara Friedman, sister of British Film Star Patricia Roc, were secretly married a second time at Hotel Boca Raton in Florida ten days ago.

Barbara divorced Seymour Friedman in Mexico in June just a few weeks before he divorced her and obtained custody of their 10-year-old son in the Los Angeles courts.

From LOP: "Shooting has started on 'Waterfront' in Hoboken with Marlon Brando in the lead, which is hardly news.

"The surprise is that Eva Marie Saint, who is appearing with Lillian Gish in 'A Trip to Bountiful,' gets the leading lady role.

"Sam Spiegel, who is producing, tells me that Eva is the most exciting young actress of the year. He wants to bring her over to meet me, but I don't know what I'll use for time.

"Elia Kazan, directing 'Waterfront', is just as excited about Eva as is Sam. I was sorry that Kazan and Spiegel couldn't come to terms with Frank Sinatra for this film."

"Her new apartment is a dream and she's working very hard to have it ready for the night of December 2 when King Paul and Queen Frederika of Greece will be her dinner guests.

"Mrs. Hearst is taking them to the opera later as this is the night the proceeds go to the milk fund, her favorite charity, which she has been sponsoring for 27 years and very successfully."

Chatter in Hollywood:

Bing Crosby, who doesn't attend even his own previews, picked up Mona Freeman as his date and went with Sylvia and Danny Kaye to the sneak of Danny's "Knock on Wood."

Frank Sinatra, stag, also was with them, and all this excitement was just too much for a fan in the forecourt of the Egyptian Theatre who started yelling at the top of his lungs, "Everyody; everybody; — Bing and Mona and Frankie and Danny are here. Come on, everybody — take a look!"

Snapshots of Hollywood and New York:

Cary Grant and Lauren Bacall were dinner partners as both Betsy Drake and Bogie turned up missing.

The photographers were torn between June Haver — making her official social debut, and looking lovely with her hair very blonde again — with Joe Campbell; Shirley Temple, with her hair very black sitting next to Gen. Mark Clark on the dais; and Frank Sinatra seated next to Bella Darvi but arriving and departing alone.

As toastmaster, Jack Benny has never been more brilliant in his life — all in all it must have been an unforgettable night for Zanuck.

That's all for today. See you tomorrow.

GRANTSVILLE—Grantsville Elementary School held a Thanksgiving program yesterday at the school under direction of Misses Elizabeth Workman and Mary Weld.

Dr. Devers To Visit Midland Medical Center

MIDLAND—Dr. John C. Devers of Frostburg has offered his services to the people of Midland each Monday, Wednesday and Friday morning from 9 o'clock until noon beginning the first week in December.

Dr. Devers also reports that he will be glad to make house calls.

Because the center has no phone, interested persons may call the Firemen's Armory or the Thomas H. Taylor home and messages will be delivered to the physician.

Collections Higher

KEYSER—The weekly collection from the parking meters in Keyser brought a return of $276.89 for the week ending last Saturday, as compared with $268.39 the previous week, for a net gain of $8.50. The receipts for the past week were $24.68 over the corresponding week a year ago. The report was made by City Clerk Carl F. Theis Jr.

It's more fun going to a lot of trouble to make pleasure than trying to have pleasure making a lot of trouble.

Keeping Up With Hollywood

by Dorothy Manners

(Substituting for vacationing Louella Parsons)

HOLLYWOOD, Nov. 24 (INS) — William Goetz's independent production plans gain momentum with announcement of his second picture, "Dawn in the Sky", with Jimmy Stewart.

For his stint in the glorified western in Technicolor-wide screen etc. Jimmy will collect his usual 50 per cent cut. Fact is, it was Bill Goetz who first gave Jimmy this whopping participation deal in "Winchester 73" at U-I.

"Dawn in the Sky" originally appeared in a national magazine under the title of "Ambush at Ghost Creek" and it's written by James O'Mara. Summer of '54 is the starting time.

Tennis Champ Fred Perry and Barbara Friedman, sister of British Film Star Patricia Roc, were secretly married a second time at Hotel Boca Raton in Florida ten days ago.

Barbara divorced Seymour Friedman in Mexico in June just a few weeks before he divorced her and obtained custody of their 10-year-old son in the Los Angeles courts.

Fred, himself, divorced from Walter Pidgeon's sister not too long ago, will be tennis pro at Boca Raton this season.

From LOP: "Shooting has started on 'Waterfront' in Hoboken with Marlon Brando in the lead, which is hardly news.

"The surprise is that Eva Marie Saint, who is appearing with Lillian Gish in 'A Trip to Bountiful,' gets the leading lady role.

"Sam Spiegel, who is producing, tells me that Eva is the most exciting young actress of the year. He wants to bring her over to meet me, but I don't know what I'll use for time.

"Elia Kazan, directing 'Waterfront', is just as excited about Eva as is Sam. I was sorry that Kazan and Spiegel couldn't come to terms with Frank Sinatra for this film."

"Her new apartment is a dream and she's working very hard to have it ready for the night of December 2 when King Paul and Queen Frederika of Greece will be her dinner guests.

"Mrs. Hearst is taking them to the opera later as this is the night the proceeds go to the milk fund, her favorite charity, which she has been sponsoring for 27 years and very successfully."

Chatter in Hollywood:

Bing Crosby, who doesn't attend even his own previews, picked up Mona Freeman as his date and went with Sylvia and Danny Kaye to the sneak of Danny's "Knock on Wood."

Frank Sinatra, stag, also was with them, and all this excitement was just too much for a fan in the forecourt of the Egyptian Theatre who started yelling at the top of his lungs, "Everyody; everybody; — Bing and Mona and Frankie and Danny are here. Come on, everybody — take a look!"

Snapshots of Hollywood and New York:

Cary Grant and Lauren Bacall were dinner partners as both Betsy Drake and Bogie turned up missing.

The photographers were torn between June Haver — making her official social debut, and looking lovely with her hair very blonde again — with Joe Campbell; Shirley Temple, with her hair very black sitting next to Gen. Mark Clark on the dais; and Frank Sinatra seated next to Bella Darvi but arriving and departing alone.

As toastmaster, Jack Benny has never been more brilliant in his life — all in all it must have been an unforgettable night for Zanuck.

That's all for today. See you tomorrow.

Marks Thanksgiving

GRANTSVILLE—Grantsville Elementary School held a Thanksgiving program yesterday at the school under direction of Misses Elizabeth Workman and Mary Weld.

Dr. Devers To Visit Midland Medical Center

MIDLAND—Dr. John C. Devers of Frostburg has offered his services to the people of Midland each Monday, Wednesday and Friday morning from 9 o'clock until noon beginning the first week in December.

His office will be at the Midland Medical Center on Railroad Street, near the Firemen's Armory.

Dr. Devers also reports that he whl be glad to make house calls.

Because the center has no phone, interested persons may call the Firemen's Armory or the Thomas H. Taylor home and messages will be delivered to the physician.

Collections Higher

KEYSER—The weekly collection from the parking meters in Keyser brought a return of $276.89 for the week ending last Saturday, as compared with $268.39 the previous week, for a net gain of $8.50. The receipts for the past week were $24.68 over the corresponding week a year ago. The report was made by City Clerk Carl F. Theis Jr.

It's more fun going to a lot of trouble to make pleasure than trying to have pleasure making a lot of trouble.

More Notes On Humor

The present low state of American humor, not only on the air but — let's face it — almost everywhere, is not entirely the fault of the performers or of the humorists. A lot of the blame can be laid at the door of the public or, at least, certain broad areas of the public, which doesn't seem to want humor of the traditional sort or even to comprehend it.

John Crosby

In this connection, Jim Backus, who plays Joan Davis' husband on "I Married Joan," told me a story that was very illuminating. Backus had just been one of the featured entertainers at a big shindig in Cleveland celebrating the 75th anniversary of the founding of the Scripps Howard newspapers. Before an audience of some 11,000 people, Backus, whose home town is Cleveland, tried vainly to tell some jokes.

"But they won't let you tell a joke," he said. "I tried to tell that old one about the movie star. He makes $3,000 a week, has a beautiful home and swimming pool, takes Marilyn Monroe out every night and in 25 years he's a has-been. But look where he has been. Well, the moment I mentioned Marilyn Monroe, the audience went out of its mind. Screamed and yelled and applauded. I couldn't finish the joke. But no one seemed to mind.

"Then I started to tell some stories about my boyhood in Cleveland. I'd start out saying: 'I was walking down Euclid Avenue' . . . and that's as far as I'd get. At the mention of Euclid Avenue, 11,000 people would start yelling. After that, I just dropped street names. I'd say 105th Street — and the people would go crazy."

This is an inevitable extension of the deplorable habits studio audiences fell into at radio shows. If a line particularly tickled them, the audience would first laugh, then applaud. Then laughter was dropped altogether, as unnecessary, and the audience would just applaud. It has always seemed to me that applause is not a proper response to humor. If a man says something funny, I laugh. Applause is for other things.

Now, it appears, the audience is so anxious to get on with the applause that they won't tarry long enough to hear the joke. Just drop a street name or mention Eddie Fisher — and they're off. It makes things awfully easy for the comedians — but what will future generations think of us?

In the passage of years, humor tarnishes more easily than any other form of writing but ours is going to be hard even to pass on to future generations. Take, as an example, Oscar Wilde's bon mot: "A second marriage is a triumph of hope over experience." Through the years, it has lost some of its savor but, at least, it still makes sense. Now, just supposing 50 years from now, some historian of humor started prowling through our current humor files. He would come upon Jack Benny saying "Rochester!" in a certain tone of voice. And there would be torrents of laughter. Or Mr. Backus dropping street names as thousands cheer. Our future historian is likely to conclude we were a nation of idiots.

Not to take too dim a view of it, there are still some very funny things on the air that frequently hit you in unexpected places. I rather like this one which was related by Arthur Godfrey.

"There once was a small boy of eight years who had a slingshot, a half-dozen marbles, a broken jackknife, a partly eaten peppermint stick, 30 feet of twisted and knotted kite string, a live frog and three well-used handkerchiefs in his pocket. His mother told him to get rid of the stuff. He did. He dumped it all into her pocketbook and she didn't discover it for three weeks."

Or Herb Shriner talking about the new atomic submarine: "It only comes up once every three years so the boys can reenlist."

Sewer Easements Will Be Signed

Council this week authorized Mayor Roy W. Eves to sign a number of easements for new sewer lines on Bedford Street.

Thomas B. Finan, city attorney, pointed out that permission to install the six inch lines will mean free sewer taps for the residents involved but will not excuse the properties from sewer liens. The easements will be negotiated with Lynn C. Lashley, Arthur Friedland, J. Richard Kendall and Dr. Albert C. Eskin.

Permission to serve on the Police Department for another year was granted to Officer Luther Youngblood, who is over 60 years old.

ASK HIM FOR A SIGNAL

WHENEVER you are in doubt about the best suit to lead against a small slam contract, it may be wise to lay down the trump ace, if you are fortunate enough to have it. Maybe the card played on that trick by your partner will tell you what to lead next. On the other hand, there is the chance that leading another suit first may knock out the ace of it and establish a second-round winner for your partner, which can then be scored after you gain re-entry with the ace. This is sometimes a hard question for even the very best players to resolve.

Two of the strongest teams of four in America bid as shown at their respective tables in a knock-out match. The first sequence is decorated with some forcing passes, including that of 4-Diamonds by East and that of 4-Hearts by West, to see if the partner in each case wanted to double rather than bid some more. Another unusually interesting peculiarity occurred during the second sequence, when East kept his five-card major suit of spades, including 100 honors, hidden until he showed it above the game level at five.

With double-dummy defense, only eleven tricks could have been taken by each of the club declarers. But they both got twelve because of the opening lead, which was the heart 2 in each case. This enabled East to discard his lone diamond on the heart A. Notice that, if South had laid down his club A, North's high diamond signal would have brought a lead of that suit, to give the defenders two tricks in a trice.

More Notes On Humor

The present low state of American humor, not only on the air but — let's face it — almost everywhere, is not entirely the fault of the performers or of the humorists. A lot of the blame can be laid at the door of the public or, at least, certain broad areas of the public, which doesn't seem to want humor of the traditional sort or even to comprehend it.

John Crosby

In this connection, Jim Backus, who plays Joan Davis' husband on "I Married Joan," told me a story that was very illuminating. Backus had just been one of the featured entertainers at a big shindig in Cleveland celebrating the 75th anniversary of the founding of the Scripps Howard newspapers. Before an audience of some 11,000 people, Backus, whose home town is Cleveland, tried vainly to tell some jokes.

"But they won't let you tell a joke," he said. "I tried to tell that old one about the movie star. He makes $3,000 a week, has a beautiful home and swimming pool, takes Marilyn Monroe out every night and in 25 years he's a has-been. But look where he has been. Well, the moment I mentioned Marilyn Monroe, the audience went out of its mind. Screamed and yelled and applauded. I couldn't finish the joke. But no one seemed to mind.

"Then I started to tell some stories about my boyhood in Cleveland. I'd start out saying: 'I was walking down Euclid Avenue' . . . and that's as far as I'd get. At the mention of Euclid Avenue, 11,000 people would start yelling. After that, I just dropped street names. I'd say 105th Street — and the people would go crazy."

This is an inevitable extension of the deplorable habits studio audiences fell into at radio shows. If a line particularly tickled them, the audience would first laugh, then applaud. Then laughter was dropped altogether, as unnecessary, and the audience would just applaud. It has always seemed to me that applause is not a proper response to humor. If a man says something funny, I laugh. Applause is for other things.

Now, it appears, the audience is so anxious to get on with the applause that they won't tarry long enough to hear the joke. Just drop a street name or mention Eddie Fisher — and they're off. It makes things awfully easy for the comedians — but what will future generations think of us?

In the passage of years, humor tarnishes more easily than any other form of writing but ours is going to be hard even to pass on to future generations. Take, as an example, Oscar Wilde's bon mot: "A second marriage is a triumph of hope over experience." Through the years, it has lost some of its savor but, at least, it still makes sense. Now, just supposing 50 years from now, some historian of humor started prowling through our current humor files. He would come upon Jack Benny saying "Rochester!" in a certain tone of voice. And there would be torrents of laughter. Or Mr. Backus dropping street names as thousands cheer. Our future historian is likely to conclude we were a nation of idiots.

Not to take too dim a view of it, there are still some very funny things on the air that frequently hit you in unexpected places. I rather like this one which was related by Arthur Godfrey:

"There once was a small boy of eight years who had a slingshot, a half-dozen marbles, a broken jackknife, a partly eaten peppermint stick, 30 feet of twisted and knotted kite string, a live frog and three well-used handkerchiefs in his pocket. His mother told him to get rid of the stuff. He did. He dumped it all into her pocketbook and she didn't discover it for three weeks."

Or Herb Shriner talking about the new atomic submarine: "It only comes up once every three years so the boys can reenlist."

Sewer Easements Will Be Signed

Council this week authorized Mayor Roy W. Eves to sign a number of easements for new sewer lines on Bedford Street.

Thomas B. Finan, city attorney, pointed out that permission to install the six inch lines will mean free sewer taps for the residents involved but will not excuse the properties from sewer liens. The easements will be negotiated with Lynn C. Lashley, Arthur Friedland, J. Richard Kendall and Dr. Albert C. Eskin.

Permission to serve on the Police Department for another year was granted to Officer Luther Youngblood, who is over 60 years old.

CHRYSLER
SPECIAL SPECIAL

1951 CHRYSLER New Yorker Newport. How would you like to own the most sensational car in your area. To have an automobile with over 180 HP (and economical too); to be driving a beautiful deep rich red hard top convertible with customized Highlander Plaid interior. A prominent local man was the one owner and only drove 17,000 miles since buying this $4000 machine. Listing some of the equipment, it has large heater and air-conditioner — air foam seats — undercoated — backup lights — directional lights — 4 new nylon tires — wonderful power brakes — 2 speed electric wipers — safety rim wheels — and lest we forget the powerful Torque converter with 4 speed forward transmission. This car will be kept garaged but we hope to have you in for a view and a demonstration.

1951 CHRYSLER New Yorker Newport. How would you like to own the most sensational car in your area. To have an automobile with over 180 HP (and economical too!); to be driving a beautiful deep rich red hard top convertible with customized Highlander Plaid interior. A prominent local man was the one owner and only drove 17,000 miles since buying this $4000 machine. Listing some of the equipment, it has large heater and air-conditioner — air foam seats — undercoated — backup lights — directional lights — 4 new nylon tires — wonderful power brakes — 2 speed electric wipers — safety rim wheels — and lest we forget the powerful Torque converter with 4 speed forward transmission. This car will be kept garaged but we hope to have you in for a view and a demonstration.

Nobel Prize Winner's Son Killed By Train

BLACKSBURG, Va., Nov. 24 (AP)—The body of Prof. Greenough Thayer Richards, son of a Nobel prize winner, was found near here today on the Virginian Railway tracks. Apparently he had been struck by a train.

The 48-year-old professor, a brother-in-law of James B. Conant who is U. S. high commissioner to Germany, had been a member of the Virginia Tech staff since 1941. He taught architecture.

It's T-Day Again-Hooray!

By M. E. BYRNE
Written Especially for Central Press and This Newspaper

T-DAY IS HERE AGAIN!

The letter T in this case is a three-dimensional one—for it stands for Thursday, Thanksgiving and, of course—TURKEY!

Once again, the big bird with his treasure of succulent white meat and mammoth, juicy drumsticks is enthroned in his rightful place—the center of the dinner table.

It is most fitting that the turkey be No. 1 on the menu for the truly American feast of Thanksgiving for if there ever was an All-American bird it's this boss of the barnyard, Tom Gobbler, himself.

The turkey is more American even than the eagle on that coin you may or may not have in your pocket. While he is now raised and eaten in Europe and the other continents, the turkey is a true native of North America.

When the Founding Fathers were racking their brains trying to select a symbol for the then new United States, Benjamin Franklin suggested the turkey. Old Ben lost the argument, which, we think, is just too bad.

The real home of the wild turkey is the northeastern and middlewestern part of the United States but he is also to be found as far south as the Yucatan peninsula of Mexico and as far north as southern Ontario in Canada—quite a piece of territory.

• • •

THE TURKEY has two big points in his favor—size and flavor. As for size, young toms up to 25 pounds and old toms as big as 40 pounds are not uncommon. However, in these days housewives prefer 12 to 15 pounders—the average family size. Incidentally, President Eisenhower's Thanksgiving turkey this year is a 39-pounder.

The Bronze variety of turkey is the biggest and the chances are better than even that's the type you'll sink your molars into this year. Other popular varieties are the Black, Slate, Bourbon Red, White Holland and Narragansett. The other types are the Royal Palm and the Nittany—however, these are tommy-come-latelies to the dinner table.

While turkeys are raised in other parts of the world it is only in the United States where you'll find nuge flocks of demesticated gobblers running into the thousands. That's because of the nuge American demand for this great bird at Thanksgiving and Christmas.

• • •

THIS MOST appetizing bird has, naturally, a great appetite himself. Baby turkeys in this first 24 weeks of life poush off up to about 60 pounds of feed and will consume grain at an even greater speed as they get older. That accounts for their being the heavyweight champions of all barnyard fowl.

When it comes to his favorite food this patriotic bird is loyal to his native land. Turkeys, we're told, just dearly love yellow corn, which is as American as the Indians who first cultivated that grain.

While many turkeys still live in the wild state their domestication goes back many centuries. In fact, Indians raised them long before Columbus mistook America for India.

Which reminds us, it's time for a second helping—and please get a bit heavier on the white meat this time, thank you!

It's T-Day Again-Hooray!

By M. E. BYRNE
Written Especially for Central Press and This Newspaper

T-DAY IS HERE AGAIN!

The letter T in this case is a three-dimensional one—for it stands for Thursday, Thanksgiving and, of course—TURKEY!

Once again, the big bird with his treasure of succulent white meat and mammoth, juicy drumsticks is enthroned in his rightful place—the center of the dinner table.

It is most fitting that the turkey be No. 1 on the menu for the truly American feast of Thanksgiving for if there ever was an All-American bird it's this boss of the barnyard, Tom Gobbler, himself.

The turkey is more American even than the eagle on that coin you may or may not have in your pocket. While he is now raised and eaten in Europe and the other continents, the turkey is a true native of North America.

When the Founding Fathers were racking their brains trying to select a symbol for the then new United States, Benjamin Franklin suggested the turkey. Old Ben lost the argument, which, we think, is just too bad.

The real home of the wild turkey is the northeastern and midwestern part of the United States but he is also to be found as far south as the Yucatan peninsula of Mexico and as far north as southern Ontario in Canada—quite a piece of territory.

* * *

THE TURKEY has two big points in his favor—size and flavor. As for size, young toms up to 25 pounds and old toms as big as 40 pounds are not uncommon. However, in these days housewives prefer 12 to 15 pounders—the average family size. Incidentally, President Eisenhower's Thanksgiving turkey this year is a 39-pounder.

The Bronze variety of turkey is the biggest and the chances are better than even that's the type you'll sink your molars into this year. Other popular varieties are the Black, Slate, Bourbon Red, White Holland and Narragansett. The other types are the Royal Palm and the Nittany—however, these are tommy-come-latelies to the dinner table.

While turkeys are raised in other parts of the world it is only in the United States where you'll find huge flocks of domesticated gobblers running into the thousands. That's because of the huge American demand for this great bird at Thanksgiving and Christmas.

* * *

THIS MOST appetizing bird has, naturally, a great appetite himself. Baby turkeys in this first 24 weeks of life pouch off up to about 60 pounds of feed and will consume grain at an even greater speed as they get older. That accounts for their being the heavyweight champions of all barnyard fowl.

When it comes to his favorite food this patriotic bird is loyal to his native land. Turkeys, we're told, just dearly love yellow corn, which is as American as the Indians who first cultivated that grain.

While many turkeys still live in the wild state their domestication goes back many centuries, in fact, Indians raised them long before Columbus mistook America for India.

Which reminds us, it's time for a second helping—and please go a bit heavier on the white meat this time, thank you!

Trades Council Backs SRC Overhead Bridge

Rival Plans Outlined At Meeting

The Allegany Trades Council, in executive session last night at the council hall, unanimously went on record as endorsing the State Roads Commission plan for the overhead bridge to aleviate Cumberland's traffic congestion.

On a motion by Louis P. Kreps, business agent for Local 568, Iron Workers, the executive council voted to pursue the SRC plan with wholehearted support after having heard both the SRC engineers and other engineers proposing an alternate bypass.

Proponents for the alternate bypass, Kenneth K. Kennedy, Luke paper mill engineer, James Alfred Avirett, local attorney, and Benjamin W. O'Rourke, senior labor representative of the Municipal Planning and Zoning Commission, presented their proposals last night at a full council session prior to the executive meeting.

Avirett Hits Plan

Representatives of the States Roads Commission met with the Trades Council two weeks ago at the Frederick Street hall to present the Cumberland portion of the 12-year SRC plan for improvement of highways and bridges in Maryland.

Avirett, long opposed to the SRC plan, criticized the state's plan for building the $12½ million overhead span with connecting links with Route 40 east and the McMullen Highway.

Avirett claimed the SRC proposal to relieve Cumberland's traffic problem was a "magic thing" and in reality was a "great fallacy." He pointed out it was of no use to persons planning to go into the city but instead helped send more traffic over the city.

The lawyer claimed the cut from Route 40 at Evitts Creek down Central Avenue to the entrance of the overhead bridge would in reality isolate several sections of the city.

"The SRC bridge will help the express traffic through Cumberland but will not let people from North Cumberland get to South Cumberland by an east-west structure," he continued.

Says Cost Prohibitive

He also pointed out that a $2,500,000 loss in taxable property which he said the bridge would cause, would raise the city's tax rates so high that all efforts to obtain new industries here would be futile, claiming that over 150 properties and homes would have to be destroyed by the bridge right-of-way.

Avirett then said it would cost the city $187,000 per year to pay off the bonds necessary to finance the bridge.

The Luke engineer stated the alternate plan would embrace approximately the same mileage from Nave's Crossroads, over Bedford Road, along Shriver's Ridge, to intersection of Franklin and Holland streets, with a 200-foot span across the entrance to the Narrows across Route 40 west, the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad, Wills Creek and the Western Maryland Railway, along Haystack Mountain to Braddock Road.

The advocates of the alternate proposal put the cost of the bypass route at $5½ million, adding that the difference in that cost and the $12½ million overhead span could be put to use improving Cumberland's internal street system.

Extension of George Street west to Centre Street, lengthening of Canal Street from the Baltimore Street bridge to South Cumberland and the proposed Industrial Belt along Rout 51 from Oldtown was included in the alternate suggestion.

Aid Not Promised

When queried as to the additional cost of subways in Cumberland's low-level terrain and whether the SRC would allocate any funds to help build the subways, Avirett and his group were unable to promise SRC aid.

Fred B. Driscoll, Allegany County delegate, read to the session the bill which provides approximately $27 million for primary and second-

Man Shot Self In Head Twice Before He Died

Funeral Set Tomorrow For Boyd Sponaugle

A Cumberland man who shot himself Monday put two bullets into his head before he died, police said yesterday. They pointed out that faulty ammunition caused the unusual occurance.

The victim, Boyd Sponaugle, 55, of 509 Baltimore Avenue, died Monday night in Sacred Heart Hospital, where he was admitted earlier in the day following the shooting.

Lt. James E. Van, head of the Detective Bureau of the City Police Department, has completed his investigation and gave this account:

The shooting followed an argument at the Sponaugle residence. The victim's daughter, Mrs. Thelma Walker, told police she saw her father place a .38 calibre pistol to his head and discharge it.

Lt. Van said Mrs. Walker was standing on the front porch when the shooting occurred. Sponaugle's wife, Mrs. Sarah F. Sponaugle, told Lt. Van that during an argument her husband had struck her on the mouth. She left and went to the home of a neighbor. Shortly afterward, a shot was heard.

Remained Unconscious

The wounded man, who did not regain consciousness, was found sprawled on the floor with the upper part of his body in the front room of the home and his feet and legs protruding into the hallway.

After questioning various neighbors, Lt. Van said some had heard two shots, while others had heard only one. When the gun was found, two empty shells were in the chamber, one misfired round and two unused rounds.

Lt. Van surmised that the trigger was pulled three times before Sponaugle was actually shot. The first round misfired.

When the trigger was pulled the second time, a weak powder charge sent the slug to the end of the gun barrel, where it lodged.

Two Slugs Mesh

A close examination of the two slugs showed that they meshed, Lt. Van pointed out, and a slight bulge in the barrel of the gun disclosed the one round that had become stuck.

Edwin R. Lilya, county investigator, who also is probing into the shooting, said his investigation is incomplete. Assisting Lt. Van were Lt. Raymond R. Johnson and Officers J. W. Snyder and Luther Youngblood.

He was a son of the late Ashby and Catherine (Mullenax) Sponaugle.

Surviving besides the widow, Mrs. Sarah (Walker) Sponaugle, are six daughters, Mrs. Theresa Plummer, Mrs. Madeline Burns, Mrs. Lessie Aronhalt, of this city; Miss Thelma Sponaugle, Miss Betty Jane Sponaugle, at home; Mrs. Corda Izzett, city; four sons, Roy Sponaugle, Toledo, O.; Eldon and Emery Sponaugle, city; Claude Sponaugle, at home.

Two sisters, Mrs. Viola Teter, Flintstone; Mrs. Vista Rice, Baltimore; four brothers, Willie, Marlin, Glen Sponaugle, of this city; Robert Sponaugle, Pittsburgh; and nine grandchildren also survive.

The body is at the residence where services will be held tomorrow at 11:30 a. m. with Rev. Frederick J. Eckert, pastor of St. John's Lutheran Church, officiating. Interment will be in Greenmount Cemetery.

Births

Mr. and Mrs. William J. Reed, Newark, announce the birth of a son there Friday in City Hospital. The mother is the former Joan Powell, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. S. Powell, Romney. The father is a son of Mrs. C. James Mullan, 507 Franklin Street.

County Voters Number Fewer Than 42,000

20 Registered During October

The number of registered voters in Allegany County has fallen below 42,000 for the first time since just before the 1952 general election.

During October, 28 names were stricken from the list because of death or request of the registrants while only 20 new voters registered as the voting list dipped to 41,997.

The new totals as of November 1 include 41,502 white registrants and 495 colored. By parties, there are 23,567 Republicans (12,208 males and 11,359 females); 18,146 Democrats (9,439 males and 8,707 females); 208 who declined to state political preference (165 males and 43 females); 29 Socialists (19 males and 10 females) and 47 members of other parties (29 males and 18 females).

New registrants in October, according to employes of the Allegany County Board of Election Supervisors, were 10 Republicans, nine Democrats and one who declined to state party preference. The new Democrats included four men and five women and the new Republicans were equally divided between men and women. The one declining to state a preference was a man.

Those dropped from the voting books because of death included 17 Republicans (eight male and nine female) and eight Democrats (six male and two female). Names of three others stricken off at their own request included two Democrat women and one Republican man.

Meanwhile, the board registrars, Irvin J. Neat and C. William McDermott, report that 23,016 voters' identification cards have been mailed out, representing nearly 55 per cent of those registered. The latest mailing included cards to voters in Election Districts Nos. 8-1, A-H; 8-1, I-R; 8-1, S-Z; 8-2, A-J; and 8-2, K-Z, all in Westernport.

Those who would like to register so they can vote next June in the primary election may come to the Board of Election Supervisors office in the Court House basement between 9 a. m. and 4 p. m. Monday through Friday or between 9 a. m. and noon on Saturdays.

Fort Hill Band Parents To Open New Concession

Additional Service For Turkey Day Game

The Fort Hill Band Parents Association will open a new refreshment counter underneath the concrete stands at Fort Hill Stadium for the Thanksgiving Day football contest Thursday afternoon.

The new counter will supplement the refreshment stand already in use by the band group, Leonard E. Adams, president of the organization, said last night.

The addition is placed alongside the old counter and increases the number of serving windows from six to 12. The work was completed by the George F. Hazelwood Construction Company.

Adams, in announcing the opening of the new concession, stand, added that the association hopes to build additional service counters next year for use by fans who attend local football games.

The move to increase service will eliminate standing in line by customers ordering soft drinks, coffee, sandwiches and candy before and after the game and at halftime.

The association does not permit serving in the grandstands, Adams stated, because of inconvenience to the patrons. Therefore all refreshments are sold at the counters beneath the stands. Huge throngs at these counters have necessitated the extension move, Adams related.

This marks the 12th year of the Fort Hill Band Parents Association, a group which has grown from several parents packing sandwiches at home to sell at the game, to its present membership of 50 members, with permanent concession stands.

The association has bought new uniforms, music and instruments for the band this year and is chartered solely to support the Fort Hill High School band.

Trades Council Backs SRC Overhead Bridge

Rival Plans Outlined At Meeting

The Allegany Trades Council, in executive session last night at the council hall, unanimously went on record as endorsing the State Roads Commission plan for the overhead bridge to aleviate Cumberland's traffic congestion.

On a motion by Louis P. Kreps, business agent for Local 568, Iron Workers, the executive council voted to pursue the SRC plan with wholehearted support after having heard both the SRC engineers and other engineers proposing an alternate bypass.

Proponents for the alternate bypass, Kenneth K. Kennedy, Luke paper mill engineer, James Alfred Avirett, local attorney, and Benjamin W. O'Rourke, senior labor representative of the Municipal Planning and Zoning Commission, presented their proposals last night at a full council session prior to the executive meeting.

Avirett Hits Plan

Representatives of the States Roads Commission met with the Trades Council two weeks ago at the Frederick Street hall to present the Cumberland portion of the 12-year SRC plan for improvement of highways and bridges in Maryland.

Avirett, long opposed to the SRC plan, criticized the state's plan for building the $12½ million overhead span with connecting links with Route 40 east and the McMullen Highway.

Avirett claimed the SRC proposal to relieve Cumberland's traffic problem was a "magic thing" and in reality was a "great fallacy." He pointed out it was of no use to persons planning to go into the city but instead helped send more traffic over the city.

The lawyer claimed the cut from Route 40 at Evitts Creek down Central Avenue to the entrance of the overhead bridge would in reality isolate several sections of the city.

"The SRC bridge will help the express traffic through Cumberland but will not let people from North Cumberland get to South Cumberland by an east-west structure," he continued.

Says Cost Prohibitive

He also pointed out that a $2,500,000 loss in taxable property which he said the bridge would cause, would raise the city's tax rates so high that all efforts to obtain new industries here would be futile, claiming that over 150 properties and homes would have to be destroyed by the bridge right-of-way.

Avirett then said it would cost the city $187,000 per year to pay off the bonds necessary to finance the bridge.

Kennedy pointed out to the council the alternate plan devised by the Municipal Planning Zoning Commission.

The Luke engineer stated the alternate plan would embrace approximately the same mileage from Nave's Crossroads, over Bedford Road, along Shriver's Ridge, to intersection of Franklin and Holland streets, with a 200-foot span across the entrance to the Narrows across Route 40 west, the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad, Wills Creek and the Western Maryland Railway, along Haystack Mountain to Braddock Road.

The advocates of the alternate proposal put the cost of the bypass route at $5½ million, adding that the difference in that cost and the $12½ million overhead span could be put to use improving Cumberland's internal street system.

Extension of George Street west to Centre Street, lengthening of Canal Street from the Baltimore Street bridge to South Cumberland and the proposed Industrial Belt along Rout 51 from Oldtown was included in the alternate suggestion.

Aid Not Promised

When queried as to the additional cost of subways in Cumberland's low-level terrain and whether the SRC would allocate any funds to help build the subways, Avirett and his group were unable to promise SRC aid.

Fred B. Driscoll, Allegany County delegate, read to the session the bill which provides approximately $27 million for primary and second-

Man Shot Self In Head Twice Before He Died

Funeral Set Tomorrow For Boyd Sponaugle

A Cumberland man who shot himself Monday put two bullets into his head before he died, police said yesterday. They pointed out that faulty ammunition caused the unusual occurance.

The victim, Boyd Sponaugle, 55, of 509 Baltimore Avenue, died Monday night in Sacred Heart Hospital, where he was admitted earlier in the day following the shooting.

Lt. James E. Van, head of the Detective Bureau of the City Police Department, has completed his investigation and gave this account:

The shooting followed an argument at the Sponaugle residence. The victim's daughter, Mrs. Thelma Walker, told police she saw her father place a .38 calibre pistol to his head and discharge it.

Lt. Van said Mrs. Walker was standing on the front porch when the shooting occurred. Sponaugle's wife, Mrs. Sarah F. Sponaugle, told Lt. Van that during an argument her husband had struck her on the mouth. She left and went to the home of a neighbor. Shortly afterward, a shot was heard.

Remained Unconscious

The wounded man, who did not regain consciousness, was found sprawled on the floor with the upper part of his body in the front room of the home and his feet and legs protruding into the hallway.

After questioning various neighbors, Lt. Van said some had heard two shots, while others had heard only one. When the gun was found, two empty shells were in the chamber, one misfired round and two unused rounds.

Yesterday, while the family was moving furniture in the front room, the second slug was found under a chair in the opposite corner.

Lt. Van surmised that the trigger was pulled three times before Sponaugle was actually shot. The first round misfired.

When the trigger was pulled the second time, a weak powder charge sent the slug to the end of the gun barrel, where it lodged.

Two Slugs Mesh

A close examination of the two slugs showed that they meshed, Lt. Van pointed out, and a slight bulge in the barrel of the gun disclosed the one round that had become stuck.

Edwin R. Lilya, county investigator, who also is probing into the shooting, said his investigation is incomplete. Assisting Lt. Van were Lt. Raymond R. Johnson and Officers J. W. Snyder and Luther Youngblood.

He was a son of the late Ashby and Catherine (Mullenax) Sponaugle.

Surviving besides the widow, Mrs. Sarah (Walker) Sponaugle, are six daughters, Mrs. Theresa Plummer, Mrs. Madeline Burns, Mrs. Lessie Aronhalt, of this city; Miss Thelma Sponaugle, Miss Betty Jane Sponaugle, at home; Mrs. Corda Izzett, city; four sons, Roy Sponaugle, Toledo, O.; Eldon and Emery Sponaugle, city; Claude Sponaugle, at home.

Two sisters, Mrs. Viola Teter, Flintstone; Mrs. Vista Rice, Baltimore; four brothers, Willie, Marlin, Glen Sponaugle, of this city; Robert Sponaugle, Pittsburgh; and nine grandchildren also survive.

The body is at the residence where services will be held tomorrow at 11:30 a. m. with Rev. Frederick J. Eckert, pastor of St. John's Lutheran Church, officiating. Interment will be in Greenmount Cemetery.

Turkey Supplies Are Plentiful, Prices Lower

Roasting Chickens Will Be Available

Supplies of top quality turkeys and other delicacies for Thanksgiving will be plentiful in local markets, and the prices of most will be a little lower than last year.

A spokesman for local markets said turkeys for Thanksgiving are plentiful and that the quality of the birds will be good.

Prices will be two to three cents lower a pound than last year at most markets.

Small families, as usual, will have to pay a premium for the smaller turkeys, which will range in price from about 63 to 69 cents a pound.

Quality Is High

Medium weight turkeys will cost from about 61 to 65 cents a pound, and the heavy weight birds will be the biggest bargain with price tags of from 53 to 59 cents.

At one market, small and medium sized turkeys were two cents cheaper than last year, and large ones three cents less.

And the industry said all of the birds are greatly improved over varieties offered years ago as a result of improved breeds and feeding methods.

Chickens Available

Roasting chickens, the choice of many smaller families for Thanksgiving dinner, will vary in price from 39 to 59 cents a pound, and will generally be about two cents less than last year.

Oysters, either for soup or for use in the dressing, will cost about 85 cents a pint, the same as last year. Selects will cost about 10 cents more.

Cranberries will range in price from about 23 to 30 cents a pound, if you make your own cranberry sauce, or a can of prepared sauce can be purchased for 21 to 25 cents.

County Voters Number Fewer Than 42,000

20 Registered During October

The number of registered voters in Allegany County has fallen below 42,000 for the first time since just before the 1952 general election.

During October, 28 names were stricken from the list because of death or request of the registrants while only 20 new voters registered as the voting list dipped to 41,997.

The new totals as of November 1 include 41,502 white registrants and 495 colored. By parties, there are 23,567 Republicans (12,208 males and 11,359 females); 18,146 Democrats (9,439 males and 8,707 females); 208 who declined to state political preference (165 males and 43 females); 29 Socialists (19 males and 10 females) and 47 members of other parties (29 males and 18 females).

New registrants in October, according to employes of the Allegany County Board of Election Supervisors, were 10 Republicans, nine Democrats and one who declined to state party preference. The new Democrats included four men and five women and the new Republicans were equally divided between men and women. The one declining to state a preference was a man.

Those dropped from the voting books because of death included 17 Republicans (eight male and nine female) and eight Democrats (six male and two female). Names of three others stricken off at their own request included two Democrat women and one Republican man.

Meanwhile, the board registrars, Irvin J. Neat and C. William McDermott, report that 23,016 voters' identification cards have been mailed out, representing nearly 55 per cent of those registered. The latest mailing included cards to voters in Election Districts Nos. 8-1, A-H; 8-1, I-R; 8-1, S-Z; 8-2, A-J; and 8-2, K-Z, all in Westernport.

Those who would like to register so they can vote next June in the primary election may come to the Board of Election Supervisors office in the Court House basement between 9 a. m. and 4 p. m. Monday through Friday or between 9 a. m. and noon on Saturdays.

Fort Hill Band Parents To Open New Concession

Additional Service For Turkey Day Game

The Fort Hill Band Parents Association will open a new refreshment counter underneath the concrete stands at Fort Hill Stadium for the Thanksgiving Day football contest Thursday afternoon.

The new counter will supplement the refreshment stand already in use by the band group, Leonard E. Adams, president of the organization, said last night.

The addition is placed alongside the old counter and increases the number of serving windows from six to 12. The work was completed by the George F. Hazelwood Construction Company.

Adams, in announcing the opening of the new concession, stand, added that the association hopes to build additional service counters next year for use by fans who attend local football games.

The move to increase service will eliminate standing in line by customers ordering soft drinks, coffee, sandwiches and candy before and after the game and at halftime.

The association does not permit serving in the grandstands, Adams stated, because of inconvenience to the patrons. Therefore all refreshments are sold at the counters beneath the stands. Huge throngs at these counters have necessitated the extension move, Adams related.

This marks the 12th year of the Fort Hill Band Parents Association, a group which has grown from several parents packing sandwiches at home to sell at the game, to its present membership of 50 members, with permanent concession stands.

The association has bought new uniforms, music and instruments for the band this year and is chartered solely to support the Fort Hill High School band.
